BITTER COLD HERE ON WINGS OF GALE

Temperature To-day, Weather Prophet Says, May Fall to 5 Degrees Above Zero.

WIND CAUSES MANY MISHAPS

More Than 2,000 Homeless Seek City's Charity—Wind Reaches Velocity of 74 Miles.

A driving northwest wind and temperature which may fall as low as 5 degrees above zero are the conditions which New York will face to-day, according to the prophecy of the Weather Bureau. The temperature at 11 o'clock last night was 12 degrees above zero.

Conditions last night were extremely trying. Only those whom business compelled were about the streets. Even these persons—chauffeurs, teamsters, and others in like occupations—took advantage of every opportunity to seek refuge from the driving gale and the biting cold.

The abrupt change in weather conditions was due to a northwest gale which started early yesterday. The temperature at 7 o'clock in the morning was 29 degrees above zero. It fell steadily all day. The wind, rising in the early morning, gradually increased in force until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when it reached a velocity of 74 miles an hour for five minutes. It blew at an average rate of 60 miles an hour thereafter until 7 o'clock, when it began to moderate. At midnight it was blowing at the rate of 40 miles an hour. The forecaster said last night that the gale would cease this afternoon, but there would be no rise in the temperature until to-morrow.

The cold was so intense that many of the fixed posts were abandoned by the Police Department. Policemen in less exposed situations had to be relieved every half hour.

Among the fixed posts, which were abandoned temporarily, were thirteen in the three precincts on the west side of Harlem. They are all on Riverside Drive. Those at 132d Street and 153d Street and the Drive are said by patrolmen to be the worst in the city.

The benches in the parks and the open squares were vacant. Homeless men and women by hundreds sought aid of charitable organizations. At the Bowery Mission 400 men had applied for shelter before 9 o'clock last night.

City Shelters 2,000 Homeless.

Most of the cold and homeless, of course, drifted to the Municipal Lodging House, near the foot of East Twenty-fifth Street. All records were broken. More than 2,000 of the city's homeless men, women, and children, were cared for by Supt. Yorke and his assistants.

The lodging house was a scene of wretchedness and yet of happiness. Warmth, plenty of coffee, medical attention, hot baths, and a night's rest—these were the things for which the poor were grateful. Not one complaint of disorderly conduct was made.

"Right in this way," was the greeting for a group of twenty men who entered the reception room at 10 o'clock last night. "Close the door and warm up."

Radiators, piping with steam, ran the length of the wall. Few words were spoken. One by one the men drew up in a line which led to the registry desk. They all knew the rules. They knew that they had to give their names and ages—they had no address—and tell when last they had sought lodging.

"When were you here last?" was the clerk's question.

"Last night," was the usual reply.

While the homeless awaited their turn they looked through windows at others who were in the dining room. That was the next step, of course. Having passed the registry window they could go into that room. The clerk handed out little yellow meal tickets, entitling the holders to supper, a night's lodging, and a breakfast in the morning.

Long tables filled the dining room. Each man received two huge slices of bread and a tin cup of coffee.

There were fifty men in the dining room at 10 o'clock last night and four or five boys of 18 to 20 years.

The capacity of the lodging house was reached as early as 8 o'clock, when all of the 610 beds for the men and the 49 beds for the women and children had been allotted.

"Is every room taken?" asked the reporter of Supt. Yorke.

"All but a few," he replied. "We keep a few vacant, of course, always. Those are for the women and children. We could not send a woman or a child away on such a night."

"Where do the men go for whom you have no room here?"

"To the boats," replied the Superintendent, and just then he turned to a group of men who were awaiting their turn to be conducted to the "overflow quarters" of the Municipal Lodging House.

"All ready for the dock," he said.

An attendant then conducted the group to the pier of the Department of Correction at First Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street.

"They sleep on the benches," said the attendant, "anywhere we can find room for them. We try to keep them warm at least, but they won't get any beds, not at this time of night."

Alongside the Correction Department's pier were five of the city's passenger-carrying boats, the Thomas Brennan, the Lowell, the Fidelity, the Correction, and the Massasoit. The men in the group were conducted to different boats by guards. "There are some benches on the Lowell, away around," said a guard, and some of the homeless ran for the Lowell.

On the benches, in reclining chairs, inside and outside the cabins, the homeless stretched out. They wrapped their coats about them and tried to sleep, but it was cold even on the boats.

Schooner is Driven Ashore.

At the height of the gale the three-masted schooner, Thomas Winsmore, went hard aground on the east bank of the Swash Channel as she was coming into port laden with lumber from Charleston, S. C. When her distress signals were seen the Revenue Cutter Manhattan went to her assistance but the schooner was hard and fast on the east bank and the cutter could not move her. The derelict destroyer Seneca could not get within half a mile as the gale had blown water out of the channel. The tugs Guiding Star and S. L. Hommedieu went to the rescue later in the day and stood by the schooner. Capt. Beale and his crew of seven men were not in any danger it was said, last night.

The Red Star liner Lapland, from Antwerp, which arrived at Quarantine at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon with 900 passengers, had to remain there with two anchors down for the night, as Capt. Bradshaw did not think it advisable to try to take the ship to her pier in the teeth of the gale. She probably will dock early to-day.

One of the most tempestuous places in the city yesterday was the lower end of Broadway and State Street, where the

WOUNDED GERMAN INSULTER

Son of Godfrey Isaacs Gave a Lesson to a Man Who Abused Him.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 13.—It has just become known that Dennis Godfrey Isaacs, son of Godfrey Isaacs, managing Director of the Marconi Company, fought a duel and seriously wounded a German who insulted him while walking in the streets of Freiburg a month ago.

According to Dennis Isaacs, who described the incident to a Daily Sketch representative, the German bumped into him and called him a "foul Englishman." He would not apologize, whereupon Isaacs struck him across the face with a glove.

Cards were exchanged and four days later the couple fought a duel with foils. It lasted about a quarter of an hour the result being that Isaacs received a slight wound in the forearm and the German was seriously wounded.

Isaacs spoke of the affair reluctantly and refused to disclose the name of his opponent, who, he said, had now recovered and was on his way to America.

Isaacs is an expert swordsman, a pupil of Commendatore Agesilao Greco, the famous fencing master at Rome.

SERUM APPLIED TO BRAIN.

Philadelphia Doctors Inject Salvarsan to Check Paresis.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—A remarkable operation, the first of its kind ever undertaken in this country, was performed this morning at St. Mary's Hospital. It consisted of the direct application of serum to a diseased brain through holes bored in the skull. The patient, a man 51 years old, was suffering from paresis.

The operation was performed by Dr. Ellwood R. Kirby, assisted by Dr. Leo Wejczynski, Dr. George Kieffer, Dr. Edward Murphy, and Dr. Robley D. Snively.

"The operation was performed," said Dr. Kirby, "as the only method of dealing with paresis, which is a breaking down of the brain cells, marked by increasing loss of control over the muscles and deterioration of the mental faculties, and ends in hopeless insanity and death.

"Salvarsan, a compound of arsenic, has achieved a wonderful reputation for combating these germs in the body, but intravenous injections do not seem to reach the germs in the brain, as the remedy—to put it crudely—seems to filter out of the blood before it reaches the diseased cerebral tissues. This arsenical compound cannot be used directly on the brain or nervous tissue, although it can be injected into the blood.

"Two small holes were bored in the patient's skull, one leading to the right and the other to the left of the brain. Five cubic centimetres of the salvarsanic serum were injected into each brain hemisphere. This brought the powerful arsenical serum into direct contact with the germs in the brain, and for the first time in this country those germs are being attacked at the seat of the disease.

"The application of serum directly into the brain is a radical step, which is justified, however, by the gravty of the malady. As this operation was performed on a patient in an early stage of the disease, we expect a considerable improvement in his mental condition."

WOULDN'T LET QUEEN PASS.

Norwich Museum Official Demanded That She Give Up Her Umbrella.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Queen Mary had an amusing experience at Norwich during a private visit to-day to the Bishop, Dr. Bertram Pollock. Her Majesty expressly desired to see the castle museum. She was accompanied by Princess Mary, Prince Henry, and Prince George. The museum attendant did not recognize the Queen and refused to allow her to pass through the turnstile unless she gave up her umbrella. This the Queen did not wish to do.

The Bishop, loathe to disclose the Queen's identity, as the visit was a purely private one, tried to induce the zealous official to waive the regulation, but without avail. The Bishop ultimately was obliged to tell the man it was the Queen who desired to enter the museum.

Profuse apologies by the official followed this explanation and her Majesty passed the barrier with her umbrella.

DR. KELLY JUST CRITICISED.

No Charges Before Medical Society Because of His Cancer Talks.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 12.—No charges have been made against Dr. Howard A. Kelly on account of the interviews he has given about the cure of cancer by radium. Some members of the Baltimore City Medical Society sent to the Committee of Honor some clippings of interviews with Dr. Kelly. The committee sent these to Dr. Kelly, and he replied in "a very decent letter."

This statement was made to-day by Dr. Whitridge Williams, Chairman of the Committee, in connection with the report that Dr. Kelly would be required to appear before the society and explain the charge that he had been seeking advertisement for selfish purposes.

"The Committee of Honor will make its report Jan. 23," Dr. Williams continued. "The general feeling of the profession is that physicians and surgeons should not talk about operations which they have performed or work which they, as individuals, have done; but this is a matter in which the public is very much interested and which the newspapers have a right to know about. My opinion is that Dr. Kelly might have written a statement, that it might have been submitted to a committee of the medical faculty and given out as an official statement.

"Some reference may be made to Dr. Kelly in the report of the committee, just as reference may be made to other things."

BREMNER IS IMPROVING.

Cancer Patient, Treated with Radium, Able to Move His Head.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 12.—Representative Robert G. Bremner of New Jersey, in whose shoulder $100,000 worth of radium was placed to counteract a cancer, is said to be responding to the treatment so well that he is now able, for the first time in months, to move his head forward and back and from side to side.

WILSON PICKS TWO PARAMOUNT ISSUES

Anti-Trust and Rural Credit Legislation to Have Immediate Attention, He Says.

IS NOW IN RUDDY HEALTH

Due in Washington Early To-day, Ready for Hard Work—Message to Congress Next Monday or Tuesday.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT WILSON'S SPECIAL TRAIN, CHARLOTTE, N. C., Jan. 12.—Anti-Trust and Rural Credit legislation is considered of paramount and immediate importance by President Wilson, though the influence of the Executive will be exerted in behalf of other measures as well during the present session of Congress. Mr. Wilson indicated in a conversation with the correspondents aboard his train to-day that in the immediate future these two subjects would occupy the attention of Congress.

The President showed clearly that these reforms in particular had been on his mind during his vacation at Pass Christian, Miss. Besides sketching his trust message, whch will be characteristically brief, Mr. Wilson carefully studied the report of the commission that went abroad to study rural credits. He examined also a bill on the subject prepared by Senator Fletcher, Chairman of the commission. He said that he had written asking the Florida Senator to confer with him about it at the White House in the near future. The President remarked that he bill seemed sound in the main, though he thought some additions ought to be made.

In giving his attention now to the trust and rural credit questions the President feels that he not only is carrying the promises made in the party platform, but is fulfilling at the same time an informal understanding with members of the Senate and House who sought to bring the subject of rural credits into the discussion of the Currency bill, and to prohibit interlocking Directorates and other alleged trust evils by provisions in both the Currency and the Tariff bill.

While conferences on these questions have not all been arranged, the President is planning to devote the remainder of the week to consultations with members of his Cabinet and leaders in Congress. He will read his message to a joint session of Congress next Monday or Tuesday.

The President said to-day that he was unadvised on late developments in the Mexican situation. He seemed somewhat annoyed that Chargé O'Shaughnessy should have been drawn into the limelight recently in press reports that he was not in harmony with John Lind and the Washington Administration. The President had pointed out previously that when Mr. Lind visited him the work of Chargé O'Shaughnessy was mentioned only in the most favorable terms.

The train ride to-day was a restful one for the President and his family. Few stops were made, but at many of the towns and cities the special was run slowly, while the President stood on the back platform and waved his hat in response to the cheers. At Calhoun, S. C., the old home of John C. Calhoun, 800 cadets of Clemson Military College swarmed around the end of the train and gave Mr. Wilson a noisy welcome.

The President will arrive in Washington early to-morrow. He is looking better than in several months. His complexion has a ruddy, healthful glow, his step is brisk and springy, and he goes back to his duties at the White House in much better physical condition than when the strain of pre-inauguration activities in New Jersey brought him to Washington last March somewhat fatigued.

"I have had a real vacation," he told members of his party to-day with an air of keen satisfaction.

A delegation headed by Dr. John L. Caldwell, President of Queens College, met the special train to-night and invited the President to attend the 1914 celebration of the signing of the Mecklenburg declaration of independence, May 20. The President said that he always had thought that the President of the United States should not make speeches just to be speaking and that it had been a policy of his, privately formulated, because he did not wish to seem to criticise his predecessors in office, that he would not make address upon questions in which the entire nation was not interested. He said he would reply to the invitation soon.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 12.—Dr. Charles A. White of Danville, Ind., is in the city from Pass Christian, Miss., where he spent much time golfing with President Wilson. Speaking of the President this morning, Mr. White said:

"He is going back to Washington a new man. He is the picture of health and is greatly improved."

CABINET SESSION TO-DAY.

Will Hear Wilson's Trust Message—Two Anti-Trust Bills Introduced.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—In accordance with directions telegraphed by President Wilson, a meeting of the Cabinet has been called for to-morrow. It is the understanding in Cabinet circles that the purpose of the meeting will be to enable the President to lay before his advisers the draft he has prepared of his promised address to Congress on trust legislation. After his Cabinet has discussed the trust message, the President will call in Democratic leaders in Congress and consult them as to the terms of the legislation necessary to carry his ideas into effect.

Chairman Clayton of the House Judiciary Committee, upon whom the President will depend very largely for results, has been drafting bills in association with Representative Carlin of Virginia and Floyd of Missouri and other members of that committee. They have completed tentative drafts of measures dealing with the problem of interlocking directorates and other phases of the industrial situation. But no plans have been definitely perfected. This was emphasized to-day by the fact that two measures dealing with aspects of the question under consideration by the Clayton committee were introduced by members of that committee, both measures differing in certain essentials from the tentative drafts understood to have been prepared by Messrs. Clayton, Carlin and Floyd.

14 CITY BANKS READY TO JOIN THE RESERVE

Represent $1,027,685,600, or 74% of New York's National Bank Resources.

Most of the national banks in this city will hold their annual meetings of stockholders to-day, and it is expected that the question of joining or not joining the Federal reserve system will be brought up for discussion, as officers and Directors generally feel that the stockholders should be consulted, although the law authorizes the boards to act on their own initiative. In some cases the Directors have adopted resolutions favoring entry into the system, subject to ratification by the stockholders, and have given thirty days notice of special meetings to pass on the matter.

The Treasury Department in Washington has announced from time to time the names of banks in Greater New York that have expressed, either formally or informally, their intention to join, and in other cases similar announcements have been made locally by the banks themselves, the number of institutions included up to yesterday being eleven.

These eleven banks have aggregate resources of $670,310,500 out of a total for all national banks in the city of $1,384,128,000, or 48 per cent. Their aggregate capital and surplus is $126,648,100 out of a total for the city of $307,558,800. Their subscriptions to the capital of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, as required by the act, will be 6 per cent. of this aggregate, or $7,598,860.

Whatever may be the limits finally assigned to the district of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, it certainly will include parts of several States, but the capital furnished by banks in this city alone, on the basis of announcements already made, will be nearly double the minimum of $4,000,000 required by the act.

Inquiry yesterday among national banks here developed the fact that at least three other large institutions intend joining the system, and with these three added the aggregate resources of those going in will be $1,027,685,600 out of the city total of $1,384,280,000, their aggregate capital and surplus will be $227,484,800, or 74 per cent. of the total, and their capital subscriptions will amount to $13,649,088, more than three times the minimum required.

Since the question was raised as to the membership of private bankers in the boards of national banks, several firms so represented on Directorates have consulted counsel as to the interpretation of the clause in the act on which the discussion was based.

Some of the opinions informally rendered have put a very drastic construction on this clause, holding that it would prevent membership in the board of a national bank not only by a private banker, who might have dealings with the bank in relation to the purchase and sale of securities, but also of one who was a stockholder in a corporation which received from the bank interest on deposits or in any way whatsoever received any remuneration from it.

Other private bankers have been advised that the clause would operate only to prevent them from selling securities to a national bank of which a member of the firm was a Director.

Under the former, it would be practically impossible for a private banker to remain on any national bank board after the Federal reserve system is in operation, while the other view would leave them free to remain Directors, if they saw fit to do so, provided they did no business with the bank. This is the way the clause reads:

> Other than the usual salary of Director's fee paid to the officer, Director, or employe of a member bank, and other than a reasonable fee paid by said bank to such officer, Director, or employe for services rendered to such bank, no officer, Director, employe, or attorney of a member bank shall be a beneficiary of or receive, directly or indirectly, any fee, commission, gift, or other consideration for or in connection with any transaction or business with the bank.

In view of the somewhat diverse construction put on the clause by the lawyers, the question seems likely to remain a matter of doubt until the Treasury Department or the Reserve Bank Organization Committee gives it an authoritative interpretation. Under the more drastic opinion, in the view of a private banker who discussed the matter yesterday, the country banks are likely to have more trouble in adjusting their Directorates than those in New York.

"While the banks here could reconstruct their boards pretty satisfactorily," he said, "it is a fact that the boards of country banks are made up very largely of men whose firms or corporations do business with the banks from which they derive a benefit, such as drawing interest on deposits. If these men have to withdraw because they would participate in the benefits in their capacity of partners or stockholders, it would not be easy for the banks to fill their places with influential men not having such relations."

LIVED POOR AND DIED RICH.

Dudley Jardine, who lived for many years in apparent poverty in a Bowery lodging house under the name of William Smith, as told in THE TIMES in April last, left a net estate of $114,760, according to an appraisal filed yesterday in the Surrogates' Court. His gross estate amounted to $203,661. His bank accounts amounted to $2,215 and his stocks and bonds were valued at $201,411. A gold locket which contained the photograph of a woman and a lock of hair was appraised at $1 and a pin set with two small diamonds at $35.

One-half of his estate was left to distant relatives and the remaining half in equal shares to the Prison Association of New York, the Board of Home Missions, and the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, the Treasurer of the Woman's Branch of the New York City Mission and Tract Society, and the New York Protestant Episcopal City Missionary Society.

Mr. Jardine was the son of George Jardine, a well known organ manufacturer. Inheriting from his father a few hundred dollars, he amassed, through a series of speculations and investments, a fortune, the existence of which his closest companions never dreamed. To preserve his secret the better he assumed the name of Smith. After his death in Gouverneur Hospital on Feb. 9, 1913, his body was removed to the Morgue, and was awaiting burial in the Potter's Field when his identity was established, and the secret of his hidden wealth became known.

WARD LINER AFIRE AFTER ROUGH TRIP

Blaze in Cargo of Cotton Startles Passengers as Esperanza Nears Havana.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 12.—The Ward Line steamship Esperanza, from New York, which arrived here to-night, caught fire this afternoon, but the blaze was extinguished after fifty minutes of hard fighting in which the first, second, and third officers, Bombard, Bier, and Simmonds distinguished themselves by their bravery.

The fire started when the sixty-six passengers were sitting down to lunch. At first they thought a fire drill was in progress, but were quickly undeceived when, on going to the deck to witness the supposed exercises, they saw smoke pouring from the hold. Capt. Curtiss reassured them while the officers and crew tore off the hatch.

As soon as the hold was uncovered letting in the air, a mass of flame shot skyward. It was seen that the fire was in a cargo of cotton and hemp in No. 3 hold.

Dragging the hose with them the officers led the crew in the fight against the flames while Harrison, the wireless operator, got into communication with the nearest vessel. This happened to be the Royal Mail steamship Tagus, which promised to keep in touch until all danger was over. How the fire started is not known.

The Esperanza had a hard trip all the way from New York, heavy seas sweeping over the decks and injuring a number of passengers. Dr. G. E. Friend is suffering from two broken ribs and Eduardo Aguilar is severely lacerated and bruised about the body from being thrown against an iron railing. The storm compelled the vessel to lay to and she came in twelve hours late.

Among the passengers were Edwin Brown, President of the National Railways of Mexico and Capt. Evans, Commander of the battleship Nebraska.

TO CONTROL RADIUM LANDS.

Two Plans to Segregate Ore Deposits on Domain for Development.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Representatives Foster of Illinois and Ferris of Oklahoma introduced bills to-day providing for the segregation of any lands in the public domain upon which there may be carnotite, pitchblende, or other radium-bearing ores, and for their development by the Government. The Foster bill, the full text of which has been printed in THE TIMES, was prepared by the Interior Department, and indorsed by Secretary Lane. Mr. Foster, who is Chairman of the House Committee on Mines and Mining, said to-day that he would soon hold hearings, at which Secretary Lane and others would be heard. Representative Ferris is Chairman of the House Committee on Public Lands, and introduced his bill so that it might be referred to his committee.

It is evident that there is a slight conflict over the jurisdiction of the two committees. Mr. Ferris thinks the radium segregation bill properly belongs to his committee for consideration.

Neither bill proposes to interfere with any radium deposits upon lands not belonging to the United States.

T. F. RYAN PRAISES WILSON.

"Trust the President" the Best and Only Trust He Believes In.

Thomas Fortune Ryan appeared in the financial district amid the snow squalls yesterday with nothing but praise for President Wilson's success in getting the Currency bill passed by Congress.

"The whole country is proud of President Wilson," said Mr. Ryan, who seldom talks for publication, "for the masterly way in which he handled the most difficult situation and got results. I consider it the greatest achievement of any President since Lincoln. It would be unfair to him and unpatriotic generally to withhold the most hearty support of the great measure he has evolved and made a fact.

"The only trust I know is 'trust the President.' I am willing and glad to do that, and so ought everybody to be after what he has done. He is a great man and a great President, and the greatest thing about him is that he plays no favorites."

Mr. Ryan said that he hoped all the national banks would join the Federal reserve system, as the National Bank of Commerce, of which he is an important stockholder, had already announced its intention of doing.

MENOCAL'S NO TO BANKERS.

Will Not Extend the Time for Bids for $10,000,000 Loan.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 12.—President Menocal has determined not to consent to an extension of time for bids for the $10,000,000 loan, although prominent bankers have urged a delay of at least thirty days.

It is reported that the offer of J. P. Morgan & Co. to lend Cuba all the money needed until the loan is floated will not be accepted, as the Administration is not authorized to accept financial aid except by an act of Congress.

BURNED ALIVE UNDER 8-TON MOTOR TRUCK

Yaeger Was Repairing It When Caught in Its Gear and Held Against the Engine.

POLICE UNABLE TO FREE HIM

Under Torture Half an Hour When Passing Chauffeur Effected Release—Mortally Injured.

An eight-ton motor truck, laden with hogsheads of oil, was rumbling along Stanton Street at 8 o'clock last evening when it was halted through some engine trouble and Moe Yaeger, the young chauffeur, climbed down from his seat and crawled in under the huge machine to investigate. He was at this work when the cloth of his overcoat was caught in the revolving gear wheel and he was drawn up from the ground—drawn up against the hot engine and held there, wedged between two girders with the still revolving gear wheel grinding against him.

The bitter wind carried up Pitt Street his screams of pain, and the first to hear them was Patrolman Strojahan—the same Strojahan who found the dead body of a man in a trunk in Pitt Street. Strojahan peered under the truck—crawled under it, in fact—but could do nothing, so tightly was the screaming chauffeur wedged between the girders. He did not know what else to do, so he blew his whistle.

Rapidly, one after another, a string of policemen ran to the truck, five more of them from the Union Market Station. They crawled around the machine, and soon saw that the engine must be stopped, but they did not know how to stop it. They called to the chauffeur underneath and asked him how to stop the engine.

Probably he did not hear them. His screams lasted for ten minutes and then stopped abruptly. The policemen gathered about the truck knew then that he had become unconscious. One by one they took his seat in the front of the truck and pulled the levers, trying first this and then that, but could not stop the engine.

Some one had thought of firemen, and men from Hook and Ladder 18 came running from the house in Attorney Street. Their way is to chop a person free, but they could not chop away an iron truck.

Finally another auto truck came along Stanton Street and, pushing his way through the circle of helpless, shivering night school students that surrounded the policemen, the chauffeur of this other truck jumped to the seat that Yaeger had left and in a moment had stopped the engine. But that was half an hour after Yaeger had been caught up and drawn against the hot metal.

Even then the problem was not solved. To get him out the police had first to remove from the truck the fourteen hogsheads of oil. On the floor of the truck they found a trap door, and raising this, they were able to lift Yaeger from the position into which he had been wedged.

He was unconscious and covered with bruises, bleeding from mouth and ears and nose, and the clothing of his body, his overcoat, coat, vest, and shirts had been literally burned off where his back had been jammed against the engine. He was hurried in a waiting ambulance to Gouverneur Hospital, where the surgeons seemed to think there was no hope at all for his recovery.

Yaeger is 23 years old and lives at 336 Fourth Street. The truck belongs to Flohr & Harris, dealers in paints and oils, at 141 Grand Street.

MISS LADENBURG ILL.

Wealthy Young Society Woman a Patient in St. Luke's Hospital.

Miss Eugenie May Ladenburg, who is well known in New York society, is a patient in St. Luke's Hospital, suffering, it is said, from a severe cold contracted last Summer. She has been in the hospital a week, and it was said last night that her condition showed improvement. Miss Ladenburg last appeared in society at the wedding of Devereux Milburn and Miss Nancy Steele.

The young woman appeared in good health last Summer. Late in the season she went to Newport, where she contracted a cold. When Miss Ladenburg appeared at a series of entertainments given by her mother in the Fall in their home at Westbury, L. I., it was said that she was not in her usual good health. The cold could not be thrown off and upon the advice of physicians Miss Ladenburg went to Saranac Lake.

There was no improvement in her condition, it is said, and so it was decided to bring her here for treatment.

Miss Ladenburg's father, Adolf Ladenburg, was drowned at sea nearly nineteen years ago. She is now 20. When she is 21 she will come into an estate estimated at $10,000,000, left her by her father.

ICE INCRUSTS FLYING BOAT.

New Craft Designed by Curtiss Makes 100-Mile Speed.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMONDSPORT, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Traveling at the rate of nearly 100 miles an hour with the temperature close to zero, Raymond V. Morris of New Haven, Conn., made four flights here to-day in the smallest flying boat ever built in America. The cold was so intense that the spray and mist froze on the decks of the little craft as it sped over the water, but Morris said he was so well sheltered that he felt no ill effects from the cold.

This is the first monoplane flying boat ever built in this country, and its supporting surfaces are less than one-third the area of the average biplane. It was designed by Glenn H. Curtiss expressly for Morris. The hull is cigar-shaped. It has two layers of very thin mahogany wrapped diagonally around a basket-like framework of ash. Only the top of the aviator's head projects through the single small opening in the deck.

Lowell Observatory Reports Curious Phenomenon at South Pole.

Special to The New York Times.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Jan. 12.—The Lowell Observatory has noted that the Martian south polar ice-cap is beginning to form in the same curious manner as in 1911, by the deposits of hoarfrost over certain regions in latitude 60 degrees, longitude 30 degrees, and latitude 58 degrees, longitude 55 degrees.

This is quite unlike the aspect of the snow around the north pole, which shows a solid field of white, now in process of melting at its edge.

MANIAC KILLS SHIP SURGEON

Dr. Giannini, Italian Official, Shot by Emigrant on the Berlin.

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 12.—Dr. Giannini, an Italian Government official in charge of the emigrants aboard the steamship Berlin, bound from Genoa to New York, was shot and killed to-day by an insane emigrant named Cupertino. The maniac fired seven shots, all of which struck the doctor.

The body of Dr. Giannini was sent ashore here, but because of a local law the slayer could not be turned over to the land authorities. He will be taken to New York.

TRAPPED BY FIRE IN MINE.

Pumpman Perishes, as Does Employe Who Goes to His Rescue.

NEGAUNEE, Mich., Jan. 12.—Fire in the Negaunee iron mines of the Cleveland Cliffs Company to-day caused the death of John Beebe, a pumpman, and John S. Barrett, night mining captain. The fire was still burning to-night. The extent of the damage was not known.

The blaze started on the six-and-one-half level, 2,000 feet from the main shaft. Beebe, who was alone in the level at the time, gave the alarm. His escape was cut off. Barrett, who headed a rescue party, was overcome by smoke and died soon after being carried to the surface. Beebe's body has not been found.

BERNHARDT DECORATED.

Actress Wins the Long-Denied Ribbon of the Legion of Honor.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—At last the name of Sarah Bernhardt has eeen added to the roll of fame of the Legion of Honor. Her claims have been put forward several times before, notably by Aristide Briand when he was Minister of Public Instruction, but the influence of a strong element in French society prevented the famous actress from obtaining the decoration.

Among the famous women who are possessors of the red ribbon are Adelina Patti, Mme. Curie, the Baroness de Rothschild, Mme. Paquin, and Mme. Dutrieu, the aviator.

CALLS HIS ARREST ILLEGAL.

Slenzynski, Caught at Cherbourg, Reproaches French Police.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

Paris, Jan. 12—Josef Slenzynski, who was arrested when the George Washington arrived at Cherbourg, charged with theft committed in New York, protested against his arrest on the ground that the French authorities committed an illegal act in taking him while he was travelling under the German flag. The Russian Consul at Cherbourg promised to forward his protest to Paris.

Slenzynski is wanted in New York on a warrant issued by Magistrate Krotel, charging grand larceny in the second degree. The complainant was Henry Knopf, a violin dealer of 119 East Twenty-third Street, who charged him with the theft of a violin bearing the mark "Antonius Gragnani," and valued at $1,500. He was also said to have had in his possession a Guillaume bow.

Slenzynski is alleged to have obtained the violin on his assertion that he wanted it for a man in Ridgewood, N. J. He is a violinist and music teacher and has played in church orchestras; so Knopf gave the instrument into his custody without a payment.

VESUVIUS MORE ACTIVE.

Mr. Burlingham Says Volcano is Preparing for Another Eruption.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Ja n.13.—Frederick Burlingham, who recently descended Vesuvius and obtained a motion picture film, in an article in The Times says that Vesuvius is undobutedly getting ready for another eruption.

Last July the main conduit, which was obstructed as a result of the paroxysm in 1906, when over 200 persons were killed, suddenly opened and the floor of the crater caved in.

Before July the volcano was in solfataric condition. Now dense volumes of smoke are belching with ever-increasing activity from this new mouth, which is about 50 feet in diameter. Minor explosions have already taken place there, and the activity of the volcano is increasing faster than the observatory officials conjectured.

BUCK KILLS DEERKEEPER.

Gored and Trampled on Horon at Edwin Hawley Place.

Special to The New York Times.

BABYLON, N. Y., Jan. 12.—The body of Patrick Horon, 64 years old, deerkeeper for fourteen years on the Edwin Hawley place at West Islip, was found in the deer pen by Supt. John Williams this afternoon. The body was warm when it was pulled out. Two ugly wounds over the lungs indicated that an infuriated buck had killed the man. His face had apparently been trampled on.

The buck had killed all the other deer except one doe, with whom it mated. It was known to be ugly, and Horon had been warned to be careful, but he was not afraid and laughed at the caution. Horon's wife is a cripple from rheumatism and a daughter is ill with consumption. There are three grown sons. Miss Emma Cameron, who lived on the estate when the railroad man was alive, is the owner of the Edwin Hawley property.

MEXICAN REFUGEES WON'T BE SENT BACK

Government to Feed and Shelter 4,500 Soldiers and Civilians at Fort Bliss.

WILL COST $1,500 A DAY

Suffering Among Them Now—Charge of Harboring Mexico's Enemies Not Likely.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The rout of the Mexican Federal troops at Ojinaga and their consequent flight across the Rio Grande with many women and children has brought the United States Government face to face with a serious problem. The care of these refugees is to be expensive and may cause much trouble. Consultation to-day between officials of the State Department and the War Department resulted in the decision to quarter the Mexicans temporarily at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas, where they will be cared for, women and children as well as soldiers, at the expense of the United States Government. It is estimated that the expense entailed by this humane act will be $1,500 a day.

Brig. Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, Commander of the United States troops on the border, showed in a message to the Secretary of War to-day that he was deeply concerned over having a small army of helpless Mexicans on his hands. He suggested that the refugees be sent to Fort Rosecrans, at San Diego, Cal., where 700 Mexican refugees are now being housed and fed by the United States. Secretary Garrison and Acting Secretary of State, John Bassett Moore, decided to adhere to the policy of placing such refugees in camp at El Paso and providing them with food and shelter.

Gen. Bliss telegraphed Secretary Garrison that there would probably be 3,000 Federal officers and men at Presidio, the Texas town opposite Ojinaga, and, in addition, a large number of women and children. The non-combatants are said to number 1,500. About 1,000 horses and quantities of arms were brought across by the refugees.

The dearth of supplies at Presidio, which is sixty miles from a railroad, made it necessary, in the opinion of the army authorities, to move the refugees to Marfa, a railroad town. This small town is 3,500 feet above the sea, and at this time of year there is likely to be great suffering from the cold among the poorly clad soldiers and camp followers. On this account the suggestion of Gen. Bliss to move them on across the continent, a distance of more than 1,000 miles, to San Diego was not out of place, as the mild climate would obviate much hardship. But the cost of railroad transportation of more than 4,000 persons for that distance and the cost of subsistence during the journey would easily run up an expenditure of more than $100,000, and the plan was held to be unfeasible for the present.

Full Army Rations for Refugees.

The refugees will have one day's rations per head, which will be ample for three meals. It is, in fact, the same that is allowed in the United States Army. The cost of this ration is usually twenty-three cents.

How long the Mexican refugees will be cared for by the United States is as yet undecided. The practice has been to disarm combatants who flee to this country and detain them until they can be sent back into Mexico without great danger of being captured by their enemies. With the whole of Northern Mexico likely to be in the possession of the revolutionists soon, it would not be safe for the defeated Federal soldiers to cross to their own soil, and there is a grave prospect that it may be necessary for the United States Government to feed and shelter practically the entire force which escaped from Ojinaga until the present war is over.

From the point of view of international law, the situation concerning these refugees is peculiar. The State Department has never regarded Mexicans fleeing to the United States as "interned," but has looked upon them merely as refugees, and has thus sought to avoid, it was said to-day, a claim by the Mexican Government, after the cessation of the present hostilities, that this Government has harbored enemies of the existing Mexican authority. So long as neither President Huerta nor Gen. Carranza is regarded as a representative of a constitutional Government, this will be the practice.

Under a strict construction of international law, the problem is a serious one for the United States, but, as a matter of humanity, the officials here hold that there is no escape from the course that is being followed. To turn back the refugees would probably mean to deliver them for summary execution.

Officials See the End of Huerta.

There is hope in Administration circles that the rout of the Federal army at Ojinaga may have a decisive effect upon the entire situation in Mexico. With the flight of Gen. Mercado's army across the border, the Federals disappeared wholly from Chihuahua, the Constitutionalist plan of campaign may now be resumed, and Gen. Villa may proceed southward by way of Torreon, Saltillo, and Tampico to Mexico City. Three years ago when the Diaz forces were vanquished at Juarez, and Francisco Madero was in control of all Northern Mexico, the revolution ceased and Diaz abdicated. There is no such prospect now, but officials here profess to believe that the life of the Huerta Government cannot now be much prolonged.

The refugees at Presidio will begin to move over to Marfa, on the Galvston & San Antonio Railroad, whence they will be sent by rail to El Paso, 200 miles to the west. The distance from Presidio to Marfa is sixty miles, and the men will march, and the women and children, as far as possible, will be taken in ambulances and on horseback. Gen. Bliss reported that Major Michael M. McNamee of the Fifteenth Cavalry was kept busy in rounding up parties of fugitives in every direction. Small detachments were coming in every hour from down stream and above the town. It is believed that many refugees have tried to get away into the Big Bend country of Texas and thus escape being disarmed and held by the United States troops.

SUFFERING IN REFUGEE CAMP.

Women and Children Lack Clothes and Shelter—Red Cross Helps.

Special to The New York Times.

PRESIDIO, Texas, Jan. 12 (by United States Army Telephone to Marfa.)—The Federal fugitives from Ojinaga, who are being guarded here by the United States cavalry, are to be marched to Marfa, where there is a railroad, and where supplies may be obtained for them. Presidio is sixty miles away from the railroad, and it will be almost impossible to obtain sufficient provisions for them here.

All the sorrows of Mexico seem centred around the great fire of mesquite logs and cottonwood to-night. Here the women who must wait are trying to keep their little ones warm by holding them up to the blaze. These women do not weep, for their sorrow is too deep for outward evidence. Many have lost their husbands and others their sons. Many more do not know the fate of their menfolk, for families have been separated. Food has been doled out to these women and children meagrely to-day by a generous Government, for the pack trains have been unable to bring enough supplies from the railroad.

Those around the big fire are the most fortunate. Out in the thickets of the mesquite and tornillo brush are many who have been unable to find their way into the camps and are freezing with their children huddling close to them. Wounded soldiers who crossed above or below the ford are being cared for by these refugee women, heedless of their own sufferings.

All day the women who stayed with the men until the last gun was discharged from the Federal breastworks, have been coming into camp, their clothing torn by the underbrush and their brown faces from hunger. The cold of the mountain night is driving more, in and the capacity of the camp is exepected to be taxed before morning.

Mexican Soldiers in the Bull Pen.

Off to the river side of Presidio is the bull pen, as the soldiers of Uncle Sam call it, where the Federals who surrendered are ebing kept in a great corral, with soldiers riding around it. These men have no more fight left in them, and they obey the commands of the Americans like children. Their suits are the Summer slate-colored fatigue uniform of the Federal Army, and few have underwear or shoes, sandals covering their feet. They squat around the big fires or sleep on beds made of poles and brush.

To-morrow they will be herded and driven down the big road to Marfa, where they may be better fed and cared for. But to-night they are suffering with only a cold sky to cover them.

Mercado Bitter Toward Orozco.

In the middle of the crowd is Gen. Salvador Mercado, the man who gave the order for the evacuation. He blames Orozco, Rojas and Salazul for his defeat.

"Had the cowards remained with us," he says, "we should have won. But they deserted, and to save my brave men from slaughter I ordered the retreat. The women with us refused to leave until we did, and I did not wish to sacrifice innocent lives. We were almost out of ammunition, our men were overcome with exhaustion, and we preferred honorabel retreat to the American side rather than a dishonorable death at the hands of the bandits. I have no plans. I am in the hands of my friends, the Americans, and I am glad it is all over."

The Red Cross is making an effort to assist the army in the care of refugees. The hospitals are crowded, and the Red Cross doctors and nurses are also crossing the river, and are caring for the wounded in the trenches there. Villa offered to send over a herd of cattle this morning to feed the refugees, but the offer was declined, as provisions are now arriving by pack train from Marfa, El Paso, and San Antonio.

Villa's men are continuing to cross the desert to Falomir, and more than 3,000 left Ojinaga to-day. He will leave only 300 in the town to police it, as there is no Federal force in Northern Mexico to oppose him. He has abandoned the search for Orozco, Salazar, and Rojas, who are still missing. He believes that they are on the American side and in hiding. The town of Ojinaga is being policed, and the dead are being burned.

Villa expects to depart with his staff on Wednesday for Chihuahua and will go thence to Torreon to direct the attack on that town. His march South will not be without opposition, and he is taking a big wrecking crane to repair the bridges which the Federals are burning.

"My battle cry is, 'On to Mexico,'" the rebel General says. "I have no plans but to take Torreon and all the towns to the national capital. Once there, we will depose the traitor, Huerta, and return the republic to the people. Then will come the real reformation. Until he is out there can be no reform."

He says but little and this only to praise Ortaga, and Natera his associates.

Across the dirty debris-strewn Street squatted this same Ortega on his heels in a little grocery store. He had nothing to say. "Bueno," was the best he could do in describing the victory. Natera, another cowman turned revolutionist, was equally non-communitative. Both grinned when asked in Spanish for their opinion of the battle and both turned thumbs toward Villa across the way, indicating that he was the chief and would speak for them.

THE AFTERMATH OF OJINAGA.

Wounded Uncared For Until Red Cross Nurses Searched the Field.

Special to The New York Times.

PRESIDIO, Texas, Jan. 12, (via United States Army Telephone to Marfa)—Across the river from the refugee camp, high up on the mesa, the bright fires of the victorious revolutionists can be seen. On the trail from the top of the plateau to the river brink are overturned cannon, sabres sticking in the muddy crossing, and rifles, knapsacks, ammunition belts, and uniforms all the way down to the river. Behind a clump of cactus, is a broken Federal drum, with bloodstains on its gaily painted sides. Under a mesquite brush by the roadside, to which he crawled to die, is an old man of the mountains. His beard is matted with blood, and his wrinkled face has the peaceful smile of the dead. Some camp follower has erected a crude cross of stones and cactus thorns beside him.

In the trenches the Red Cross nurses went yesterday quietly about their business of succoring the living. Groans guided them to the place where a Federal was pinioned by a piece of a gun carriage which fell on him when his field piece exploded. His leg was shattered by the shell that wrecked his cannon, and his face was bathed in blood. As the doctors attempted to aid him another litter passed with the body of a woman who had been found in the trenches dead with her babe in her arms. The little one still lived, and sat contentedly by its mother's side and patted her face as if to waken her.

Dead and dying were everywhere. The burying squads moved slowly from trench to trench, shoveling down the sand upon the upturned faces, with their sightless eyes staring at the moon.

One of the Federal gunners dragged himself down the steep and rocky trail on his hands and knees, and would have been drowned in the river if he had not been rescued by American soldiers. He had his foot shot off and had received no medical attention since the rebel bullet struck him early Saturday evening.

O'SHAUGHNESSY SEES HUERTA.

But Interview Was Not Political—No Change of Policy Expected.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 12.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy's first official act after his return to the capital from Vera Cruz, where he conferred with the President's representative, John Lind, was to call on President Huerta. The Chargé d'Affaires later said that his conversation with Gen. Huerta did not include questions pertaining to the two countries and had no political significance. He added that he had asked the President to intercede in a case which had long been pending between the chancelleries and to obtain a letter of introduction for a friend.

Mexican officials appear to be convinced, by reason of the opinion expressed by Mr. O'Shaughnessy, that no change will take place in the general situation as a result of the conference between him and Mr. Lind, and look to President Wilson to continue his policy of letting the rebels and Federals fight out their differences without interference.

CARDEN TO GO SOON?

Visit to Moheno Starts Rumors That He Has Been Recalled.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 13.—Sir Lionel Carden, the British Minister, called this afternoon on Foreign Minister Moheno, accompanied by Consul General Stringer. Both refused to comment on the visit and Moheno also refused to speak. In the absence of all Secretaries of Legation, Consul Stringer, according to diplomatic usage, would become Chargé d'Affaires if Carden left here and it is generally believed in diplomatic circles that Carden has already been notified by his Government of his recall and presented Stringer to-day as Chargé.

Sir Lionel, when seen by fellow diplomats at the Palace this afternoon, did not mention his departure, although reported to be considerably depressed and uncommunicative.

SUIT OVER MEXICO CONTRACT

French Concessionaire Sues American in London.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—An extensive fisheries concession in Mexican waters was the subject of a legal action in the High Court of Justice to-day. It was brought by Count Raoul Marie Huchet de la Bedoyère, a French nobleman, against Léon J. Gabriel, described as an American engineer, to recover damages for an alleged breach of contract. The plaintiff alleges that he paid Gabriel certain sums for the concession, which was never conveyed to him. The question of the sanction of the Mexican Government arose, and the defendant denied that he had made any agreement to get the Government's consent to the transfer of the concession, and that it was the plaintiff's fault entirely that the scheme fell through.

Some discussion ensued regarding the advisability of obtaining evidence from Mexico by commission, and the hearing was adjourned.

JEWISH ARTS EXHIBIT.

Work of Bezalel School of Jerusalem Shown for First Time Here.

There are many things of great beauty and much interest in the exhibition of the old-time Jewish arts from the Bezalel Handicrafts School in Jerusalem, which opened yesterday in the concert hall of Madison Square Garden. This is the first time the work of the school has been shown in America, and the exhibition and sale (all of the goods are for sale) will continue until the 18th, and will be open from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M. London, Liverpool, Paris, Berlin, and Prague have all at different times had exhibitions of the work, but America has only known it as it has been visited by tourists who have brought back specimens. The Rev. Dr. J. L. Magnus brought home several trunks full of the beautiful things made by the Jewish workers which he distributed among his friends.

The school was started in 1906 by Prof. Boris Schatz, the sculptor, working in co-operation with the Zionists. It was started with a capital of $1,500, and has been enlarged until last year. It had an output of $75,000 worth of goods. The object of Prof. Schatz was to reestablish the old-time handicrafts, and to give employment to Jewish workers, in the meantime teaching them valuable trades. The school is pre-eminently for the benefit of the workers, and they all receive a living wage from the beginning.

The exhibition shows what has been done in rug making, old damascene work, filigree work, silver work of many kinds, and copper and brass inlaid with silver and semi-precious stones found in the vicinity of Jerusalem. There are many pretty things made of olive wood, such as paper cutters, which sell at 25 cents up. The rugs, in many of which are introduced Hebrew characters and symbolism, run up to $500 in value, and articles in the precious metals to as great value.

Things useful as well as ornamental are silver articles such as cuff links, brooches of unique design, chains with the semi-precious stones, cigarette cases, seals, bowls, spoons, and exquisite plaques and candle holders of characteristic old designs and beautiful workmanship.

Louis Robinson is the Chairman of the exhibition, and among the patrons are Victor D. Brenner, Joseph Barondess, Harold de Brist, Prof. Israel Friedlander, Gertrude Goldsmith, Isidore Hirshfield, Florence Levy, Dr. J. L. Magnus, Dr. De Sola Pool, and B. A. Rosenblatt.

DR. MARY McCLEERY DEAD.

Collapsed in Chair at Home While Complaining of the Cold.

Dr. Mary J. McCleery, who had practiced medicine for fifty years and who for twenty years had had her home and her office in the old brownstone front at 148 West Thirty-fourth Street, died suddenly of heart disease just before midnight last night as she was sitting in her rocking chair before the open grate fire in her living room. She was talking of the bitter cold and how hard were such nights upon the police and the firemen when she pitched forward in her chair, and her companion, Martha Collier, found her dead when she reached her side.

Dr. McCleery was 78 years old, and up to the very moment of her death she had seemed perfectly well. Yesterday she received six patients in her office. She was born in Warren, Ohio, a sister of ex-State Senator James McCleery of Ohio, who served as a Union General in the civil war. She was graduated from Oberlin College and from the Woman's Medical School of this city.

MEDAL CAME TARDILY.

Ray Won a Bride as First Reward for His Rescue.

A bronze medal and $25 in gold were formally presented at Police Headquarters yesterday to Edward Ray, a deputy complaint clerk, as a reward for his bravery in the Summer of 1912, when at Miller's Place, L. I., he rescued Miss Josephine Green from drowning.

This came as a second acknowledgment, for an earlier award was made a year ago when Miss Green became Mrs. Ray. They live now at 1,612 Tenth Avenue, Brooklyn, and he hurried home early to display the medal and money which came from the Life Saving Benevolent Association.

Henry Trowbridge, a former well known resident of Astoria, who died Aug. 29, left an estate valued at $199,626.78 in personal property and $5,000 real property according to affidavits filed with Philip Frank, transfer tax appraiser of Queens, yesterday. Three children, Frederick C. Trowbridge, Elsie B. Freeman and Mrs. Adele T. Freeman, each receive $65,733 while four grandchildren, Robert W., Henry T. and Alice T. Harris and Malcolm T. Freeman each receive $1,000.

STATE TO KEEP UP FIGHT TO GET THAW

Jerome Scouts Sanity Report and Is Ready to Carry Case to U. S. Supreme Court.

CARMODY BACKS HIM UP

Thaw May Seek Refuge in a Foreign Land—Will Be Arrested if He Returns to New York.

Unless Harry K. Thaw takes advantage of liberty under bail and flees to some country whence he cannot be extradited, he will find that the report of Judge Aldrich's commission that he is not a menace to the community or a dangerous person, has not ended his troubles. William Travers Jerome, who as a Special Deputy Attorney General is seeking the extradition of Thaw, asserts that the question of Thaw's sanity, or his right to bail, does not change the real aspect of the case, and if it is necessary the case will be taken to the United States Supreme Court.

There is an opinion that Thaw will take advantage of his bail to leave the United States. It was apparent from Mr. Jerome's remarks yesterday that the State was preparing for such a move, but Mr. Jerome said that was a phase of the case upon which he could not comment. He said to discuss it would be to frustrate his own plans. He was asked whether Thaw, fleeing into another State, could be rearrested. He would not say, nor would he give an opinion as to how far the action of a Federal court would hinder this State's action outside of New Hampshire.

"It must be understood that outside of furnishing Thaw a chance for a 'getaway' the report of the Aldrich Sanity Commission has no real bearing upon the issue involved in the case," he said. "The question involved is whether the Governor of New Hampshire acted legally when he granted extradition papers. This is the question which Judge Aldrich will settle within a short time. He now has the matter under consideration and he is playing a prolonged thinking part. It is upon his decision of that question that the case may be carried to the United States Supreme Court. I believe if it is necessary to appeal, the high court will say that Gov. Felker acted right in granting extradition, and Thaw will be brought back into this State.

"Thaw is under indictment for conspiracy preferred against him following his escape from Matteawan and if he is tried upon that charge and convicted he may be sent to prison and from there transferred to Matteawan. Another course might be followed. He might be readjudged insane and committed to Matteawan. This could be done even after he had been found not guilty of conspiracy."

Still Says Thaw is Crazy.

Mr. Jerome has not wavered in his often expressed opinion that Thaw was a hopeless paranoiac. He said that as such Thaw's restraint would be a matter of public safety. He said that if released Thaw might live quietly for years and then suddenly have another outbreak. Such an outbreak might just as well come after a few weeks of liberty as after years, and it might not come at all," he said. He believed the Aldrich Commission was not sufficiently enlightened upon the case to reach a conclusion. He thought that had the commission studied the evidence that had been brought out at different times, it would have refused to take the responsibility of setting Thaw at liberty.

"Of course Thaw has shown no signs of violence since he has been in the care of the New Hampshire authoritiese," said Mr. Jerome. "We didn't expect him to. Paranoiacs are not violent except toward the objects of their delusions.

"Thaw was not violent in Matteawan. Not one in twenty of the paranoiacs confined there—and Matteawan holds more paranoiacs than any other institution of the kind in the country—is violent except toward the objects of his delusions. Certainly Thaw is quiet now, but put him in a room with his wife, Dr. Flint, De Lancey Nicoll and Dr. Allan McLane Hamilton, and see whether he will not grow violent. Up in New Hampshire he is away from those against whom he harbors delusions. He has nothing against his keepers. They have been good to him."

As illustrating how the guards had acted toward Thaw, Mr. Jerome said that before the extradition proceedings began Thaw got in a hurry to reach his hotel. He ran out quickly and swung aboard a passing car. It was well on the way before Thaw discovered that he was no longer guarded. He went back to find those who were "guarding" him.

"Do you think Thaw will escape from the State of New Hampshire?" Mr. Jerome was asked.

"I hardly think he has sense enough for that," he replied.

Mr. Jerome is anxious to have Judge Aldrich come to a decision upon the question of the right to extradite. He thinks the Judge has been a long time playing a "thinking part."

"On Dec. 17 the Judge granted us thirty days in which to file briefs," said Jerome. "I told him I could do it in four days. I have long since filed my briefs. If the Judge wants oral argument in addition to those submitted I am ready to go up there and represent the State. It seems to me, however, that the question of whether or not the extradition was legal ought to be decided by any good lawyer within twenty-four hours."

Not Afraid of Thaw.

Mr. Jerome added that while he disliked to see a dangerous man turned loose he did not fear any violence from Thaw, and he commented upon the fact that he was animated by no personal motive, as so many persons seemed to believe.

"I have acquired a great deal of information about this case that could not be acquired by any one else without a vast amount of work," he went on. "In addition, there is a trunk full of exhibits, of which no record has been made. I have the ins and outs of the case in my head, which no one else could bring to the State's aid. I want to say that whoever wants this job of mine is welcome to it."

Three Judges of General Sessions, who would not allow their names to be used, said that if Thaw should return here he could not be arrested upon the old homicide charge, but that he could be arrested upon the strength of the bench warrant in the conspiracy charge. It was advanced that Thaw could be confined in the penitentiary for a year, conspiracy being a misdemeanor carrying that penalty. If a charge of insanity was brought against him on account of his actions while in confinement, a commission would have to be appointed and the whole question of his mental condition taken up as a new case.

District Attorney Whitman would not comment upon the Thaw case. It was a matter, he said, that was in the hands of the State.

JOB SEEKERS RIOT, STORM FORD PLANT

Icy Stream from Fire Hose Twice Turns Back 12,000 Attracted by Profit-Sharing Plan.

BREAK FACTORY WINDOWS

Throng Unmanageable After Standing Hours in Blizzard — Dodges Quitting Ford to Go It Alone.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 12.—Henry Ford's $10,000,000 profit-sharing plan, including the eight-hour day and a minimum wage of $5 a day, went into effect to-day at the big Ford automobile works. Twelve thousand men, more than congregated around the plant on any day last week, celebrated the event with a rush on the plant which resulted in a riot and the turning of a fire hose on the crowd in weather but little removed from zero. About 3,000 of the men were drenched. An hour later the crowd formed again, and once more the icy water was turned on.

The line at the employment office of the company began to form at 10 o'clock last night in spite of a blizzard and the probability that the temperature would crowd the mercury to the zero mark before morning. The applicants for work tried to get near the buildings to be shielded from the fierce northwest gale. The police tried to keep them away, but their efforts were futile. One of the policemen was well mauled in the attempt.

This was the only disorder until 8 o'clock this morning, when the day shift of Ford workmen were to come on. The path to the works was blocked. Police efforts to clear a way were futile. As a last resort, the police got out the hose. Those in the front rank got the water full in the face. Employes jammed in among the job seekers had to take it with the rest. Those first drenched could not retreat because of the pressure behind. The water then was directed further back.

That started the riot. Bricks and other missiles began to fly. Most of them were aimed at the officers who handled the hose, but many went through windows of the plant. In their icy garments the rioters could not face the situation long, however, and soon they broke for shelter. Then the Ford employes were singled out and permitted to enter the factory.

As soon as the job hunters had dried or changed their clothing they came back. They had armed themselves with various sorts of missiles, and straightway began a bombardment of the factory, considerable damage being done. The fire hose reappeared, with the same result as before.

Temper of Crowd Shown Early.

The crowd was not so good-natured as last week's gatherings. The weather had its effect and hope of success was not so great to-day. The temper of some in the crowd was shown late last night when men attacked Policeman Smith and tore his uniform, snatched away his revolver, club, and handcuffs, and were fighting hard when help arrived for Smith.

When the Ford employes began to appear in large numbers to go to work they found the street congested. The police were holding back the job-seekers so as to leave a lane for the employes, but the latter arrived so rapidly that they soon filled all the space left, and the job-holders and job-seekers were thoroughly mingled. The Ford employes wore little badges, but as the dense crowd jammed toward the single door that was open the police found it difficult to keep the job-seekers out.

Soon there was such a congestion that no one could move. The police shouted orders until they were hoarse, but without effect. Then they threatened the crowd with the fire hose, but the crowd would not listen. The job holders kept pressing forward and the job seekers clung to them. Many could not do otherwise because of the enormous pressure on them from behind.

Then the police turned on the water, and employes, job seekers, and police officers themselves were drenched. Scrambling backward the crowd overturned the lunch, cigar, and other stands across Manchester Avenue. Some men, drenched and angry, picked up bricks, stones, and bottles and hurled them at the hose users. Many of these missles went through the factory windows.

Had to Stand and Take It.

The men in front received the streams full in their faces. The water then was thrown upon those directly in the rear, then those still further back. Threatening cries arose from the men in the extreme rear. They resented the action of the police and endeavored to press forward. This held those within the reach of the hose in their positions. There was no escape for the water-soaked thousands.

It was fully fifteen minutes before those in front were able to return and force their way out of reach of the hose. Their garments then were frozen stiff. There was a hasty retreat to shelter.

While the crowd was dispersing Lieut. McLaughlin and Capt. Reardon came upon five men who, they declare, were inciting an armed rush upon the plant. The officers say they heard the men discuss plans for the attack, each to lead as large a following as he could collect. The men were taken by surprise, handcuffed, and taken to the police station. None carried a revolver, but long-bladed knives were found in their possession.

When the crowd had backed off to a safe distance the Ford workers were permitted to come up again, and other doors to the factory were opened, so that they soon were at work. By 10 o'clock there were only a few hundred job-seekers left walking about in the cold, wind-swept streets.

Peace was only temporary, however. As soon as the men had dried out their clothing, or had changed clothing, they came back, apparently looking for revenge. Some bombarded the factory with missiles, while others raided the eating places across Manchester Avenue from the plant, confiscating and consuming everything edible, then smashing the frame buildings in which the "hot dog" places held forth and building fires out of the kindling.

About this time the fire hose reappeared, resulting in a second dispersal. The foreign element is blamed for the riot. Much shouting and exhortation in foreign tongues was heard.

Fear Further Trouble To-Day.

More trouble is expected to-morrow. It is the belief of the police that a campaign to rush the factory is being organized, and that the foreigners mean to get inside the plant at any cost in the morning, believing that once there they will be put to work.

The plan of the Dodge Brothers to withdraw from the Ford Company and manufacture a car of their own will not be checkmated by the Ford profit-sharing scheme. John F. Dodge has $12,000,000 in cash in bank. His brother is believed to have about the same amount. Their holdings in the Ford Motor Company are worth at least $20,000,000 and can be sold for that. So the loss of a million dollars in Ford dividends this year may not bother them much. The Duke car will have a 138-inch wheel, and will be one of the largest on the market. The Dodges have a big plant started and machinery for it is being made now.

Helen Keller, in Detroit to-day, was asked through her teacher, Mrs. Macey, what she thought of Henry Ford's statemen that women were not included in his profit-sharing plan because they were not sufficient economic factors.

"I think it is foolish," she replied. A moment before she had commended the general plan, saying that unless other industrial concerns crushed Ford out it meant the beginning of a wide profit-sharing movement.

ranks next to Chairman Clayton in seniority on the Judiciary Committee, introduced a bill making only "unreasonable" restraint of trade subject to the prohibitions of the Sherman law. Representative McCoy of New Jersey introduced his bill for the regulation of bank directorships and prohibiting bank interlocking directorates.

The Webb bill proposes to amend the first section of the Sherman law by providing that every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, conspiracy "or agreemeent, whether written, oral, or otherwise," in restraint of trade or commerce, "or any part of trade or commerce" among the States or with foreign nations, be declared illegal "unless the persons entering in such agreement, &c., shall affirmatively show upon an indictment or civil action for violation of this section that such contract, combination in the form of a trust, conspiracy, or agreement in restraint of trade or commerce, or any part thereof does not injure the business of any competitor, and that such contract, conspiracy, or agreement is not to the detriment of the public, and that such restraint of trade or commerce or any part thereof is not unreasonable."

The McCoy bill provides that after Dec. 23, 1914, an officer or Director of a Federal reserve bank, branch bank, national bank, or banking association, or of any State bank or banking association, or trust company, admitted to membership in a Federal reserve bank, shall not be an officer or Director of any other bank, banking association, or trust company, or of any other financial corporation, institution, or association engaged in the business of banking; nor shall he engage in the banking business individually, or as a member of a firm or association engaged in such business; nor shall he be an officer or Director of any other corporation, organization, or association the principal part of whose authorized or actual business is to buy, sell, or hold the stock, bonds, securities, or evidence of indebtedness of corporations, organizations, or associations, or to finance the sale of such stock, bonds, securities, or evidences of indebtedness, or to negotiate loans to corporations, organizations, or associations; nor of any other corporation, organizatin, or association owning stock of or any interest in a corporation, organization, or association conducting such authorized or actual business. A Director of Class A of a Federal reserve bank may be an officer or a Director, or both an officer and a Director, of any member bank.

ATTACKS THE FORD CO.

Dr. Shaw Says Women Should Be Included in Profit-Sharing.

An audience which nearly filled the Brooklyn Academy of Music listened last night to addresses in favor of the vote for women by Bourke Cockran, Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, and John Sherman Crosby. Dr. Shaw made an attack on the Ford Motor Company for not including woman employes in its profit-sharing scheme.

"I have learned," she said, "that the reason they give for leaving out women is that they say that women employes do not constitute an economic factor in the business. Well, if that is the case, why under the sun do they employ women? The reason that they have women employes is that they add a value to the business. They are certainly an economic factor, or the firm would not employ them.

"Well, another reason that they give is that women as a rule only remain in their employment a short time and then leave it to get married. Well, what of that? They do not share in the benefits of the profit-sharing system after they have left to be married.

"The plain fact is that this discrimination against women could never have happened if the discrimination had not been embodied in our civil laws and institutions for centuries. The denial to women of the right to participate in the government is plainly the cause of this injustice. Without the political brand that women bear women would not to-day suffer so unjustly from an economic brand."

Bourke Cockran said that he regarded giving votes to women not as conferring a favor on women, but as imposing on them a duty to be exercised not for their own benefit, but for that of the entire body politic. He said that in the last fifty years American democratic institutions had fallen into discredit; that our Government was no longer a democracy, but a class Government; that while more than half a century ago nearly all Europe regarded it as a model to-day it was in dispute in Europe and was regarded as a failure. Woman's suffrage, he said, was the last hope of democracy. In giving the ballot to women he declared that democracy was playing its last card and making a last effort to save itself from a transition into class government and ultimate failure.

"DYNAMITE," CRIES STEFFENS.

Tells Suffragists Women Should Not Hesitate to Destroy.

An "Authors' Evening" at Cooper Union last night, under the auspices of the Woman Suffrage Party organization of the Twenty-fifth Assembly District, Mrs. Paula Jacobs leader, was a great success. All but two of the authors were promptly on hand. Richard Le Gallienne had a cold and telegraphed his regrets, and Edna Ferber was ill and could not come. They and many others sent autographed books which were auctioned off at the close of the meeting by Frederic C. Howe and Marie Jennie Howe.

The programme was interesting from its variety. Most of the authors decided at the last moment to do something that was not down on it. Edwin Markham, who was to open the meeting with a poem, "A Song to Divine Woman," told instead "How Jacques Kept His Bargain." Percy MacKaye read a poem which he had written for the occasion the night before instead of a scene from the "Scarecrow." A suffrage poem intended to be sung as a chorus to the tune of "John Brown's Body" ended to the applause of the audience with the words "when mothers of men are free."

Charlotte Perkins Gilman read a jolly little poem with a suffrage moral, "The Storks," instead of the one for which she was down, and Ellis O. Jones kept the audience in roars of laughter in talking upon "Refutations," which did not refute anything. W. E. Burghardt Du Bois read "The Woman in Black," and Arturo Giovannitti gave "The Lost Gospel," both following the programme.

"If I was treated as the women in England are," said Lincoln Steffens, "I should dynamite something besides buildings."

Miss Elizabeth Freeman, sitting on the platform, applauded with appreciative smiles. She has been in prison with the English suffragettes.

If the women here really want the franchise and are ready to work for it they should not hesitate as to methods, Mr. Steffins told them.

"Let them destroy buildings, let them destroy anything they want to destroy," he said. "Women should learn to understand other groups fighting for what they want too. They should understand labor. Labor may have to kill some one to get what it wants, and the women must try and understand. Forms of force are all wrong, but all are necessary."

"The worst thing about woman suffrage," said Will Irwin, "is that there is no argument against it."

William Hard made a humorous Chairman. There was a large audience, and the big tableful of autographed books sold at good prices. John Luther Long's book "War," had the inscription: "War, my contribution to the suffrage cause."

WANT RAILWAYS PAID MORE.

Springfield, Mass., Board of Trade on Parcel Post Readjustment.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 12.—The Directors of the Springfield Board of Trade to-day passed resolutions bearing upon the upbuilding of the railroads in New England.

The resolutions set forth "that the United States Government should establish at once a more equitable basis of payment to railroads for carrying the parcel post and that we request our Representatives in Congress to use all efforts to bring about this readjustment; and that the public should be willing to recognize the existing conditions and to co-operate to the fullest extent."

SUBWAY EQUIPMENT EXEMPT

Franchise Tax Does Not Apply to New Routes, Carmody Holds.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 12.—Under an opinion rendered to-day by Attorney General Carmody to the State Board of Tax Commissioners, subways and their equipment owned by New York City are not subject to the special franchise tax law. The opinion is based upon a recent decision of the Court of Appeals and will have an important effect upon the tax assessments levied on the subway system of New York City.

The Tax Commissioners had placed a tentative valuation for special franchise tax purposes upon the electrical equipment of the New York Municipal Railway Corporation, which is constructing subways in New York City under a contract entered into last March with the city authorities and the Public Service Commission. This contract leases the subways to the companies for fifty years, after which the equipment becomes the property of the city.

Little Virginia Meyer will dance and Miss Ruth Draper will give a monologue. Matthew Love of Cyril Maude's company will be seen in impersonations. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. William Woodward, Mrs. Arthur Iselin, and Mrs. Payne Whitney.

KINTORE PROMISES A BRITISH EXHIBIT

Union Jack Will Fly Over a Worthy Section at Panama Fair in Any Case, He Says.

HOPES IT WILL BE OFFICIAL

Leaving Nothing Undone—Committee on 100 Years Peace Honors Visitor.

The Earl of Kintore, Chairman of the the Executive Committee of the Anglo-American Exposition, which will be held in London next Summer to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Ghent, said last night at a dinner given in his honor at the Hotel Plaza, that he was very hopeful that Great Britain would be represented officially at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in California. A committee of which he was the representative, he said, was bending every effort to bring this about, and he read this cablegram, which he had just received from H. S. Perris, Secretary of the committee in London:

> British Committee for hundred years peace sends cordial wishes success your mission to America. Trust American exhibitors will warmly support London exhibition this year. We are leaving no steps unturned to secure proper British representation at San Francisco.

The dinner last night was given by the American Committee for the Celebration of the One Hundredth Anniversary of Peace Among English-speaking Peoples. John A. Stewart was toastmaster in the absence of Job E. Hedges, and the speakers included. Dr. Albert Shaw, Alton B. Parker, George W. Wickersham, ex-Attorney General; Dr. W. P. Wilson, Oscar S. Straus, Robert C. Morris, and Ludwig Nissen. Others at the guest table were George Foster Peabody, Seth Low, Henry Clews, Imry Kiralfy, Bernard N. Baker, and Sereno S. Pratt.

In speaking of the Anglo-American Exposition, Lord Kintore said:

"We are particularly anxious to see the wonderful welfare work you have done and are doing every day, such work as the United States Steel Corporation, the National Cash Register Company, and many of your other large corporations are doing, and in particular the Ford Motor Company and its profit-sharing plan recently announced by Mr. Ford.

"We are happy to announce that the committee of which I have the honor to be the Chairman has decided to hand over the first $200,000 of the profits of the Anglo-American exposition to the American and British Centenary of Peace Committee to be devoted to scholarships and prizes in commercial education in equal proportion to both countries.

"Lastly, I am sure you will be glad to know that every one of our active working committees have pledged themselves to support the Panama-Pacific Exposition and work equally hard for the organization of an adequate British participation there should the occasion arise. Whether the British Government is there officially or not, we are determined that the union jack shall float over a British section worthy of an exhibition held in celebration of a work carried on by American engineers, the greatest achievement of all time.

"We are in earnest hope that the British Government may reconsider their decision, but we are prepared for emergencies, and should the necessity arise the whole of our most complete organization stands ready to start active work upon the request of our two American committees."

Lord Kintore then read this telegram which he had received from James Ralph, Jr., Mayor of San Francisco:

> In behalf of San Francisco permit me to extend welcome and greeting to you across the continent. We on this western shore deeply appreciate the great work done by yourself and the British committees toward the participation of your country at our exposition in 1915. To you we extend our thanks and our best wishes for the success of the Anglo-American Exposition.

The Duke of Connaught in a telegram said:

> I should not like your dinner of Jan. 12 to take place without a message from myself as patron of the Anglo-American Exposition. Please convey to the American Peace Centenary Exposition Committees an expression of my most cordial good will.

Other messages were from Lord Weardale, Mayor Rose of Los Angeles, and the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Wickersham said that official recognition by the British Government of the Panama-Pacific Exposition would add a dignity to the exhibit which this country would regret to have missing.

"Therefore we welcome Lord Kintore cordially. We take him as the best in British life," said Mr. Wickersham, "and we find in his presence here an expression of hope that Great Britain, in the last analysis, will not hold from us official recognition at the exposition."

Among those invited to the dinner were Viscount Deerhurst, Austen G. Fox, E. R. L. Gould, Hamilton Holt, Robert U. Johnson, George F. Kunz, James S. Preston, Calvin W. Rice, Prince Sapieka, Isaac N. Seligman, James B. Stewart, Benjamin F. Tracy, Frederick W. Whitridge, and F. W. Woolworth.

TURKEY WILL EXHIBIT.

Panama Fair Commissioners Are Successful at Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 12.—Calvin B. Brown of Chicago and Col. Walter P. Andrews and Thomas Rees of Washington, D. C., the Commissioners appointed by President Wilson to invite the Mediterranean and Balkan States to participate in the Panama-Pacific Exposition, who recently succeeded in enlisting Greek support, have now secured Ottoman co-operation in the fair.

Henry Morgenthau, United States Ambassador to Turkey, to-day introduced the Commissioners to the Minister of Commerce and Agriculture, who promised them that Vahan Cardashian, the Turkish financial representative at New York, would receive the full support of this Government in the construction of the Turkish section of the exposition.

The Commissioners will proceed from Constantinople to Bucharest, Belgrade, and Sofia for the purpose of inducing the Rumanian, Servian, and Bulgarian Governments to send exhibits to San Francisco.

BITTER COLD HERE ON WINGS OF GALE

gale blew so fiercely that neither pedestrians nor horses could face it.

Three express wagons and two milk wagons were overturned in attempting to reach South Ferry. The Aquarium and Battery Park were deserted in the afternoon.

The Red Ball Is Up.

The red ball, indicating that skating had begun, went up at Van Cortlandt Park at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Immediately the Interborough Company was notified, and the red ball placards, it is expected, will be seen in all the Subway stations to-day.

Ten tests of the ice on Van Cortlandt Park Lake were made before the park foreman ran up the flag. The foreman said that the ice was five and a half inches thick. A young woman was standing at the edge of the lake as the foreman hauled up the flag. She wanted to be the first skater on the lake, she said, and she was.

"I've been here eight years," said the foreman, "and I have never seen skating get so late a start as this season. Who ever heard of starting skating in the middle of January. I want to say that we have had some trouble in the skate house. People have been calling us up for two months, asking whether the ice was thick enough. The Kingsbridge telephone operators have earned their money."

The red ball hardly had been raised when the ice was swept by a snowstorm. Sweepers were put to work and cleared a large part of the lake before evening. The lake will be cleared at 10:30 at night by policemen. All of the lake except the extreme northern portion will be open to the public.

A fire, caused by the high wind, occurred last night in the apartment of Henry O'Brien on the fifth floor of 611 West 176th Street. Mrs. O'Brien was drying some clothes on a patent dryer, which was near a window open at the top. She was ironing near a gas stove several feet away from the window when a gust of wind blew the dryer from its fastening and the clothes fell on the lighted gas stove.

In extinguishing the blaze with a blanket Mrs. O'Brien was burned about the hands and face.

Accidents Due to the Gale.

There were many accidents due to the driving northwest gale.

Miss Mary Pearlman, 25 years old, a maid, of 150 West 112th Street, was blown against an automobile in front of 1,790 Broadway. One of her ribs was broken. She was taken to the Flower Hospital.

John Welsh, a laborer, 51 years old, was swept from his feet at Park Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street, and received a fractured skull.

Mrs. Irene Glenz, 25 years old, of 1,278 First Avenue, was passing 1,410 First Avenue, when a plate glass window was shattered. She was cut by flying glass.

Mary McGowan, 32 years old, of 613 Thirteenth Street, Brooklyn, was blown 50 feet at Centre and Chambers Streets against the entrance to the Hall of Records.

Mrs. Sarah Fleming, 60 years of age, of 34 City Hall Place, was blown from her feet at Reade and Centre Streets. Her right arm was broken. She was attended by Dr. Blanchard of the Hudson Street Hospital.

Theodore Howell, 35 years old, a laborer, of 2,786 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, walking in Canal Street, near West Street, was struck on the head by a piece of wood blown from a roof. His head was badly cut.

Miss Theresa St. John, 20 years old, of 409 East 136th Street, was struck by a falling sign at 2,988 Third Avenue.

Richard McBride, a laborer, of 485 Grand Street, was blown into the East River at 9 o'clock last night as he was passing the foot of Stanton Street. He is a good swimmer. His shouts for help were heard by Capt. Charles Williams of the barge Alert, who, with Lewis Klein of 30 Avenue A, got a rowboat and rescued McBride.

Joseph McDermott, 30 years old, of 168 Brown Place, the Bronx, was standing on the island platform of the 138th Street station of the Third Avenue elevated railroad at 10 o'clock last night, when the wind blew him to the northbound tracks. The ticket chopper waved a red lantern and managed to stop the train within two feet of the place where McDermott lay.

Harry Noble, 20 years old, a clerk of 534 West 125th Street, while ascending the cellar stairs in the grocery store of the Acker, Merrall & Condit Company, 2,105 Seventh Avenue, was struck on the head by the iron door, which was blown down by the wind. His head was cut.

Baer Rotzovinsky, 64 years old, of 93 Seventh Street, was blown from his feet at Cooper Square and Fourth Street and badly bruised.

Theodore Becker, 64 years old, of 130 Third Avenue, was blown from his feet in front of 1,620 Third Avenue. He was cut and bruised.

BEGS WITH BABE IN ARMS.

Piekert, Out of Work, Feared That His Child Would Starve.

Anton Piekert, 33 years old, of 540 West Fifty-third Street went from door to door in the neighborhood of his home last night asking alms. He carried a baby girl 9 months old in his arms. He was penniless, he said, and he feared that unless the child got something to eat she would starve, so he carried her about with him. His wife, he said, also was looking for aid.

Piekert was observed as he went from door to door by Policeman Muehlen, who took him to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, where he told his story to Lieut. McGrath.

Piekert said that he had been out of work for seven weeks and for days had been without proper nourishment. In desperation, he said, his wife went out yesterday to beg. Piekert said he had found a place where he could get work in a few days, but he would not be able to get money immediately, and in the meantime he had to live.

After his wife started out to beg yesterday he became almost desperate. Then he decided to go out begging himself. The wife was found by the police last night. After questioning neighbors the Piekerts were advised by the police to bring their condition to the attention of the Department of Charities.

COLD OVERCOMES CAMPERS.

Two Young Men Brought to Atlantic City After House Blows Down.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 12.—Two young men, left on a desolate island on Thursday about sixteen miles up the Great Bay, with only one day's supply of food while their companions came to this city to get supplies, were brought here this afternoon suffering from starvation and cold.

William Gabler and Otto Gordon, with two companions, had been living in a small house on the bay for the last few months. It was their custom to come here to get their supplies about every two weeks, and on Thursday two of the four made the trip. The next day there was a severe windstorm and the little house was blown down, leaving the campers without shelter.

WIND CAUSES BOY'S DEATH.

Youngster While Roller Skating Receives a Fractured Skull.

The high wind was responsible for the death of George Hubler, 9 years old, of 224 East Seventy-fourth Street, who while roller skating in Seventy-fourth Street, at Avenue A, was blown into the rear of a taxicab.

The boy struck the rear of the auto with such force that he was thrown to the pavement, striking on the back of his head. David Silverman of 1,309 Avenue A, the chauffeur of the taxicab, took the boy to the Reception Hospital, where Dr. Broomstra found that he had a fracture of the skull. While the physician was working over him the boy died.

Roof and Man Blown Off Freight Car.

During a high wind in Newark last night the roof of a Lehigh Valley freight car in a train which was moving slowly on the outskirts of the city was blown off. Earl W. Roberts, brakeman, of Jutland, Ky., who was riding on top of the car, was seriously injured. He was taken to St. Barnabas Hospital.

WHITMAN WANTS NO CAMPAIGN FUNDS

District Attorney Would Have the State Pay All Bills for Election Expenses.

ONLY WAY TO CLEAN HOUSE

So Long as Parties Control the Funds, Voters Will Be Corrupted, District Attorney Asserts.

District Attorney Charles S. Whitman, addressing the New York Young Republican Club at the Prince George Hotel last night, made a plea for the abolition of the use of money in political campaigns. All legitimate campaign expenses either on primary, registration, or election days, he said, should be paid by the State. The club met for the purpose of reorganizing, and it invited the District Attorney to address the members.

"It is my belief," said Mr. Whitman, "that the use of money in political campaigns is one of the most serious evils in politics to-day. Whether it is wrong in a legal sense or not, all of us are more or less guilty. It is the general practice. Of course there are more or less legal expenses connected with a campaign, but it is only a step from the legitimate use of money in such campaigns to the illegitimate use of it. This step is easy to take, for the line of demarkation between what is legitimate and illegitimate is not easily drawn.

"I welcome the time, and this organization can do no better work than to help bring that time nearer, when it shall be against the law for any political organization to use money for any purpose on Election Day which would affect that election. Such money cannot be used properly on Election Day. The contention of district Captains that workers must be paid to bring out the voters on Election Day is a fallacy. The whole effect of such expenditure is toward the deterioration of the city and State Government and the demoralization of the election machinery.

"None of us is perfect, but conditions can be improved in political work, especially in regard to the use of money. I would suggest to the Young Republican Club whether we cannot ourselves put an end to the careless condition that exists in regard to political contributions as well as in regard to the use of funds, not to buy votes with exactly, but to influence votes."

Referring to the recent graft exposures which he has brought about, the District Attorney said that officers of a corporation were surprised to learn that it was a crime to contribute to political funds. Many men might differ as to just how serious such a crime was, he said, but everybody must know that the use of money by corporations in politics has been a scandal for years and that the general effect of the use of such money has been demoralizing and degrading to the Government.

"It is the business of every man interested in honest politics," he said, "to see that the use of this money is stopped. The chief aim of this organization should be to see that it does cease. We all know that the Republican Party has made mistakes and that the leadership has not always been responsive to the best sentiment of the party, but the Republican Party, on the whole, is representative of the best sentiment in the city, State, and nation and that the greatest number of representative men have been in that party.

"The Republican Party belongs to you and to me, and it is not for any one boss or any one leader, or any one man, to say that the party stands for this thing or that, and that if a man does not agree to what they say he cannot stay in the party."

Robert McC. Marsh read his report regarding the new plan of the organization for the apportionment of delegates to Republican National Conventions, and Walter T. Arndt told of his efforts to have the Assembly rules changed. Philip J. McCook was re-elected President of the organization. The other officers elected were: Lloyd C. Griscom, Stephen C. Clark, Ogden M. Reid, Ezra P. Prentice, and George B. Agnew, Vice Presidents; Benjamin M. Day, Secretary; Edgar C. Leaycraft, Treasurer, and Isidor Greenwald, Richard K. McGonigal, Walter T. Arndt, Alfred C. Coxe, Jr., Henry W. Goddard, Robert McC. Marsh, Joseph Davis Sears, James A. Taylor, and Thomas D. Thatcher, members of the Executive Committee.

Mrs. Gellatly Recovers for Her Injuries in Communipaw Explosion.

A verdict of $6,750 was returned against the Central Railroad of New Jersey by a jury in the Supreme Court in Newark, N. J., last night, in a suit growing out of the dynamite explosion on the Communipaw pier of the company on Feb. 1, 1911, in which twenty persons were killed.

Mrs. Frank E. Gellatly of Llewellyn Park, West Orange, who was injured by the explosion, sued the company for $15,000, and her husband asked for $10,000. The jury gave the wife $5,000 and her husband $1,750.

SENATE INQUIRY INTO SIEGEL BANK

Assets $2,719,801, Include $2,500,000 Loans to Siegel Stores, Receiver Reports.

$154,191 LOAN TO SIEGEL

Due to Depositors $2,550,333—Can Pay if the Stores Go On, Says Their Counsel.

The Senate Committee on Banking, which was created for the purpose of investigating private banking systems and drafting legislation for the regulation of private banks, at its first meeting yesterday in the Aldermanic Chamber at the City Hall, started an investigation of the affairs of the banking firm of Henry Siegel & Co., recently put into the hands of a receiver. One of the witnesses who appeared before the Senate Committee was Henry Melville of 45 Cedar Street, receiver for Henry Siegel & Co.

In the course of his testimony before the committee Mr. Melville submitted in evidence a report of the condition of the bank, showing its assets and its liabilities, which were compiled by auditors he engaged. The assets of the banking concern were shown to be $2,719,801.43, of which more than $2,500,000 represented loans and discount to the Simpson, Crawford Company, the Fourteenth Street Store, Henry Siegel & Co., Boston, and Henry Siegel, personal. The personal loan and discount to Henry Siegel was shown to be $154,191.77. The amount due depositors was shown in the report to be $2,550,333.68.

The actual cash in bank, he said, was only $14,887.71. The interest paid on deposits was 4½ per cent. Here is the statement of the assets and liabilities submitted by Mr. Melville:

Mr. Melville testified that the common stock of the bank was worth $12 a share, according to information he had obtained from a broker in Chicago. At the present time he said that neither the stock of the bank nor of the stores had any market value. As receiver he had found it difficult to ascertain what was the condition of the bank because so many other interests were trying to obtain the same information from the books of the firm.

According to Mr. Melville the majority of the depositors believed that their deposits were to be used for purchasing merchandise for the stores of the corporation, and that they further were secured against any loss by Henry Siegel, who they understood had large real estate interests. The witness also testified that a written agreement was made by Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel by which the $3,500,000 common stock of the Siegel Stores Corporation and Henry Siegel & Co. was put up as security for the depositors.

Mr. Melville referred to the loan of $154,191 to Henry Siegel, and said that this sum had been drawn out in small amounts from the time that the bank was opened.

The Senate committee which was formed by a resolution adopted on Jan. 7, following the failure of the Siegel stores and banking concern, began its hearing in the morning at 11 o'clock. Senator H. W. Pollock is Chairman of the committee, and sitting with him were Senators William James Heffernan, W. B. Carswell, W. D. Peckham, John F. Healy, James A. Emerson, and William L. Omrod. When he opened the investigation, Chairman Pollock said:

"The big private banker must be supervised by the State as well as the small private bankers who put up $10,000. The committee will call all the private bankers, including Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel, and the strongest possible effort will be made to reach a rational conclusion on proper legislation."

The first witness was John A. Garver of counsel for the Siegel Stores Corporation, who said that the corporation was actually solvent, and that an adjustment entirely satisfactory would be made provided the stores could be kept going. Pressed by Senator Pollock to explain why the depositors of the bank had been enjoined from taking any action to procure their money, the witness said that was a matter for the Supreme Court to decide.

At this juncture the committee permitted Daniel P. Hays, representing some of the depositors, to ask Mr. Garver whether the bank was conducted as a separate business from the stores. The witness said he thought it was. Asked if the members of the banking firm could not, therefore, be sued by the depositors, Mr. Garver replied that they could, but explained that this possibly would prevent a reorganization of the business, resulting only in loss to the depositors.

According to Mr. Garver, the depositors were creditors of Siegel and Vogel, and not of the Siegel Stores Corporation, though they were on a par with the creditors of the latter institution. He said it was customary to take care of the small creditors.

The witness testified that he understood that the Fourteenth Street Store and the Simpson, Crawford Company were profitable. Questioned about the Siegel Stores Corporation, he said its assets consisted of equities in one store in Boston, one in Chicago, and two in New York. Senator Pollock asked him if the "sole asset" of the Siegel chain of stores did not lie in the Siegel Cooper Company of Chicago, and he replied in the affirmative, adding, however, that there were "one or two other assets." He said that the stores would suffer greatly unless the depositors in the banking institution were taken care of.

Samuel Hoffman, an attorney of 320 Broadway, who said he represented an association of depositors, told the Senate Committee that the $100,000 bond furnished by Henry Siegel & Co. should not be put in the hands of the receivers, because he feared the receivers would get a large part of it as a fee. He asked the committee to use its effort to keep the bond intact for the depositors.

PETITIONS AGAINST SIEGEL.

Two Attempts to Have Bank Declared Involuntary Bankrupt.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against the banking firm of Henry Siegel & Co. in the United States District Court yesterday on behalf of Esther Laufer, Herman Krowitz, and Michael Huppert, whose deposits amounted to $750.75. The petition of the three creditors was filed through Olcott, Gruber, Bonynge & McManus. Abraham Gruber, speaking for the petitioners, said that they had asked for a receiver because a receiver in bankruptcy would have a much greater latitude in investigating the affairs of the firm than the present receiver in equity proceedings. The petition alleges preference to certain creditors.

"We can go back with an investigation for years through a bankruptcy receiver," said Mr. Gruber. "If the Judge appoints a receiver as we have petitioned, then the doors will be thrown open to everybody."

Esther Laufer in an affidavit accompanying the petition said it was her information and belief that the assets of the company consisted of a $100,000 bond filed with the State Banking Department and $49,000 cash on deposit in various banks, in addition to shares in the Siegel Stores Corporation.

"Instead of investing the money deposited in safe and conservative bonds, securities, and first mortgages or the usual savings bank investments," said the petitioner, "Henry Siegel loaned it promiscuously to the various corporations which he dominated as well as to himself personally. The object of filing the petition in bankruptcy is to obtain the benefit of the broad and thorough inquisitorial powers of the court to ascertain if any of the property of the alleged bankrupts has been secreted, transfered, or used in fraud of the rights of creditors or used to make preferences."

Mr. Gruber explained the phrase, "used in fraud," as meaning "used in legal fraud."

A second involuntary petition in bankruptcy against the bank was filed in the Federal District Court by Max Stern, George Leach, and Lester Hirsch, whose claims for money deposited amount to $800.

John P. Murray of counsel for the depositors, said he was not surprised that bankruptcy proceedings had been begun. It was learned that the proceedings had been anticipated by all sides.

William A. Marble, receiver for the Siegel stores, was in Boston yesterday, as was John S. Sheppard, Jr., who was there in company with Joseph M. Hartfield of counsel for the creditors, and Pierre Jay, Chairman of the Creditors' Committee, primarily to see about the appointment of a co-receiver.

The receivers of the stores in this city are making a close analysis of the preliminary report of the auditors, and they report that both of the stores are doing a flourishing business.

District Attorney Whitman said late in the afternoon that his men were working on their investigation, and beyond that he had nothing to say.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—A petition for the appointment of a third receiver for the Henry Siegel Company of this city was filed in the United States District Court here to-day on behalf of bank creditors with claims aggregating $250,000. E. E. Blodgett, an attorney, representing 352 other creditors, having claims amounting to $350,000, asked for a hearing for his clients, and action on the petition was postponed pending a hearing on the bankruptcy proceedings.

COPPER MINE OWNER ASSAILS U. S. REPORT

President Shaw of Calumet & Hecla Says Labor Bureau's Finding Is Highly Colored.

TIMED WITH WILSON SPEECH

Motion for Senate Investigation Subject of Lively Debate by Lodge, Townsend and Ashurst.

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—Quincy A. Shaw, of the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company, issued a statement to-night, taking issue with the report of the Government Commission, on the Copper strike in Michigan. He attacks the motives of the investigators in making public the report at this time and intimates that it was colored in favor of the strikers. Mr. Shaw's statement follows:

"After Secretary Wilson's speech in Seattle it was to be expected that his subordinates would make a report which would be highly colored in favor of the strikers. The publication of the report is also well-timed to assist the strike leaders in arousing false sympathy through misrepresentations. So far as it contains information given by the companies the report could have been published months ago, if there was any genuine desire to have the public know the conditions under which the men worked. Extracts from the report which appear in the papers if accurately quoted, contain many misstatements.

"Since Dec. 1, an eight-hour day has been in effect underground and in all places where work is continuously conducted for twenty-four hours. All other employes have a nine-hour day. The companies in which I am interested did not post a notice that the hours of labor were 8¾.

"Directly after mentioning the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company's name, it is said that 'two men made affidavits that at the point of a gun they were compelled to go from Superior to Calumet and then to work at some other camp.' These affidavits are false if they relate to any action on the part of either the Superior or the Calumet Companies. We have evidence of false affidavits secured by the federation.

Strikers and Others Killed.

"The report states, 'A number of strikers have been killed and others injured in the use of arms in the possession of Waddell men.' This convicts the Waddell men before their trial. The record of those killed to date is as follows:

"Two strikers who are said to have resisted deputies; one striker who was connected with the brutal murder of Deputy Pollock. On the other hand three non-union men were shot to death while lying in bed, and hundreds of men, whose only offense was a desire to go to work, have been attacked and so cruelly beaten that they required medical attention at our hospital.

"The Quincy Mining Company is accused of 'evidently intending to deceive Germans who could not read English' because they complied with the laws of New York, and printed the word 'strike' in the English language. Not only did the company comply with the law, but Mr. Parsons Todd has told me on two occasions that he went with interpreters and personally interviewed the men who were engaged to work, so that there could be no misunderstanding of the situation.

"The report states that 'the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company employs upward of 50 per cent. of the total number of mine workers engaged in that region.' This is untrue. The Calumet and Hecla Mining Company just previous to the strike employed considerably less than one-third of the mine employes.

"The report states that 'the profits have been extremely large,' namely, $121,000,000 in dividends. It would probably be equally interesting had the report stated that in addition to the dividends the company has paid for labor, supplies, lands, and taxes, roughly an additional $220,000,000.

A Shortage of Labor.

"The report is grossly unfair when it states that so-called 'strike breakers' have been or are being imported. There was a serious shortage of labor in all the mines for a year previous to the strike, and to make up this shortage and to take the places of the men who have left the district, we have employment for hundreds of men who will receive wages and work under conditions as good as, if not better, than, in any mining district in this country. We hope that the men now coming into the district come there to stay permanently, and if they prove themselves efficient workmen and law-abiding citizens I can give them assurance of their jobs during the life of the mines, with plenty of chance for advancement.

"Our general manager began working for the company in the 70s when he was less than 20 years old. Just previous to the strike the company had in its employ 1,600 men who had worked for the company between fifteen and forty years, and it had also in its employ 400 men who were the sons of these 1,600 men. These are the kind of men the company wants, and it cannot afford to, and will not, employ men who wish also to work for Moyer and the Western Federation of Miners."

CALLS FOR SENATE INQUIRY.

Ashurst Offrs Motion, but Lodge and Townsend Object to It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—A lively debate was started in the Senate to-day when Senator Ashurst of Arizona introduced a resolution directing the Committee on Education and Labor to investigate conditions in the Michigan copper strike. His resolution specifically directed inquiry into relations between employers and employed, the justice of the minimum wage and other demands of the strikers, the investments and profits of the mining companies, alleged peonage, free access to the post office, improper use of judicial authority and improper attempts on the part of the mining companies to influence the State judiciary.

"This resolution," said Senator Lodge, "takes us far beyond the realms of Federal jurisdiction. This Senate has no authority to investigate the normal operations of the police authorities of a State. This resolution pointedly implies that the State courts of Michigan have been bought up."

Mr. Ashurst emphatically denied any intention of insinuating that the courts had been improperly influenced, but Mr. Lodge read the part of the resolution referring to the subject and insisted it could have no other meaning.

Mr. Townsend of Michigan opposed the resolution. He said that he had now pending in committee a bill authorizing the President to appoint an impartial commission to investigate labor troubles and had failed to get committee action on it. But the kind of investigation proposed by Mr. Ashurst, in his opinion, would do no good. He implied that the committee that had already investigated strike conditions in West Virginia would be committed in advance to an unfair view of the case.

After prolonged debate the resolution went over one day.

BLIZZARD AWES STRIKERS.

Copper Miners Deserting Union as Biting Cold Sweeps Michigan.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Jan. 12.—Fourteen fresh eviction suits, coupled with a blizzard and the first break in the union ranks at Ahmeek Village, caused officials of the Western Federation of Miners to shake their heads dubiously to-day. The union stores were crowded all day, and numerous requests for increased fuel and food supplies had to be met. Charity workers and Salvation Army officers also found numerous calls awaiting them.

Dan Sullivan, President of the District Council of the federation, said the closing in of Winter was something for which he and his associates were anything but anxious.

"This means that we must keep on getting busy," he said, as he watched the clouds of snow driven by a twenty-five mile gale off Lake Superior. "We have feared all along that many men would feel like quitting the struggle if we got an old-fashioned touch of snow and ice. Thus far the elements have been good to us, but to-day's storm is an added burden on our shoulders."

The desertions at Ahmeek were fourteen in number, and half a dozen other union members were reported to have turned in their cards to the management of the Mohawk mine. The last of the State troops left that section to-day.

DELANEY ACCUSES CURREN.

Attacks Highway Employe, but Carlisle Stands By Him.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Commissioner John H. Delaney of the Department of Efficiency and Economy opened fire to-day on the State Highway Department when he transmitted to Gov. Glynn, to the Civil Service Commission, to Attorney General Carmody, and to State Highway Commissioner Carlisle himself, a report of an investigation the Efficiency and Economy Department has made into the record of Joseph Curren of Stapleton, Staten Island, Chief of the Bureau of Maintenance and Repairs in the Highway Department.

The report of Commissioner Delaney alleges that his investigation has shown that Mr. Curren swore to a false statement before the Civil Service Commission regarding his experience while an applicant for the position he holds at present. His salary in the State Highway Department is $4,000. His temporary appointment is for a term which would come to a close on Jan. 15, but Commissioner Carlisle thinks so well of Mr. Curren that even after he received Commissioner Delaney's report he went to the Civil Service Commission and urged that he be permitted to retain him at a per diem compensation of $33 while actually employed.

Mr. Curren when he was admitted to examination on July 21 last year swore that he could comply with all the qualifications for the position he sought, one of which is ten years' actual experience in road construction. According to the Delaney report:

By subterfuge, evasion, and incorrect answer, said Joseph Curren has misrepresented the nature of his various occupations during the last twenty years, during which time, from 1892 to 1898, he was a Village Trustee, in real estate and coal business; from 1889 to 1906 he was a clerk in the Department of Education of New York City, and from 1910 to 1912 an agent for the Standard Bithulitic Company. These two latter periods, from 1899 to 1912, consume thirteen years at least of the twenty years that he submits as having given him ten years' experience in practical road or highway construction.

The investigation, it is asserted, showed that Curren was dismissed from the Education Department on charges of deceit, falsehood, misconduct, and neglect of duty.

For some months last year Mr. Curren was employed as highway expert by John A. Hennessy, the Sulzer graft investigator. At the same time, according to Mr. Curren's own statement before the Civil Service Commissioners, he acted in an advisory capacity to State Highway Commissioner Carlisle.

$14,230,000 IS ASKED FOR THIS HARBOR

Mitchel Heads Delegation to Urge Improvements in the North and East Rivers.

NEW SHIP CHANNEL PLAN

Col. Black Recommends Appropriation to Extend the Ambrose Up to the Quarantine Station.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Headed by Mayor John Purroy Mitchel, a New York delegation came to Washington to-night to appear to-morrow morning before the House Rivers and Harbors Committee in advocacy of river and harbor improvements around New York City, calling for an ultimate expenditure of $13,400,000.

This is the total of the various items in the project recommended by Col. William M. Black of the Army Engineers Corps, for completing the removal of rocks and shoals, and otherwise accommodating the Hudson and East Rivers, and their confluent streams to the growing commerce of New York City.

The delegation will ask for the immediate appropriation of $500,000, as provided by the bill introduced on Dec. 22 by Representative Goulden of New York, and for the balance of the project on the continuing contract basis.

The project was strongly recommended by Gov. Glynn before the National Rivers and Harbors Congress in Washington in December. The sum of $500,000 called for by the Goulden bill would be used in the improvement of the East River and the harbor.

The entire project includes the removal of ledges of rock near Coenties Slip and along the East River, the opening up of Hell Gate, connecting the channel between North and South Brother Island on the Bronx shore, taking out the rock ledges between North Brother Island and the Bronx shore, cutting a channel through the Bronx Kills, and improvement of the Harlem River.

The New York delegation, besides Mayor Mitchel, includes R. A. C. Smith, Dock Commissioner; Travis Whitney of the Public Service Commission; S. C. Mead, Secretary of the Merchants' Association; Everett L. Barnard, Louis Baron, William H. Bolton, and Eugene Rosenquest of the North Side Board of Trade of the Bronx; Dr. Henry Ruhl and William H. Gemerner of the Lackawanna Railroad; James Brackenridge of the New York Telephone Company, ex-Representative Stephen B. Ayers of the City Club, and ex-Representative William S. Bennett, Chairman, and Alexander R. Smith, Secretary of the Citizens' Harbor Improvement League.

"The improvements in the East River, especially the cutting through of Hell Gate," said Secretary Reid of the North Side Board of Trade to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-night, "are very vital to the accommodation of the commerce of New York and its growth. The cutting through of Hell Gate will greatly reduce the current, now very swift there, and in case of war this improvement would be particularly valuable."

Col. Black's reports to the War Department show that the through main channel from the Battery to Long Island Sound has a least depth of 30 feet at mean low water and a least width of 550 feet except in Hell Gate, off Hallet's Point, where the width is only about 200 feet for a stretch of about 300 feet. The through channel of 26 feet depth has a least width of 550 feet, except possibly in Hell Gate, off Hallet's Point, where recent examinations, by sweeping over the river bottom, indicate the existence of a number of high points which may reduce this width very appreciably. Between the limiting lines of the 26-foot channel and the shores rocky obstructions rise to elevations of from 18 to 25½ feet below mean low water. The depths along the pierhead lines in New York and Brooklyn vary from 30 feet to less than 13 feet, making a large part of these waterfronts now unavailable for deep sea commerce.

$830,000 TO DEEPEN CHANNEL.

Congress Gets Plan to Make Entrance Safer for Big Liners.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Plans and estimates of cost for a harbor improvement of vital value to the sea-going commerce of New York were transmitted to Congress to-day by Secretary of War Garrison, based on reports by Col. William B. Black and Col. S. W. Roessler of the Army Engineer Corps.

The project calls for a construction of a ship channel 2,000 feet wide and 40 feet deep through the uper bay of New York Harbor skirting the anchorage grounds. This would be four times the present width and ten feet greater than the present depth, and, besides, accommodating the general sea-going commerce of the port, would make the approach to the city more safe for larger liners like the Imperator and the Mauretania.

The plan is described thus by Col. Burr, acting Chief of Engineers:

"The anchorage grounds are located along the New Jersey shore on the westerly side of the main channel. Abreast of man-of-war anchorage, opposite Tompkinsville, the available forty-foot channel has a width of only 450 feet, while abreast of the general anchorage opposite Robbins Reef the channel width of this depth is still further reduced to 370 feet. These widths are entirely inadequate for the deep draft vessels engaged in commerce at the Port of New York, and the district officer is of the opinion that it is advisable for the United States to provide a channel through the bay 2,000 feet wide and forty feet deep, skirting the easterly side of the anchorage grounds, at an estimated cost of $830,000, with $50,000 annually for maintenance. The initial appropriation should be $250,000."

SUE WOMAN ON STOCK DEALS

H. Content & Co. Seek to Recover $83,500 from Mrs. S. L. Robertson.

H. Content & Co., brokers, of 111 Broadway, began suit in the Supreme Court yesterday against Mrs. Sarah L. Robertson for $83,504.33, which they claim is due them on orders received from Mrs. Robertson for the purchase and sale of stocks. Mrs. Robertson is the wife of Dr. J. Robertson, a physician of this city. She is said to be wealthy in her own right, having inherited several hundred thousands of dollars from relatives.

The complaint contains affidavits from Harry and Walter Content and Albert M. Wittenberg, all members of the brokerage house. These set forth that Mrs. Robertson entered into an agreement with the firm prior to Dec. 1, 1913, to buy and sell for her such stocks as she might indicate, and that numerous orders were received from her. The last transaction conducted in her interest was before December last, when 2,500 shares of Union Pacific common and 200 shares of Sears-Roebuck common were sold on her orders. Later this stock was bought back at higher prices, in order to replace stock borrowed for delivery.

The amount sued for is the net loss added to the amount said to have been due on Mrs. Robertson's account on Dec. 1.

BIG HOTELS FAVOR HIGHER LICENSES

Ready to Pay More to Sell Liquor if Law Will Make a Distinction.

THE BAR IS INCIDENTAL

With a Saloon or Raines Law Hotel Liquor Selling Is the Main Part of the Business.

Excise Commissioner Farley's recommendation to the Legislature that hotels in New York City be compelled to pay at least $600 a year more than saloons for an excise tax certificate, which was reported yesterday morning, did not stir up united opposition among the hotel men in the city. Some said they were even glad that the subject had been brought up, because it would give opportunity for the settlement of many questions relating to hotels and the liquor traffic as it affected them. Copeland Townsend, manager of the Hotel Imperial, said:

"I'll be glad to pay the extra $600 if, with the levying of the tax the Legislature makes a distinction between a legitimate hotel and a saloon or Raines law hotel, and gives the legitimate hotel the right to sell liquor at any time to its guests. A hotel is the home of a guest while he is staying in it, and it seems to me that it should provide all the conveniences of a home.

"I do not care to sell liquor on Sunday or after 1 o'clock to customers from the street, but I do think that I should be allowed to sell it to my guests. At present, if a man wakes up, say, at 2 o'clock in the morning and needs a drink of brandy or whisky for medicinal purposes, I cannot sell it to him without a doctor's prescription. Also, many men who drink moderately every day are deprived of their drink when in a hotel if they happen to want it after the legal closing hours. They can get it on Sunday with a meal, but many men don't want to buy a steak in order to get a highball.

"The actual difference between a legitimate hotel and a saloon or Raines law hotel is clear to every one with common sense, and I do not see why a legal difference cannot be established. If this were done, and if hotels were allowed to give their guests the same privileges they obtain in their clubs or homes, I would be willing to pay an extra license fee, not because I would take in much more money for drinks, but because the service of the hotel would be more complete."

B. M. Boomer, manager of the Hotel McAlpin, said that in his opinion Commissioner Farley's plan should be reversed in favor of the hotel.

"Instead of taxing the hotels more than the saloons," Mr. Boomer said, "the saloons should be taxed more than the hotels. The bar is a mere incidental with the hotel, a convenience for guests, whereas with a saloon it is the main thing. It is the object of every saloon to sell as much liquor as possible, but in a first-class hotel intoxicated persons are often refused drinks because drunkenness in any part of a hotel is not god for the hotel's principal business, the renting of rooms. The hotel bars are never a source of complaint. It is the saloons that cause trouble.

"For this reason I think the number of saloons should be limited by a high tax. The moral effect of such a measure would be good. On the other hand, hotel bars are not very profitable and are only a convenience demanded by the traveling public. They should therefore pay a lower fee."

All of the hotel managers said that Commissioner Farley's argument that hotels should be taxed more because they were allowed to sell liquor on Sunday and the saloons were not was fallacious. Sunday, it was said, is a very poor day for the bar, because there is almost no patronage from the streets and much less than on week days from the guests of the hotel. Besides, it was said, in the first-class hotels the law requiring that a meal be served with every drink sold is faithfully observed, whereas in many Raines law and second-rate hotels the "meal" consists of a stale sandwich that does duty regularly Sunday after Sunday and is never eaten by any one.

At the offices of the Hotel Association of New York City it was said that nothing would be done by the association until Commissioner Farley's suggestions had been thoroughly studied. If any positive move is made by the hotels it will be through the association, but no announcement of the association's plans will be made for several days.

"MOTHER" JONES ARRESTED

State Troopers Seize Her on Her Return to Trinidad.

TRINIDAD, Col., Jan. 12.—"Mother" Jones, strike leader, who was deported from the Southern Colorado coal fields Jan. 4 by the militia, returned to Trinidad this morning from Denver. As soon as her presence was learned by the military authorities she was arrested and taken to the San Rafael Hospital, where she was held a prisoner and was permitted to see no visitors.

She left the train at the outskirts of Trinidad and later appeared at a local hotel. She was arrested by a detail of State troops, hurried out of the hotel, placed in an automobile, and whirled through the streets with a cavalry escort galloping at full speed in front and behind the machine.

Several hundred coal mine strikers lined the streets and cheered wildly, while "Mother" Jones waved her hand in response.

DENVER, Jan. 12.—Gov. Ammons tonight issued a statement in which he assumed full responsibility for the arrest of "Mother" Jones by the military, and declared that she would be held until such time as she saw fit to give her promise to leave the strike zones of the State.

LABOR MEN INDORSE ASTOR.

Agree with View That Socialism Is Not Best Cure for Ills.

Representatives of organized labor in unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor yesterday indorsed the views expressed by Vincent Astor in his reply to Upton Sinclair, in which Mr. Astor says that the workers are advancing to better conditions, not through socialistic ideas but by the intelligent use of the unions and that socialism will never accomplish the results aimed at. Ernest Bohm, Secretary of the Central Federated Union, with which there are affiliated over 300 American Federation of Labor Unions, said:

"I believe the trade unions, intelligently managed, are doing more to improve labor conditions than any person or any party. The Socialists believe in bringing about through political action the establishment of a co-operative commonwealth. Meantime, however, the trades unions have actually bettered the conditions of the workers and are aiming at and continuing to bring about further improvements in conditions for them."

Most of the other labor representatives talked in the same way. Several of them did not want to be quoted in the matter, and said they had not had time so far to study the views expressed by Mr. Astor. Some of the others said that Mr. Astor had struck the proper key and that they agreed with him.

Weber and Heilbroner

Begin To-day the Sale that Differs from All Others

The General End-of-the-Season Clearance of ALL Their Winter Clothes, Tailored Exclusively for New Yorkers

We are not blinded to the fact that other sales are in progress—but we have a few remarks to make about this one.

First, this sale is not an OUTLET for some manufacturer up the State or out in Chicago who made his clothes to sell in any locality in which he could make them stick.

There is no FRANTIC RUSH to get rid of these clothes so someone can meet the banker round the corner and keep the workshops going. There has been no OVERPRODUCTION.

It is just A NATURAL END-OF-THE-SEASON SALE OF CLOTHES THAT ARE PARTICULARLY DESIRABLE TO NEW YORKERS—that are expected to fit them and their conditions as other clothes do not.

And it marks the close of the most successful season the Weber and Heilbroner stores and the Weber and Heilbroner idea of "New York clothes for New York men" have had.

Ordinary reductions and sales do not interest the New Yorker who follows the lead of Manhattan's exclusive tailors. He is not by nature a bargain hunter. Yet if grand opera were presented at the Metropolitan at a dollar a ticket HE WOULD ATTEND—and welcome the saving.

If the seven or eight leading tailors in Fifth Avenue announced they would, for a few days, make $70 to $100 suits and overcoats AT HALF PRICE, many hundreds of such New Yorkers would AT ONCE order clothes, whether or not they needed them.

That is THE KIND OF OPPORTUNITY PRESENTED BY THESE WEBER AND HEILBRONER CLEARANCE SALES at the end of every season—for at no other time are these clothes ever offered at a reduction, and at no other place are such clothes available ready to wear.

* * *

We are the ONLY ready-to-wear clothiers in this city, or this country, so far as we know, who FAITHFULLY follow the lead of these Fifth Avenue tailors, without regard to what the rest of the country is demanding, and without too much regard for the ultra-conservatism of people who live in the past.

In the nature of all successful businesses where lines are kept full, for a metropolitan public, there are considerable assortments remaining when the clearance period arrives.

That period has arrived.

TO-DAY THE ENTIRE WEBER AND HEILBRONER FALL AND WINTER STOCK, EXCEPT DRESS CLOTHES, GOES ON SALE AT THE FOLLOWING REDUCTIONS:

$20 to $25 Suits and Overcoats, at $16.50
$25 and $27.50 Suits and Overcoats, at $19.50
$30 and $35 Suits and Overcoats at $26.50
$40 and $45 Suits and Overcoats at $32.50
$50 and $60 Overcoats at $42.50

* * *

As these clothes are different—mean more to New Yorkers—so this sale is different from all others.

You are not expected to rush in and buy something, whether it fits you or not—to take pot luck with ten thousand other men in a scramble for suits thrown together merely that excess woolens may be worked up.

Not a single garment in these assortments was made for a sale. No such tailoring, no such fabrics, no such styles could POSSIBLY be provided for a sale alone, by any house in America.

The cost would be prohibitive, as it would be TO US NOW, had we not enjoyed the advantage of the season's regular selling from these same goods, all made at the same time in the same way.

* * *

Our lower priced suits are made by the same tailors as the highest priced—the same soft, graceful Fifth Avenue models and the same character of workmanship.

So, for a short time, you are able to get at $16.50 suits and overcoats which may with propriety rub elbows with the best custom-made clothes of this city; and you CANNOT GET GOOD QUALITY ALONE, in the provincially cut models presented at the average clothing sale, for ANY LESS.

We shall be glad to see you to-day or to-morrow.

WOLVES EATING RUSSIAN PEASANTS

St. Petersburg Nearly Cut Off by the Blizzard—Food Supplies Low.

MANY COUNTRIES SUFFER

Severest Winter in Central Europe in a Generation — Avalanche Peril in Switzerland.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Central Europe is experiencing the most severe Winter in a generation. The blizzards of a fortnight ago, after abating somewhat, seem to have returned with renewed vigor.

In Western Russia 150 deaths from the cold were officially reported yesterday, and stories of peasants devoured by wolves are numerous. St. Petersburg is in the grip of a three-foot snowfall, with communication almost cut off and food supplies low.

In Bavaria and Alsace-Lorraine heavy snowstorms have blocked railroad traffic and wrecked wires. Along the low-lying Rhine villages watchmen are posted at various points to warn the people whenever the flooded waters reach the danger point.

In Switzerland snow has been falling continuously since Friday. The danger from avalanches and floods is regarded as serious. Lake Constance is approaching flood level.

In Belgium the floods are receding, but the snowfall continues, and a sudden drop in temperature would mean further flood loss. The damage in the flooded districts is already enormous, and will require months to repair. The foundations of hundreds of houses are undermined, roads are washed away, factories are filled with mud, and costly machinery is ruined.

The condition of thousands of homeless Belgian peasants has been made precarious by the blizzard.

KOESLIN, Germany, Jan. 12.—The water receded along the coast of the Baltic to-day and ended for the present the danger to the villages which had been inundated for several days. The residents who had taken refuge on the surrounding elevations returned to their houses, which, however, had become almost uninhabitable, while food and fuel are scarce.

Prince Eitel Friedrich, as Viceroy of Pomerania, arrived at Köslin to-day to take personal charge of the relief of the stricken fisherfolk.

A committee under the patronage of the Crown Prince has opened a subscription for the succor of the sufferers from the floods, many of whom have lost practically everything they possessed.

JAUER, Prussian Silesia, Jan. 12.—A Russian family of seven persons who had been employed in the vicinity of this town were frozen to death in a blizzard to-day while tramping back to Russia in order to save the railroad fare.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 12.—The rivers in Northern Belgium are rising rapidly inspite of the cold weather, and the damage threatens to exceed the devastation done by the floods in the provinces of Liége and Namur.

The River Scheldt is six feet over the normal mark, causing the suspension of a large number of factories and brickyards. Great quantities of flax are in danger of being washed away.

The Rivers Lys and Dender have overflowed and converted the whole country between Alott and Grammont into a lake. Villages, roads, and bridges are submerged The canal dam near Malines threatens to burst in several places. If this happens dozens of villages and farms will be overwhelmed. The inhabitants of these places have in many cases abandoned their homes.

THE GREAT POWERS COURTING RUMANIA

So Mr. Green Fears That Conference on Jewish Question Must Be Postponed.

ANOTHER WAR IS PREDICTED

Turkey and Bulgaria Seeking Revenge, It Is Said, and Hostilities Are Expected in Three Months.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—It seems probable that the international congress called by the American-Rumanian Emancipation Committee, which was to take place in Berlin on Jan. 23, will be postponed. Henry Green of New York, the organizer of the congress, has arrived here for the purpose of looking over the situation, and, on the advice of eminent European Jews such as Drs. Max Nardau and Marmorek of Paris, is inclined to think it would be wise not to hold the congress at this time.

"The European political situation is highly complicated," said Mr. Green to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent. "Rumania is being actively courted both by the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente. Each of these groups is anxious to get the sympathy of King Charles's Government for its own purposes.

"This naturally places Rumania in an enviable political position and strengthens her independence toward outside pressure of all kinds. It would be extremely difficult at such a time to induce either Germany, Austria, Italy, England, France, or Russia to lift a finger which might cause displeasure at Bucharest.

"In addition to this, the war cloud again overhanging the Balkans is a factor which must be reckoned with. Conservative persons predict another outbreak of hostilities in the Near East within ninety days. Turkey is preparing to wage war on Greece. Bulgaria is seeking revenge and is covertly working for an alliance with Turkey for the purpose of thrashing Rumania, Greece, Servia, and Montenegro.

"Practically all the great Jewish leaders in Europe agree with Drs. Nordau and Marmorek that this would not be an ideal time for the Berlin Rumanian Congress."

While Mr. Green has not definitely decided to postpone the congress, these arguments impress him. He hopes his statement will attract the attention of the American national and State representatives appointed to come to Berlin as official delegates.

ANIMAL BEAUTY PATCHES.

St. Petersburg Women Have Tiny Elephants Painted on Their Faces.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Fashionable women of St. Petersburg are painting tiny figures on their faces and necks, says Sergius Diaghileff, the Russian impresario. Elephants, trees, and geometrical designs are the commonest patterns.

This revival of the idea of the old beauty patch was introduced by the Russian woman painter, Nathalie Gourtchakoff.

A DE RESZKE SCHOOL HERE.

Branch of the Famous Paris Establishment to be Opened.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Jean De Reszke has decided to open a branch in New York of the school of music which he and his brother Edouard conduct in Paris. The reason for the departure is that M. De Reszke is convinced that the greatest singers of the future will come from America.

M. De Reszke says he desires to get as many promising American pupils as possible. He will guarantee an opera début in three years. The pupils need not come to Paris first, but must pass an examination by his representative in New York. He has chosen for the American position Earl Gulick, who will sail for New York on the George Washington next Sunday and remain there a year. He will then return to Paris to finish an opera that he is writing.

Mr. Gulick was formerly well known in New York as a boy soprano. In the past few years he has developed a remarkably fine baritone voice.

CAIRO-KHARTUM FLIGHT.

Accomplished by the French Airman Pourpe—Natives Spellbound.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Jan. 12.—The French airman Pourpé to-day completed a flight from Cairo to Khartum, covering the distance of about 320 miles at the rate of 75 miles an hour.

Flying high, Pourpé encircled excited crowds, and alighted within ten yards of a white spot marked for his descent. As he jumped from his machine the Sirdar, Sir Reginald Wingate, and Lady Wingate greeted him warmly.

He received a tremendous ovation from the natives, who were spellbound.

VIOLET RAYS AS DIGESTER.

Prof. Bertholet Says He Has Reproduced the Natural Processes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Prof. Daniel Bertholet claims to have reproduced artificially the processes of digestion by the action of the ultra-violet rays from a mercury vapor lamp on food substances contained in a quartz vessel.

The processes were produced without the aid of the ferments which play so great a part in the natural processes.

Second Macvane Blackmail Case.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

TARANTO, Italy, Jan. 12.—The police this morning arrested Carlo Carrucci, who is supposed to be an accomplice of Cicala in an attempt to blackmail Miss Dorothea Macvane. According to the accusation, Carruci pretended to be a correspondent of Roman newspapers, showing correspondence, already written, most injurious to Miss Macvane. Carruci was introduced to Miss Macvane by Cicala, who, it is said, organized the affair. The accused emphatically denies the charge.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 12.—An academy of international law is to be established here in connection with the peace organizations. Negotiations to this end had been in progress for several days with various committees of the peace associations, including the Carnegie Peace Endowment, and these were successfully concluded to-day.

VENICE, Jan. 12.—The village of Castel Guglielmi was destroyed to-day by fire ignited through the overturning of a stove. The 1,000 inhabitants escaped without injury.

GENERAL STRIKE IN SOUTH AFRICA NEAR

Ballots Taken by the Miners and in Various Trades All Result in Favor of it.

200,000 MEN UNDER ARMS

Attempt to Blow Up a Railway Bridge—Martial Law to be Declared on the Rand To-day.

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 12.—Quiet prevails throughout South Africa to-night, but this may be the lull before the storm, as the incoming ballots from various centres make it practically certain that a general strike will be voted.

The ballots received from the miners along the Reef all favor a strike, and the various trades, including shop assistants, warehousemen and clerks, in Johannesburg have voted similarly. The feeling is growing in Johannesburg that the situation is becoming more serious.

The Cape Town harbor workers have now been officially called out by the union, but their response will not be known until to-morrow.

A ballot by the Johannesburg branch of the typographical union has resulted by a large majority in favor of a strike. This probably means that the people of Johannesburg will have no newspapers after to-morrow.

If a general strike is called it will be out of sympathy for the strike of the railway employes, many of whom have abandoned their posts and laid down their tools in the railroad workshops. The strike of the railway men is said to be due to the policy of retrenchment put into effect by the South African Railway administration, in pursuance of which hundreds of employes in Pretoria, Bloemfontein, Durban, Salt River, and elsewhere have been dismissed. The strikers demand the cessation of this policy of retrenchment and the reinstatement of the dismissed men. They argue that the administration's real motive is to force wages down, as shown by the fact that some of the dismissed men have received offers of other billets at reduced wages.

The first break in the anti-strike resolve of the railroad employes in Cape Colony occurred to-day at Salt River, about two miles from Cape Town. Half the men employed in the railroad workshops laid down their tools. They formed a procession and marched in the direction of Cape Town with the object of holding a meeting. On the way they made an unsuccessful attempt to induce the street car motormen and conductors to join them. As the railroad employes in Cape Colony are regarded as holding the key to the strike situation, to-day's incident is considered most important, and the Government immediately ordered the mobilization of the citizens' defense force.

The most hopeful feature of the situation to-night is the extraordinary success attending the mobilization of troops. It is estimated that there are 20,000 armed men on the Rand, most of whom have gone there prepared for the same kind of campaign which made the Boers so long the despair of the English Generals.

Cape Town to-day also bore the appearance of a besieged city. A great mass meeting of workmen was held to-night without the slightest indication of disorder.

The impressive display of military is likely to have a wholesome effect on the Basutos, squads of whom continue to be escorted to the borders of the native settlements under armed white guards.

The miner accused of causing a native uprising at Jagersfontein on Saturday by kicking a Basuto miner to death has been remanded for trial.

The Government is perfecting its plans for handling a general strike, should one take place, and all the towns in the disturbd area have been placed under the protection of troops. Private citizens are coming forward, offering to serve as special police and in other ways.

Reports from different districts are conflicting, but the general opinion is that the situation has grown worse.

Meanwhile, the Government is withholding the proclamation of martial law until the last moment.

PRETORIA, Jan. 12.—The shooting of dynamiters at sight is to be a feature of the marital law to be proclaimed to-morrow throughout the Transvaal and the Orange Free State, and the proclamation is to be otherwise of a most drastic character.

The Government purposes to make an attempt to resume the full service of trains on all the railroads to-morrow, and it is in order to safeguard the railroads, the train crews, and the passengers that regulations usually imposed only during a state of siege are to be introduced.

KIMBERLEY, Jan. 12.—A desperate attempt to wreck with dynamite the great railroad bridge at Fourteen Streams, about fifty miles north of here, on the border of the Transvaal, was made last night. The rails were torn up by the explosion and portions of the structure were damaged, but the bridge itself withstood the shock.

Had the attempt succeeded, main line communication would have been cut between Cape Town and the northern cities, including Johannesburg, Pretoria, and Mafeking.

FROM A SHIP LONG LOST.

Message in a Bottle Believed to be from the Steamer Waratah.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 13.—A telegram to The Daily Chronicle from Cape Town says a message received yesterday from a country correspondent gives information which possibly throws light on the fate of the steamship Waratah, which left Durban for Cape Town on July 26, 1909, and disappeared.

A man walking on the beach at Uys Point, eight miles northwest of Bird Island, on Jan. 6, picked up a black bottle containing the following message:

Waratah, Sept. 6, 1909.—Ship in great danger. Rolling badly. Will probably roll right over. Captain going to heave her to.

Later. If anything happens, will whoever finds this communicate with my wife, 4 Redcliffe Street, South Kensington, London? JOHN A. HUGHES.

The bottle was well corked and the marks upon it showed that it had been well sealed. The message was evidently written very hurriedly with an indelible pencil on a plain sheet of paper, which is still in good condition, although slightly damaged by water. The handwriting is large and plain, but shaky, and the message is unpunctuated.

The finding of the bottle and the message is attested by four local persons. The only point suggesting doubt as to whether the message is from the Waratah is the fact that on Sept. 6 she would have been forty-eight days overdue.

GET DEMAND FOR EARLE.

Authorities Receive Papers from France—Miss Herman Ill.

CHRISTIANIA, Jan. 12.—The Norwegian authorities received to-day from the French tribunal the decree of arrest and a demand for the extradition of Ferdinand Pinney Earle, the American artist, and Miss Charlotte Herman, who are charged with the kidnapping of Earle's eight-year-old son from a school in France. It is understood that the demand will be complied with.

The American Minister, Albert G. Schmedeman, said to-day that the American Government would not oppose extradition, but would ask for a postponement in the case of Miss Herman until the arrival of one of her relatives from New York. Miss Herman is said to be seriously ill.

KAISER CHOPS WOOD TO REDUCE WEIGHT

IN VIEW OF THE PUBLIC

Kaiserin Also Watches—Emperor Is Now Pronounced to be as Fit as a Man of His Age Can Possibly Be.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—In order to counteract a tendency to assume the physical dimensions of ex-President Taft, Emperor William has lately undergone a systematic course of outdoor training, or "work cure," as it is called by his physicians, who prescribed it.

The "cure" consisted of chopping, sawing, and carrying wood for from one to three hours a day. It was carried out in the gardens of Sans Souci Palace at Potsdam quite in the open, so that passersby could look on at will. The Kaiser, who has just abandoned the "cure" after eminently satisfactory results, kept on chopping and sawing entirely oblivious of the spectators. He was put to work under the supervision of an experienced woodman who was instructed not to spare his Majesty from heavy tasks.

Garbed in a simple hunting tunic, the Emperor appeared punctually at noon each day, remaining at work for from an hour to an hour and a half. Frequently he returned after luncheon for the purpose of piling up the wood he had split and chopped earlier in the day.

The Kaiserin was an occasional observer of her husband's activities, and several times the Emperor, who is fond of a joke, impressed one of his equerries into service. The wood, which was taken from the royal forests, was given at the end of each day to the Kaiser's fellow-workmen for sale on their own account.

The Emperor's physicians say the "cure" has not only produced the desired immediate effects, but has demonstrated that the Kaiser is as "fit" as a man of his age could possibly be.

FRANCIS KOSSUTH MARRIED.

Hungarian Statesman Wedded on Sickbed to Countess Benvoisky.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Jan. 12.—Francis Kossuth, leader of the Independence Party in the Hungarian Parliament, was married on his sickbed in Budapest to-day to Baroness Benvoisky.

M. Kossuth, who is 73 years old and a son of Louis Kossuth, the great Hungarian patriot, was a close friend of Baron Benvoisky, and the latter, when on his deathbed less than a year ago, begged M. Kossuth to marry his widow.

Both M. Kossuth and the Baroness nursed the sick man, and when M. Kossuth fell ill the Baroness nursed him too. They were to be married in March, when the Baroness's period of mourning for her husband would have ended, but this morning M. Kossuth became worse and the marriage was celebrated at 1 o'clock.

There was a double ceremony as M. Kossuth is a Protestant, while the Baroness, who is 59 years old, is a Catholic.

C.F.MURPHY, JR., WAS ACTIVE IN BONDING

Contractor Got Information from the Tammany Leader's Nephew and the McGuires.

CONSALUS WAS COLLECTOR

Flynn, Republican, Tells of Campaign Gifts at Whitman Inquiry—Grafters in Hughes's Time.

The names of Charles F. Murphy, Jr., nephew of the Tammany leader, and James K. McGuire, ex-Mayor of Syracuse, who now is under indictment for soliciting a campaign contribution from a corporation, were mentioned in testimony given yesterday at the John Doe graft investigation. As a result, a new line of inquiry was opened for District Attorney Whitman, who desires to ascertain what influence, if any, Murphy and McGuire, as silent partners in the bonding business, had with the State Highway Department.

John W. Flynn, a road contractor of Waterford, N. Y., called as a witness, said that he had received letters from Murphy and McGuire asking him to give them his bonding business. He could not take an oath, he said, that the signatures of Murphy and McGuire were genuine, but he was certain that letters he received purported to bear the signatures of Charles F. Murphy, Jr., and James K. McGuire. Flynn is an enrolled Republican.

Some of the letters received by him, Flynn said, contained information of use to him as a prospective State contractor—engineers' estimates, contractors' bids for various jobs and contract awards. Flynn was certain that folders and advertising matter purporting to come from Murphy and McGuire were inclosures in the letters.

Testimony regarding a silent partnership between Murphy and McGuire was given by George H. McGuire, brother of James K. McGuire, at one of the early John Doe hearings. George H. McGuire said that McGuire & Co., Inc., of Syracuse, had an agreement with Charles F. Murphy, Jr., whereby profits on all contract bonding business were divided. Under this arrangement the McGuire brothers control much of the bonding business on State highway and barge canal jobs. Murphy has, as his field, subway and other big construction work in this city.

Contractor Flynn said that John E. Consalus of Albany was the bagman for a two-hundred-and-fifty-dollar campaign contribution in 1911 and for $150 in 1912.

Flynn Gave to Consalus.

"Why did you contribute?" asked Assistant District Attorney Clark.

"Well, in 1911, I didn't mind contributing, even though I was a Republican," explained Flynn. "I had been at the Saratoga Convention and I had heard Roosevelt call Jim Sherman all kinds of names. Jim Sherman was the only Vice President I had ever been on speaking terms with, and that attack on him left me in a bad frame of mind. The contractors wondered to whom we should give our contributions, and I understood that it was to John E. Consalus. I wanted to give him cash, but he wouldn't take it. So I gave him my check for $250."

"Did you know it was not recorded?" asked Mr. Clark.

"Never knew that," replied Flynn. Then he continued: "In 1912 I wasn't so willing to contribute, but you know there is such a thing as a contractor being bothered on his road work by an Inspector. I didn't want to be singled out, and so when Consalus came around for money I gave him $150."

Only one witness followed Flynn. He was Esler Sherwood of Monsey, Rockland County, N. Y. Sherwood said with pride that the Sherwood family had lived in Rockland for 250 years and that he was engaged in a general store business which had been founded by his great-great-grandfather.

Sherwood's name was mentioned in the testimony on Friday of William G. Merritt of Kingston, who said that he had made preliminary estimates for some road repair jobs in Ulster County. These estimates, Merritt said, had been raised in the Highway Department at Albany and the work had been given to favored contractors. Merritt named Sherwood as the man through whom he had submitted the preliminary estimates. Sherwood was the Superintendent of Maintenance and Repairs in charge of a district which included Ulster County. Merritt was his chief Inspector in charge of the repair work in Ulster County. Merritt also said that Sherwood had directed the placing on his, Merritt's, payroll of a man named Sherill. Sherill, Merritt said, was described as a teamster and drew $5 a day. Merritt said that he was a chauffeur who drove his own car and never owned a team.

Sherwood testified yesterday that Merritt had lost his job on his, Sherwood's, recommendation. He thought that this might explain Merritt's bitterness.

"How do you explain the doubling of the estimate on that repair job in Ulster County?" asked Mr. Clark.

"That's hard to explain," replied the witness.

"Did you have anything to do with it?"

"No, Sir; that was done in Deputy Highway Commissioner Foley's office."

Had Rejected Merritt's Payrolls.

Sherwood said that he had had trouble with Merritt's payrolls, and finally refused to approve any of them. He demanded Merritt's dismissal by Deputy Commisioner Foley, he said, and dismissal followed.

"One of the payrolls Merritt sent me to O. K.," said Sherwood, "contained the signatures of seven alleged workmen which were apparently all written in the same handwriting. I blue pencilled the seven names, and when Commissioner C. Gordon Reel heard of it he ordered the payroll sent back to Merritt. It was fixed up, and then Reel O. K.'d it. Reel O. K.'d all the payrolls in Ulster County. That is his home, you know, and he wanted things done right."

"How about this man Shilling, the chauffeur?" asked Mr. Clark.

"Well, my impression is that I got instructions from Commissioner Reel to write to Merritt and have him placed on the list. And if this was done, I want to say that it was justified. It may look queer on the surface, but Reel was justified in asking me to have Shilling put on the list. The truth is that Shilling used his own automobile, and certainly an automobile on a road job is worth more than $5 a day. Shilling came to me and asked for more money, and I said I was willing if he could get Reel's consent. There was nothing wrong about that."

Sherwood explained that he had lost his job as Superintendent of Maintenance and Repairs after the shake-up in the Highway Department under Gov. Sulzer. He then became one of John A. Hennessy's expert investigators, he said. He was laid off, he said, on Dec. 1 last.

Sherwood explained that he had had some experience with grafters in Gov. Hughes's first administration.

"I was Town Supervisor in Ramapo, Rockland County, some years ago," said Sherwood, "and the county, under a system in vogue then, got a contract to build a fourteen-mile road from Tompkins Cove to Highland Lake, past J. P. Morgan's estate. As Supervisor I was in charge of the construction of the road.

"A man came to me and said he represented Charles O'Neal, then the First Deputy Highway Commissioner under Commissioner Skene. He wanted the Board of Supervisors to increase the cost of the sub-base on the roadbed by $20,000. The work was half finished at the time. It was a mountain road, practically built on stone, and no sub-base was needed. This man said that the Board of Supervisors would get $2,000 of the $20,000, and the other $18,000, he said, would go up-State. If this were done, he said, some $32,000 in funds belonging to Rockland County and tied up in the State Treasury would be released."

"Who was the man who came to you?" asked Mr. Clark.

"I don't know who he was."

"Did you do it?" asked Mr. Clark.

"No, Sir; they couldn't buy me for a million dollars," said the witness.

The inquiry will be continued at 2:30 o'clock on Friday afternoon.

ALL IN OSBORNE'S HANDS.

Gov. Glynn Angrily Asserts That He Is Not Letting Down on Graft Cases.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 12.—Gov. Glynn was annoyed to-day by the publication of a report that 310 cases of highway corruption had been placed in his hands by John A. Hennessy in November last, some of which were ready for Grand Jury action and that no one as yet had been prosecuted.

"Every case that Hennessy gave me was handed over to James W. Osborne, who was appointed investigator," said Gov. Glynn this evening. "If these cases were ready for the Grand Jury why were they not presented? This talk that I'm 'letting down' on these cases is absolute rot. I am waiting for Mr. Osborne to make his report. He has a free hand to do what he thinks best. To read statements that have been made one would think I was trying to suppress the investigation of 310 crimes, which is absolute rot."

Mr. Osborne has informed Gov. Glynn that in another week he will be in a position to continue his investigation without any further delays.

Both Gov. Glynn and Attorney General Carmody are disturbed by the failure of Mr. Osborne to obtain evidence that will warrant action by Grand Juries. Mr. Osborne probably will resume his investigation at the Capitol the latter part of the week.

WOMAN SUES INVENTOR.

Miss Harris Says Splitdorf Broke Agreement with Her.

Charles Frederick Splitdorf, inventor of a magneto starter for automobiles, was the defendant in three suits yesterday for damages aggregating $66,600. The plaintiff in all the actions is Lilla Harris, "sometimes known as Lilla Splitdorf," according to the complaints. The most important suit is based on an alleged agreement entered into between Mr. Splitdorf and Miss Harris in 1904, providing that Miss Harris should be housekeeper and companion to Mr. Splitdorf. For this she was to receive $300 a month for spending money, shelter, clothes, jewels for personal adornment, and every detail of comfort and convenience that such a companionship demanded.

The agreement was in force for nine years, and the parties to it lived in the Glenmore Apartments, at 859 Seventh Avenue, until Dec. 9, according to the complaints, when Mr. Splitdorf went away. Miss Harris says he carried away with him all the furniture and other articles, leaving her without a home sustenance, or raiment other than that which she wore at the time. Miss Harris says that Mr. Splitdorf made this sudden move in a spectacular manner, "with violence and blusterings, and abusive language, and in the presence of a large concourse of people that had been attracted by the noise and confusion."

One of the complaints is based on alleged slanderous remarks which Miss Harris charges Mr. Splitdorf made in the presence of Mrs. Anna Williams, Mrs. Mary Hamlin, and Miss Letty Taylor. Miss Harris says that Mr. Splitdorf threatened to destroy her and to cut her clothes to pieces.

Cleaner Killed in Subway.

John Leonard, a cleaner, employed in the Subway, was walking along the tracks near the Columbus Circle station shortly after 6 o'clock last evening, when he was struck by a downtown express train. His skull was broken and he died soon after in the Polytechnic Hospital. Leonard was 45 years old and lived at 202 West 146th Street. The accident was witnessed by many persons in the station.

BIG REDUCTIONS IN PRICES OF WOOLENS

Domestic Prices for Fall of 1914 Lowered and Buyers Are Out in Force.

SEE FOREIGN COMPETITION

Heavy Cuts in Prices of Fabrics Not Likely to Affect the Ultimate Consumer.

Unusual interest marked the opening yesterday by the American Woolen Company of complete lines of serges, unfinished worsteds, clays, cheviots, French backs, &c., for the Fall season of 1914. Material reductions in prices from last Fall were made on practically all lines, due in large measure, it was said, to the anticipated competition from abroad, resulting from the lower rates of duty on woolen fabrics carried in the new tariff law, and which became effective on Jan. 1.

The prices quoted by the domestic manufacturer are understood to have been reached after an exhaustive study of the competition likely to be met here from the foreign mills. Whether or not prices will remain at the levels quoted yesterday remains to be seen. Some persons in the trade professed to believe that later on there may be a shading in prices, either up or down, according to actual conditions prevailing in the near future. Buyers were out in force, and evinced much interest in the offerings. Excellent business was reported.

The American Woolen Company's prices on serges, clays, unfinished worsteds, and French backs were 20 to 37½ cents below last Fall for serges for the Fall of 1914. Clays showed reductions of 20 to 27½ cents from last Fall. Unfinished worsteds are 22½ to 27½ cents lower. The heaviest reduction is nearly 23 per cent on Washington serge, 313-3. Opening prices were as follows:

Also French backs, 716—12, at $1.50, and 209—½—1 serges at 65 cents.

Patterson & Greenough opened Ontario serges yesterday: 5,114, $1.20; 5,116, $1.30; 5,118, $142½; Senecas serges: 5,214, $1.30; 5,216, $1.45; 5,218, $1.60; unfinished worsteds: 51.014; $1.25; 51.016, $1.35; 52.014, $1.35; 52.016, $1.45. Prices were 10 to 12 per cent. below last year.

Many other firms opened staple lines at material reductions compared with last year. William Stroud & Co. opened three grades of A. L. Sayles & Sons overcoatings for the season of 1914 as follows: Balmacaan, 19 to 20 ounce, $1 a yard; plaid backs, $1.07½ a yard, and two through-and-through overcoatings at 80 cents and $1.05 a yard respectively. The range of prices is from 80 cents to $1.20 net. William H. Duval & Co. opened in their foreign department. G. H. Hirst & Co., Ltd., Batley, England, meltons and beavers ranging from 70 cents to $1.55 net a yard for the Fall season of 1914. In their domestic department the offerings included overcoatings at prices ranging from 77½ cents to $1.37½ net a yard for the Fall season of 1914.

G. F. Vreeland & Co., men's wear department, opened their line of overcoatings at 80 cents to $1 a yard. Cox & Schreiber showed Fall overcoatings, including their Jeffersons, at prices ranging from 75 cents to $1.75 per yard. Kenyon & Childs showed chinchillas, plain and fancy back, and fancy cheviot and velour overcoatings at $1.15 to $1.50 a yard for the fall season of 1914.

Inquiry in the trade regarding the effect to the ultimate consumer as the result of the heavy cuts in prices of fabrics brought little comfort. The consensus of opinion appeared to be that the reduced cost of fabrics would be lost among the handlers before it reached the buying public.

SUES FOR RAILROAD BONDS.

Male Wants $125,000 Due on Atlantic & Pacific Securities.

Francis Sherwood Male, as Trustee for Gilbert W. Chapin, brought a suit in equity yesterday for $125,000 in the Federal District Court against the reorganized Atchison, Tokeka & Santa Fé Railway Company, the old railroad company of the same name, the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company, as the holder in trust of income bonds of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company. He asserts that the principal of these was due on Oct. 1, 1910, and that he had not been reimbursed because of foreclosure sales and the "corrupt and dishonest practices of the defendants in connection therewith."

The Atlantic & Pacific was one of the lines which were included in the old Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railroad Company, and has been through all the reorganization processes with the parent company. It is said that in these processes the obligations which were due to the holders of the income bonds did not receive proper recognition, and that as they were not in the nature of a mortgage, and so subject to foreclosure proceedings, they were valid until satisfied.

Moreover, it is asserted that although the income of the Western division of the Atlantic & Pacific, ever since Oct. 1, 1897, has been sufficient to pay the interest upon the income bonds, the company has had no money to pay either the bonds or the interest upon them, and has had no property against which judgment might be taken. All the property, it is alleged, has been merged in the new Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railway Company, and the Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company has renounced its trust so far as the income bonds are concerned.

So Mr. Male asks for judgment for $120,000 against the Atlantic & Pacific Company, with interest to the date of the maturity of the bonds, and that the judgment he may obtain may be held as a lien against the old and new Atchison companies. Wood, Cooke & Seitz of 63 Wall Street are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

DEPLORES INDECENT DRESS.

Prelate Calls on Christian Women to Give Good Example.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Following the condemnation by the Archbishop of Paris of modern dress, Mgr. Gidier, Bishop of Versailles, in the Semaine Religieuse, publishes a note protesting against the indelicacy of certain feminine fashions now in vogue. He says:

"All serious persons groan against the indecency to which women, especially in France, lend themselves under the pretext of following the prevailing modes. These indecencies have invaded other countries of Europe and even America. Therefore, truly Christian women have decided to struggle against this invasion of bad morals.

"If indecent modes have gone to other countries from us, it is from us also that a good example should go out."

REWARD SEA RESCUES.

Owners of the Oklahoma Give Gregory's Officers $500 Each.

Capt. William T. Aspinall and his three officers, R. H. Buck, J. S. Williams, and F. D. Roberts of the Booth Line steamship Gregory, received yesterday a reward of $500 each for saving five survivors of the oil ship Oklahoma, which was wrecked on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 4. The President of the Gulf Refining Company, which owned the Oklahoma, sent a check for $2,000 to the agents of the Booth Line saying that he wished the money to go to the officers.

Buck, Williams, and Roberts when they saw the Oklahoma's lifeboat capsized and the wornout men struggling in the water alongside the Gregory, jumped overboard in their uniforms. Third Officer Roberts dived three times in the ice cold water for a sailor who was pronounced dead by Surgeon Kirby when he was brought to the ladder of the Gregory.

CONTROLLER DENIES PROGRESSIVE DEBT

Prendergast, Replying to Straus, Says the Party Did Not Want Him Named.

CUT HIM AT THE ELECTION

Republicans Were Entitled to the Place If There Had Been Any Trading, He Adds.

Controller William A. Prendergast, in a letter to Oscar S. Straus, denied yesterday that his nomination on the Fusion ticket last Summer was a concession to the Progressives or that it was brought about by members of that party. He said that he understood that Mr. Straus had criticized his action in leaving the Progressive Party after he had obtained the Fusion nomination, and he wanted it made clear that he did not feel that under the circumstances he should have either declined the nomination or continued to adhere to the Progressive organization.

The Controller said that his nomination was not the result of a division of spoils, and he said he knew that those in control of the Progressive Party in the city did everything in their power to keep him from getting the nomination. These Progressives, he said, wanted Bainbridge Colby nominated, and he added that an analysis of the vote in certain districts last November showed that while he was cut by Republicans "the knife was applied to an even greater extent by those who voted in the Progressive column." Regarding the statement that his nomination was an award to the Progressive Party, Mr. Prendergast said:

> The statement that my nomination was in the nature of an award to the Progressive Party is without the slightest foundation. It was the boast of the Fusion forces during the late campaign that at last we had secured a city ticket composed of men who were named because of their especial qualifications for the positions for which they had been nominated and without regard to their political affiliations. I heard this statement made upon the platform not less than fifty times during the course of the campaign. This was also the sentiment of the press which supported the Fusion ticket, and I do not believe that any one will seriously question that it was the feeling of the great mass of our people. In the face of this belief, how can the Progressives now claim that I was nominated to please them or as a piece of the division of the spoils?
> Let us look at the question from another point of view. Assuming the arguments of some of the Progressives that I was nominated to represent them, pray who was nominated to represent the Republican Party upon the city ticket? Does not the very fact that the organization which was expected to furnish the largest number of votes for a Fusion ticket, and which actually did furnish the largest number of votes for that ticket, namely, the Republican Party, was not given the slightest representation upon the city ticket, prove conclusively that there was no thought in the minds of the people who framed this ticket that it should be constructed upon a basis of partisan division?

Mr. Prendegast said he knew that some of the members of the Fusion Committee were against his being nominated, but that the great majority were in favor of it, not because he was a Progressive, but because they felt that the work he had done in the Controller's office justified his nomination. As for the statement that his nomination was brought about bp the Progressives, Mr. Prendegast said:

> Immediately after the last Presidential election I made a public statement to the effect that the coming municipal election must be fought upon non-partisan lines, and must be the result of a fusion of the different elements opposed to Tammany Hall. My statement was immediately attacked by a number of leading Progressives, the district leaders taking their cue from them. They maintained there would be no fusion at all, and so irreconcilable were they o he idea that many of them publicly declared at dinners, and in other places, that the very word "fusion" was objectionable. How sound these gentlemen were in their prognostications is, of course, shown by the fact that throughout the entire campaign the element opposed to Tammany Hall was known as the Fusion Party.
> This movement had for its object the nomination of Mr. Mitchel for Mayor and Brainbridge Colby for Controller. Mr. Colby had a perfect right to be a candidate for Controller; but certainly it is idle for Progressives to talk about having helped me to a renomination when I know that they were actively engaged in trying to bring about the nomination of another man, and of also doing everything in their power to prevent my renomination.

Mr. Prendergast said he knew that certain Progressives encouraged the argument that Mr. Hearst's opposition to him would be fatal. With the exception of a few Progressives in Manhattan and Brooklyn, including the late Timothy L. Woodruff, he said, there was decided hostility to his nomination. The Controller went on:

> I have been informed that even you remarked upon one occasion that if I had declared my unwillingness to co-operate further with the Progressive Party, it would have afforded that organization an opportunity to select some one else for the place upon the ticket which was given to me. I can hardly believe that when you made this remark you fully appreciated its portent, because it shows unmistakably that instead of being interested in civic betterment, and dedicating themselves to non-partisanship in municipal affairs, as these Progressives would like to have us believe they did, what they really had in mind was that they were entitled to the Controllership as a piece of political spoils. Now, may I ask you on what basis would they have been entitled to it? When I was elected to this position I was nominated for it by the Republican Party. I took part in the formation of the Progressive movement, being the first and only Republican in New York State holding an elective position to do so, and this some time before most of our Christian Soldiers had made up their monds whether Armageddon would mean Greenwood or drywood to them. Did that entitle the Progressives to the office I held? It seems to me that as a question of logic and fairness, the place really belonged to the Republicans, if we are to accept the Progressive view to which I have called your attention.

The Progressives have been bitter in their criticism of Controller Prendergast for deserting the Progressives and going over to the Republicans, and at a recent meeting of the Progressive Club in Mr. Straus's district the Controller was assailed for taking the nomination and waiting until he was elected before leaving the Progressive Party.

HOME SOLD; FAMILY DEAD.

Wealthy American Revisits Birthplace in Switzerland.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

GENEVA, Jan. 12.—A wealthy American, James Noirat, 79 years old, who was born in the village of Noirmont, near Neuchatel, paid a visit to his birthplace a few days ago. He found his old home sold and all the members of his family with whom he had not had any correspondence since he left Switzerland in 1851, dead. He had eight brothers and sisters.

Mr. Noirat founded in Boston, Washington, and New York forwarding and exchange agencies which prospered, and he is said to be a millionaire. He became a naturalized American and married an American woman, who died two years later. He has no children and has remained a widower.

Mr. Noirat, after settling his affairs in America, intends to live in Noirmont. It is understood that he will try to find nephews and nieces who are scattered over Europe and are in poor circumstances.

BRITISH CABINET DISPUTE.

Churchill-Lloyd George Deadlock Believed to be Complete.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 13.—Winston Churchill had a long interview with Premier Asquith yesterday afternoon, the conversation was, of course, private, but it is assumed that it largely dealt with the naval estimates.

The Daily Mail says: "The belief was entertained in political circles last night that if the Prime Minister offered the First Lord of the Admiralty an opportunity to modify his views regarding the requirements of the navy, Mr. Churchill must have found himself unable to abate any of his demands, which, it is understood, he regards as the minimum that national safety requires."

"The difference between Messrs. Lloyd George and Churchill is believed to be acute and the deadlock on the subject of the navy estimates is complete. If this is so the matter will presumably have to be decided by the Cabinet as a whole, and it is possible that the decision will not be entirely free from preoccupation with regard to the effect it may have upon the future political career of the First Lord of the Admiralty."

MAGYAR ACTRESS MURDERED

Body Found in a Trunk; $20,000 Worth of Jewels Gone.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Jan. 12.—Budapest has a murder mystery. On Saturday the body of a woman was found in a basket trunk. A reporter on the staff of a Budapest newspaper recognized the woman as a well-known music hall artist, Else Turcsanyi, whose housekeeper was arrested to-day. The woman says that on Friday three men of aristocratic appearance called in an automobile to take her mistress for a ride, one of the men was addressed by his companions as "Count." When she left the house, the housekeeper says, Fraulein Turcsanyi was wearing diamond earrings, rings and other jewelry worth $20,000. No jewels were found on the body.

MAYOR 'HOLES OUT' AQUEDUCT TUNNEL

Explodes Blast Which Marks the Completion of World's Greatest Water Tube.

CONGRATULATES WORKERS

Guests in Trolley Cars Travel Through the Tunnel Hundreds of Feet Beneath the City Streets.

Mayor Mitchel, at 11:40 o'clock yesterday morning, threw an electric switch in the tunnel of the new Catskill Aqueduct and the explosion of a comparatively light charge of dynamite which followed removed the last barrier in the great tube which extends now uninterrupted from the Ashokan Reservoir in the Catskills to the terminal shaft in Flatbush. When the tunnel has been lined throughout with concrete and the control apparatus has been installed in the shafts, the aqueduct will be ready for use.

The rock barrier which the Mayor destroyed was about 440 feet below the surface at 153d Street and St. Nicholas Avenue. Mr. Mitchel, when he threw the electric switch that exploded the blast, was underneath 150th Street.

It was bitter cold when the Mayor's party arrived at the aqueduct shaft, but the air was warm in the teunnel. The ceremonies began at 11:30 o'clock with a speech by Charles Strauss, head of the Water Board. The Mayor delivered a short address then and set off the blast. After the dust from this had subsided the official guests went in trolley cars through the tunneil to 165th Street and Edgeeombe Avenue, where the Mayor, the Water Commissioner, and the other visitors ascended a distance of 478 feet to the street.

"This marks," said Mr. Strauss in his address, "the end of the most stupendous engineering feat in the history of the City of New York. It is, as a matter of fact, the greatest engineering work having to do with a water supply in the history of the world. There has never been anything like it either in ancient or in modern history. It is by far the longest rock tunnel the world has ever seen. The next greatest tunnel through rock is the Simplon Tunnel, in Switzerland, and that is less than one-third the length of the great tunnel which the Mayor will 'hole' through in the next few minutes.

"The Mayor's act will be really the beginning of the end of the city's great work. Its completion will forever remove, so far as the City of New York is concerned, the danger of a water famine. With the added supply of water the aqueduct is to bring to us, the supply of New York will aggregate 700,000,000 gallons a day, which is a supply of more than 100 gallons for every person in New York, the greatest quantity ever given by a city to its citizens in all the history of the world. I congratulate the men who have accomplished this splendid work. I congratulate their magnetic Chief Engineer, Waldo Smith, and through the Mayor I congratulate the citizens of New York on the happy event that has made this day memorable."

As Mr. Strauss finished, Mayor Mitchel stepped to within a foot or so of an electric switch, which controlled the current used to explode the dynamite under the last of the rocky barriers in the aqueduct.

"When the plant at Hill View is completed," said the Mayor, "and the water is turned into the tunnel, we will be, as Mr. Strauss has said, forever removed from the danger of a water famine. I think that the people of New York have a just reason to be proud of this magnificent work. I have never known an engineering work carried to more successful completion than has been the construction of the great aqueduct from Ashokan Reservoir to the City of New York."

The Mayor told briefly then the history of the work, and closed by extending to the engineers and all others who had labored in the accomplishment of the undertaking the gatitude and congratulations of the people of the City of New York.

Then the Mayor stepped forward and threw the electric lever. There was a heavy report, and the earth and rock crumbled down to the floor of the shaft. The echoes lasted a minute, and when the dust and smoke had cleared away far ahead could be seen a star made of many colored electric lights. The star indicated the place where the last of the barriers had been.

The trolley ride through the uncompleted tunnel south of 155th Street and through the completed section north as far as 165th Street began then. The Mayor was in the first of the little observation cars. As he stepped aboard the top of his hat touched the trolley wire and a man shouted a warning to him. Some of those in the party decided that the Mayor had escaped death narrowly. As a matter of fact the wire was "dead," and the power was not turned on until several minutes after the Mayor had taken his seat in the car.

In the Mayor's party were Borough Presidents Douglas Mathewson of the Bronx, Maurice E. Connolly of Queens, Lewis H. Pounds of Brooklyn and Charles J. McCormick of Richmond; Commissioners Charles Strauss, Charles N. Chadwick and John F. Galvin of the Water Board; City Chamberlain Henry Bruere, Park Commissioner Cabot Ward, Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith, Chief Engineer Waldo Smith of the Aqueduct, and many men prominent in the affairs of the city.

As Mayor Mitchel came out of the tunnel at 165th Street and Edgecombe Avenue a quartet of Aqueduct workers sang a song that brought a smile to the Mayor's face. Here is one verse:

Wait till the dam is finished,
And the water is rising high,
We will be happy, Waldo,
You and I.

Down the Aqueduct we'll wander,
Robert, you and I.
Wait till the dam is finished,
By and by.

The Waldo referred to was the Chief Engineer of the Aqueduct, Waldo Smith.

JAPANESE VILLAGES BURIED.

Ashes from Volcano Overwhelm Them—Boats Rescue Inhabitants

TOKIO, Jan. 12.—A series of 350 slight earthquakes shook the town of Kagoshima, at the southern end of the island of Kiushiu, to-day, and was followed by the eruption of a volcano on Sakura, a small island in the gulf of Kagoshima, where two villages were buried in ashes.

The earthquakes continue incessantly and the work of rescuing the inhabitants of Sakura by boats, which have proceeded there across the intervening three miles of water from Kagoshima, is extremely difficult.

Ashes have fallen all day in Kagoshima itself, and telegraphic communication with the capitol is interrupted.

"L'AMORE DEI TRE RE" SUNG

Montemezzi's New Opera Again Wins Approval at Metropolitan.

The reception of Italo Montemezzi's new opera, "La'Amore dei The Re," when it took its place last night for the first time in the regular subscription series after its premiere on Jan. 2, was such as to indicate that the merits of the work have won genuine approval, and that it is certain to obtain an important place in the regular répertoire of the house. The audience was very large, and there was a good deal of enthusiasm. The customary stream of those who depart early was notably less than is usually the case, most of the subscribers remaining to the end.

The cast was practically the same as that of the first performance, the single exception being that Mme. Maubourg sang the small part of the young girl in addition to her own, owing to the indisposition of Sophie Braslau. Mr. Ferrari-Fontana, Mr. Amato, and Mr. Didur were at their best, as was also Miss Bori. For Mr. Didur it can be said that, if anything, he added a few indefinable touches to make his characterization of the old King a more tragically powerful figure. Mr. Ferrari-Fontana showed a slight trace of hoarseness at the outset, but this soon wore off, and he sang with great effect. Mr. Amato and Miss Bori were both superb in rôles that are in a way the most difficult of the opera, since they demand more subtle touches of histrionism than the others.

Mr. Toscanini again led the orchestra to a perfect expression of the beauties of the score.

Rebecca Davidson's Piano Recital.

Rebecca Davidson gave a piano recital at Aeolian Hall last night, making her first appearance here as a concert pianist. Her programme comprised Tausig's arrangement of a toccata and fugue by Bach, capriccios and an intermezzo from Brahms's Op. 76, and the same composer's "Rhapsodie" in E flat, Beethoven's "Variations" with fugue, Liszt's "Ballade" in B minor, and four shorter pieces. Miss Davidsen did not make it evident that she possessed talent of a superlative order.

Others who appeared were Kathleen Howard, Morton Adkins, Ivy Scott, Lois Ewell, Lena Mason, Bertram Peacock, Florence Coughlan, Edward Ormay, William Schuster, Frank Philipps, and Alfred Kaufman.

What Is It?

The usual cup of coffee contains about 2½ grains of caffeine, a drug which often produces aches, ails and discomfort; but the habit can be quickly overcome by using well-made Postum.

One of the most pleasing features of this change from coffee to Postum is the total absence of a sense of something missed.

But more important is that "good all over" feeling of returning health; and it's the finest trade possible to quit coffee and get well.

Postum, made of prime wheat and a small per cent. of New Orleans molasses, is a pure food-drink. It is wholesome and nourishing; and has a delicious, snappy flavour resembling that of Old Gov't Java, but is entirely free from the coffee drug, caffeine.

Anyone can make a stand for the old fashioned fun that comes with health and the power to "do things." Suppose you try it!

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

Postum now comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be boiled 15 to 20 minutes.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A scant teaspoonful stirred in a cup of hot water dissolves instantly.

The convenience of Instant Postum is apparent. But, when prepared according to directions, both kinds are exactly the same. The cost per cup is about equal.

—Grocers everywhere sell both kinds.

THREE NATIONS FACE RACE EXTINCTION

EUGENIC PROBLEMS HERE

Low Marriage Rate Among the Superiorily Fit Called Alarming—Segregation of Weak-Minded Urged.

BATTLE CREEK, Jan. 12.—If the birth rates in England, Germany, and France continue to decrease as they have since 1880, there will be no children born 100 years hence, according to the figuring of Dr. J. McKeen Cattell, as made known to-day to the Conference for Race Betterment.

"In France," he said, "the population is now stationary, while in some departments there are four deaths for every three births. In other nations an increasing population has been maintained through a decreasing death rate, but in England and elsewhere the death rate must increase, being so low now on account of the age constitution of the population. It is only in Japan that the birth rate is increasing, though it still remains high in Russia. Five dreadnoughts built annually in England are fragile toys compared with 5,000,000 children born annually in Russia."

Dr. Cattell argued that if the race generally is to survive there will have to be eugenic selection of healthy mothers and provision made for the cost of bearing and rearing children.

"The completed family of contemporary scientific man," he continued, "is about 2, the surviving family about 1.8, and the number of surviving children for each scientific man about 1.6. Twenty-two per cent. of the families are childless; only one family in seventy-five is larger than six. The same conditions obtain for other college graduates.

"If the size of family of college graduates should continue to decrease as it did during the nineteenth century, students graduating in 1925 would have no children.

"Answers from 461 leading scientific men giving the causes which led to the limitation in their size of their families show that 176 were not voluntarily limited, while 285 were so limited. The cause of voluntary limitation was health in 133 cases, expense in 98 cases, and various other causes in 54 cases."

This, said Dr. Cattell, was a condition which certainly could not be regarded with satisfaction.

Hastings H. Hart of the Russell Sage Foundation, New York, urged that segregation of feeble-minded persons was necesasry if the production of defective delinquents was to be avoided. This, he said, was the most practical and effective method. It had been tested thoroughly and successfully with the insane.

"We should undertake a comprehensive campaign for the care of all feeble-minded girls of child-bearing age," argued Mr. Hart. "The problem of the feeble-minded girl is much more acute than that of the feeble-minded boy. If society will take care of the feeble-minded girls of child-bearing age we shall soon see a visible decrease in the number of defective delinquents."

Prof. Roswell Hill Johnson of the University of Pittsburgh declared that "the superior stock of the race" was marrying at an alarmingly low rate.

"In order to advance this rate, which must be done, it is necessary," he said, "to promote the following agencies:

"Let young persons of both sexes be educated together, as they now are in many institutions.

"Let the young people be impressed with the thought that marriage is their ideal and normal goal of life, and let all cynical and pessimistic views of marriage be opposed.

"Above all things, let young people have the widest range of acquaintance possible. Children and youths nowadays don't know enough of their kind. School and church do not offer sufficient range. Let civic authorities inaugurate municipal dances. Properly supervised, these are for the greater good of the individual and of the race in future generations."

Dr. C. B. Davenport, Director of the Carnegie Station of Experimental Evolution at Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., urged that a broader official study be given the subject of producing better men and women, instead of so much study for the protection and care of defective types.

Dr. Maynard M. Metcalf of Oberlin College, expressed the opinion that the only certain improvement of the race would come through proper breeding and culture.

Prof. H. A. Miller of Olivet College, Mich., insisted that the policy and study of eugenics should be taken up in a conservative way. He branded many of the more radical suggestions as "impractical and utopian."

Rollins Gilman, head worker of the University Settlement Society of New York, suggested that the conference set in motion machinery for the calling together of delegates from all the leading nations of the world for a congress to discuss ways and means by which such nations, each acting for itself but for the good of all, could through governmental action, or otherwise, better the race of man from the standpoints of physical health, mental attainments, and moral stamina.

SUES BRENTON FOR $50,000.

Trinity Professor's Divorced Wife Charges She Was Locked in a Cell.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Jan. 12.—Charging that she was unlawfully and cruelly kept a prisoner in a locked cell at the Linden Lodge Sanatarium at Brattleboro, Vt., while he was suing her for divorce, Mrs. Ernest Holman, who was Mrs. Cranston Benton, to-day filed a suit for $50,000 damages against the Rev. Dr. Cranston Brenton, Professor of Trinity College. Mrs. Brenton brought the original divorce suit but Dr. Brenton filed a counter action, naming Ernest Holman, of Watervillle, Me. This action was not contested and Mrs. Brenton married Holman within a week. They are now living in Maine.

To-day's suit was the outcome of a bitter feeling that was aroused by Mrs. Holman's stories of being abducted from her mother's home, arriving finally at the Vermont institution, where she was restrained and where detectives and lawyers employed by her friends found her in September, 1912, after searching for her in several States.

Mrs. Holman, who was Miss Elizabeth Alden Curtis, has written many poems. One of these contained this acrostic: "To thee, Ernest, O my love." It was said to have been written before she was divorced from Dr. Brenton.

German Potash Syndicate Extended.

The syndicate which controls most of the output of the potash mines of Germany has been extended from 1915 to 1925, according to an announcement made by its American representative, A. Vogel. As the only commercially profitable potash deposits are in the German Empire, the world is dependent on these supplies.

SIFF ESTATE DWINDLED.

Clothing Man's Suicide Came the Day Before Bankruptcy.

Nathan Siff, a clothing manufacturer, who committed suicide on Sept. 29, 1912, in order, it was thought, that his creditors might receive out of his insurance the money which was due them, left a gross estate of $322,322 and a net estate of $13,110, according to an appraisal filed yesterday in the Surrogates' Court. By his suicide Mr. Siff threw two of the firms in which he held large interest into bankruptcy. These were the United Silk Manufacturing Company and the Siff & Cohen Company, both having offices at 17 Waverley Place and factories at Paterson, N. J.

Petitions in bankruptcy were filed the day after Mr. Siff's death and were dismissed on Dec. 20. Mr. Siff had bank accounts of $2,907, insurance of $83,182, personal effects valued at $150, and stocks and bonds worth $25. His gross interest in the New York Mill End Pants Company, the Siff & Cohen Company, and the United Silk Manufacturing Company were appraised at $236,059. His debts amounted to $289,091.

FATHER WITH MISS BRADLEY

Meeting Between Him and Daughter Who Eloped Most Affectionate.

Special to The New York Times.

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 12.—Joel M. Foster of Brown's Mills, N. J., who eloped to this place with Delilah F. Bradley, will, according to his attorneys, probably waive examination when his case comes before United States Commissioner Richard Jones, Jr., on Wednesday, and let it go to the Federal Grand Jury, which does not meet until May next. The Commissioner will be asked to release him under nominal bond.

Harry E. Bradley, father of the girl, arrived here to-night, and is with his daughter at a small hotel here. The meeting between them was most affectionate.

"I will remain here until after the preliminary trial, and will take my daughter back to her home and mother," said Mr. Bradley. "I will assist the Government in the prosecution of Foster to the fullest extent. I will not resort to violence, but will let the law take its course."

No other persons accompanied Bradley to Mobile.

BOTANICAL GARDEN ELECTS.

Dr. Thompson Succeeds Judge Brown as President.

The Board of Managers of the New York Botanical Garden met yesterday at 66 Broadway and elected officers for the ensuing year. Dr. W. Gilman Thompson was elected President, succeeding to the post made vacant by the death of Judge Addison Brown. Andrew Carnegie and Francis Lynde Stetson were elected Vice Presidents, James A. Scrymser Treasurer, and Dr. W. L. Britton Secretary. Four new members were added to the board, J. P. Morgan, Daniel Guggenheim, Dr. Lewis Rutherford Morris, and Louis C. Tiffany.

Dr. Britton announced that in the past year the permanent funds of the board had been increased by gifts, subscriptions, and bequests aggregating $116,395, which brought the total permanent funds of the corporation up to more than $520,000. He said the committee in charge of the collection of a permanent fund had been instructed to keep up their work until $1,000,000 had been raised. The object of the fund, he explained, is to permit further expansion of the educational and scientific work of the institution, the increase of its collections, and the further ornamentation of its grounds.

SEARS VIBRATIONS NOT IN HARMONY

Founder of the New Thought Church Says She Will Sue for Divorce.

JARRING NOTE AT WEDDING

Ceremony at Aeolian Hall Interrupted by Woman Who Embarrassed Cult Teacher.

Dr. Julia Seton Sears, founder of the New Thought Church, otherwise known as the Religion of the New Civilization, has found a discord, she explained yesterday, in the "harmonious thought vibrations" which led her to select Frank W. Sears as her "mental and spiritual semi-chord." Translated into the vernacular of the courts, Dr. Sears has decided to institute divorce proceedings against her husband, to whom she was married twelve years ago in Denver. Incidentally, Dr. Sears expects to heal a schism in the New Thought Church which occurred when her husband three years ago founded a second branch of the "harmony sect" in this city at 110 West Thirty-fourth Street.

Dr. Sears made it known yesterday that the first discord in the harmonious vribrations existing between herself and her husband occurred on a visit which the couple made to London a few years ago.

"Mr. Sears's conduct," said the doctor, "was such that we decided to separate. I had instructed him in the New Thought philosophy, and after his return to New York he began to branch out as a teacher of this philosophy on his own account. He attempted to usurp my place at the head of the church which I had founded and he incidentally was too friendly with a young woman, who was one of the chief social workers in his newly established congregation. This young woman accompanied him abroad last Fall. They sailed from Boston on the Canadian Line on Sept. 13 and returned to New York on the Oceanic from Queenstown on Oct. 14."

Dr. Sears said she conducted most of her services at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, but she also maintains a New Thought "fraternity room" at 253 West Fifty-eighth Street. Her husband's followers meet in Aeolian Hall, in West Forty-second Street. Mr. Sears could not be found there yesterday afternoon, but a young man, who explained that he was Mr. Sears's secretary, informed the newspaper reporters that the apostle of physical and mental harmony had left for the day.

"No one knows where Mr. Sears lives," was the voluntary information of the secretary. "He prefers to keep his domicile secret. It is the place to which he repairs for rest and where he receives his inspiration and divine vibrations."

Dr. Julia Seton Sears lives at the Empire Hotel, in West Sixty-third Street, where she receives disciples and students of the New Thought cult.

The inharmonious marital relations of the two leading exponents of harmonious thought were discovered in the course of a New Thought wedding service conducted by Mr. Sears at Aeolian Hall on Sunday afternoon. He had just concluded the ceremony and was beginning the regular Sunday night services when a woman in the gallery arose and shouted:

"Has a married man, not free, living with another woman, the right to teach harmony?"

The question evidently startled the teacher, as Sears styles himself, and he peered anxiously up into the gallery in an effort to identify the heckler. Then he regained courage and responded:

"Was this man to whom you refer married under the laws of harmony? If he was inharmoniously mated, then, under the laws of God, he was not legally married."

"Three years ago," he went on, "I vowed to live under the laws of harmony. I have never represented myself as perfect, but no one lives a sweeter, purer, or more holy life than I."

Miss Natalie Brock, a member of Dr. Sears's class or congregation, said yesterday afternoon that among New Thoughters the practice obtains of removing the wedding ring from the wife's finger on each anniversary of the marriage, after which the husband "kisses it on again." Miss Brock added that the wedding ring of Dr. Sears was removed on the seventh anniversary of her marriage, while Dr. Sears and her husband were in London, and that the latter had declined to "kiss it on again," but had volunteered the explanation that his "soul chords did not still vibrate in harmony" with those of his wife.

At the New Thought wedding performed by Dr. Sears at Aeolian Hall on Sunday evening several hundred spectators paid admission fees ranging from 25 to 75 cents each to witness the ceremony.

CREDITORS TRAIL ASSETS.

Follow Vans Removing Goods from Bankrupts' Warehouse.

To trace the assets of a firm on the verge of bankruptcy, the creditors, according to affidavits filed yesterday in the Federal District Court, hired taxicabs and followed the trucks, as they left the warehouses, carrying, it was presumed, goods which should have figured in the assets of the firm.

Two involuntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed yesterday against Jacob Stein & Son, furriers of 34 West Twenty-sixth Street. The first was put in by Morris Bobis and two other creditors, who estimated the liabilities at $200,000 and the assets at $50,000, while their own claims were only $2,000. The other was instituted by S. Michael Cohen and two other creditors who have claims assigned to them of the face value of $904. The second set of petitioners say that the liabilities are $90,000 and that there are no assets, as they were all carried away yesterday morning.

Ernest K. Coulter was appointed receiver and the affidavits filed in connection with his appointment said that at 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning seven motor vans were brought to the Stein store. Stephen Brooks Rosenthal, attorney for some of the petitioners, had heard that the goods were to be removed and so seven taxicabs, each carrying a creditor, followed the vans to see where they went.

ABANDON FULTON MARKET.

Standkeepers Move Away from Dilapidated Landmark.

Some of the oldest standkeepers in Fulton Market have recently moved away to new quarters and others are preparing to folow them because of the neglect of the municipal authorities to make repairs to the ancient landmark at Fulton Street and the East River. Since the fire three years ago, which destroyed a large part of the structure on the Fulton Street side, the market has become unfit for business.

The Department of Health condemned it as unsanitary because of the defective roof and board flooring, and even the temporary "exemption" permits granted by the Board of Health to the stallkeepers, pending action by the city, have been recalled. A standkeeper said yesterday:

"When it rains we have to raise umbrellas to protect ourselves. Father Knickerbocker is certainly a hard landlord."

Among those who have abandoned their stalls were some of the largest dealers there, firms that had been in the market for seventy-five years or more, and in moving away they sacrificed many thousands of dollars that had been expended in fixtures and offices.

The exterior of the market presents a dilapidated appearence. There is scarcely a whole window of glass at any point of its four sides, bounded by Front, Fulton, Beekman, and South Streets. The woodwork is rotting, the roof broken, and there is an appearance of general decay everywhere about the building. The marketmen want a concrete floor and a new roof. The Board of Aldermen appropriated $63,000 for this purpose, but the Board of Estimate withheld approval on the ground that the market was operated at a loss to the city.

All of the stands and fixtures were built by the stallkeepers. This investment would be a total loss by removals, and for this reason about one-half of the original dealers are remaining despite the obstacles to their trade. They point to the fact that of those who have departed most of them have located in stores and offices near by, and are doing a profitable business. This indicates, say the dealers, that there is sufficient business incentive for the continuation of the market.

There appears little prospect, however, that the municipal authorities will agree to the expenditure of funds for restoring the market. The Mayor's Market Commission, which has for some time been engaged in an investigation of market conditions here and abroad, have recommended the discontinuance of all markets under municipal control under the present system, and have advised the establishment of a system of terminal markets in each borough to replace them.

Baseball Ticket Seller Fined $200.

James Scheck, a ticket seller at the Polo Grounds during the world's baseball series, was fined $200 yesterday by Justices McInerney, Zeller, and Herrmann, in the Court of Special Sessions. Scheck, who was arrested under the name of James Shea, was charged with a violation of the anti-tipping law. He is alleged to have accepted $50 for passing $200 worth of baseball tickets out of a side window.

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, JAN. 13, 1914.

THE NEW HAVEN AGREEMENT.

When the Attorney General of the United States and the Chairman of the board of the New Haven Railway reach an agreement there is a constraint upon everybody else to agree to the agreement, or to show controlling reasons to the contrary. There is a presumption that the Attorney General has done the best he could for the United States, and that Chairman Elliott has done the best he could for the railway. Those who may object to the Attorney General's exercising functions in connection with the trust cases which he does not exercise in connection with other laws forget the language of the statute.

That well-written law provides that "it shall be the duty of the several "District Attorneys of the United "States in their respective districts, "under the direction of the Attorney "General, to institute proceedings" under the statute. The prosecution of the trusts is the specific duty of the Attorney General. Those who have fallen under his observation because of their departure from his interpretation of the court's declaration of the law have a right to his official opinion, and he has a duty to give it. That is all that has happened. There is neither a dispensation from the law nor a license under the law. The Attorney General has said to those whom he is prosecuting that he does not see his way to continue the prosecution if his view of the law is accepted by acts showing repentance and a desire to comply with the law of the courts, as the Attorney General sees it.

To dissent because of an assumption of tenderness toward the railway is unreasonable, and an undeserved imputation upon the Attorney General. It is not in keeping with either his moral or intellectual character that he should favor such lawbreakers. The surrender of the railway is proof that he has not asked more than he should. Neither party to the agreement has done more or less than it ought. Both have done all that they could to solve the deadlock and allow the unfortunate road to earn itself out of its troubles.

Approval is limited to the agreement and cannot be extended further. The matter of criminal prosecution is not included, and therefore remains as it was. The agreement is as permanent as the Attorney General can make it, regarding the civil features alone, and in this respect leaves something to be desired. It may be the best feasible way to clear up old anti-trust matters, but it cannot show the lines of legality regarding new matters, unless the Attorney General is to assume duties which the law does not place upon him, and which presumably he is glad to escape. Even if the Attorney General were to assume to advise promoters regarding the validity of their enterprises, there could not be such stability about that procedure as to encourage new business. The Attorney General is not a court of record, obliged to conform to precedents, and with traditions against reversing himself. Even in this particular case there is a suggestion that this point should be covered by entering what is called "an agreed decree." It is an excellent idea, if the courts can be brought to such self-effacement as to accept it. But the courts might have a prejudice against ouster from their functions, and might wish to consider the subject for themselves. In that case there would be an end of the agreement as an agreement, and there would be substituted a judgment which would be free from the defects inherent in a mere personal opinion of an official who is a prosecutor, and not a Judge.

Approval of the agreement as procedure under the law is not necessarily approval of the economic or financial effects of the agreement. The Attorney General has no duties in connection with them. Excellent authorities say that the reversal of the company's mistaken policy of monopoly is equivalent to a restoration of its old prosperity. It is a tangled business at best, but both the company and the Government have done what they could to straighten it out. [illegible] receive the praise due to peacemakers, with such encouragement to prosperity as results from the substitution of agreement and co-operation for wrangling and strife.

THAT ANTI-BRYAN CONSPIRACY.

The tale of a widespread and richly financed conspiracy to force Mr. Bryan out of the President's Cabinet is well told, but there are good reasons for not accepting it. One is that there is no conceivable motive for the big interests, if any such still exist, to desire Mr. Bryan's removal. In his present place he is comparatively harmless, except as an occasional muddler of foreign questions, which do not bother the trusts and financiers at all. As his activities might be immeasurably increased, his health being excellent and his energy unabated, if he were relieved of his Ministerial duties, the inhabitants of the "enemy's country" are more than anxious to keep him just where he is. There is no other position in which the deficiencies of Mr. Bryan as a constructive statesman could be more frequently or more clearly demonstrated.

The organization formed to discourage and discredit him, which Mr. Bryan's friends have discovered in their dreams, includes the press. These friends intimate that the Washington correspondents have been bribed to make fun of him. That is obviously untrue. Mr. Bryan has provided all the fund himself, and the correspondents have only reported it. What is more, his departure from the capital would be regarded as a loss by all of them. He provides many columns of the very best "copy" to enliven the chronicles day by day. His interest in the family marketing, his total abstinence banquets, his fondness for grape juice, his association with the artists of vaudeville on the Chautauqua circuits, are subjects that relieved the monotony of department proceedings and Congressional debates. The conspiracy yarn may therefore be dismissed as a myth.

THE EVERLASTING THAW.

The finding of the Commission appointed by Judge Aldrich to inquire into the mental condition of Thaw is one of the most amazing documents ever signed by men of intelligence and a sense of responsibility. "In our "opinion," say these gentlemen, "it is "reasonably probable that Harry "Kendall Thaw's liberty under bail "would not be dangerous or a menace "to the public peace and safety." How did they form this "opinion"? By carefully closing their minds against the weightiest determining evidence in the case, and by giving to Thaw the benefit of every doubt, while giving to the public, whose peace and safety are menaced, no benefit whatever of any doubt.

The Commissioners say that they have preferred "to attach little importance" to the conflicting opinions of experts. Experts of highest qualifications have repeatedly declared under oath that Thaw was afflicted with a form of paranoia which is incurable, that, if freed, the probability that he would commit other homicides was very great. These were not off-hand opinions, they were based upon long and painstaking study of the character and acts of Thaw. They were based upon the history of great numbers of like cases, sufficient to show beyond reasonable doubt that Thaw's form of insanity was incurable, and that it would be unsafe to set him free. Ignoring this mass of competent testimony, the Commission prefers to act on its own judgment of Thaw; a judgment reached after a brief examination of the man, and a study of what appears to be only a part of the records of the court proceedings in his case. They know from the records how he behaved in Matteawan, how he has behaved since his escape. It is a form of delusion almost as bad as Thaw's to base conclusions on such appearances. What Thaw does when under restraint, sheltered from the excitements of liquor and evil companions is one thing. What he is likely to do when at liberty to return to the indulgences which have marked his whole miserable career as a degenerate and pervert, is quite another. Reasonable men, prudent men, we should suppose, would have reached the conclusion that Thaw's past is so clear an index to his future as to establish the reasonable probability not that he would be harmless, but that he would be dangerous. He has the blood of one man upon his soul already. Did this Commission think that the risk that he would shed blood again was entirely negligible? Did it take thought about its own responsibility?

Four times Thaw has been declared insane by the tribunals of the State where he committed his crime. In each case the determination of the court was that Thaw should be confined because it would be dangerous to set him free. These gentlemen at Concord set their own opinions above the conclusions reached in this State after inquiries far more diligent than they have carried on. It seems to us that there is a controlling presumption that the New York courts were right. Is it humanly probable that they would go wrong in four different proceedings? If there is such a presumption, ought not the benefit of it to have been given to the public rather than to a worthless degenerate who but for his money would never have been heard from after his first sentence to Matteawan? It is not an unjust aspersion, it is a simple truth to say that but for Thaw's money he would have stayed in Matteawan after being sent there. Money hires law- [illegible] can do many things, as well for as against the public. Since his escape they have erected defenses around Thaw which have paralyzed the arm of justice and of authority. By their efforts New Hampshire is put in the position of denying full faith and credit to the acts of a sister State. Through them the Federal authority has been invoked in a matter with which, viewed in its true light, it had no concern.

It is impossible to shut one's eyes to the very evident sympathy for Thaw, a sympathy so great as to create a singular bias in thousands of minds. This sympathy grows out of the belief of those who take Thaw at his word that in the crime he committed he was acting as the protector of American womanhood. The record of his own crimes and perversions effectually excludes that belief and all sympathy for him in the minds of those who are informed. But in Canada, in New Hampshire, information about Thaw appears to be woefully defective. There he becomes something of a hero, and the efforts of the State of New York to regain control of his person they look upon as a conspiracy, as persecution. In his earlier delusions Thaw heard "voices" commanding him to take human life as an avenger of wrong. There is an extreme probability that under the influence of drink he will again hear "voices," and if he is free once more to take up the rôle of an avenger other crimes will be committed. The guilt of the blood he may shed will not rest upon his head alone, however. The finger of accusation will point to those who gave him his opportunity, if in the court decision yet to be given the findings of the Commission shall be accepted.

THE SCHOOLS AND THE CHARTER.

Should the membership of the Board of Education be reduced? Should work, now done by this board, be transferred to the professional heads of the school system? These questions will be discussed as proposals for changes in the educational chapter of this city's charter at the meeting on Jan. 21 next, to which the Public Education Association has invited ex-President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard and Dr. Frederic C. Howe, who, together with Prof. Goodnow, investigated the merits of a small board.

Intelligent public discussion of these problems is very much needed at this time. Dr. Eliot is well known for his advocacy of the construction of programmes of study for all grades of the school system by experts and the placing of all the executive work in their hands. Dr. Howe has reported that New York's Board of Education should be reduced in size to eight members, modeled on the present organization of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. Prof. George H. Mead of the University of Chicago, speaking of the difficulties encountered by Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, head of the Chicago school system, finds that she was the victim of a board of twenty-one members, whose committees occupied "fields where the Superintendent should be supreme." The Goodnow-Howe report points out that at least 85 per cent. of the work now performed by this city's Board of Education should be in the hands of the professional staff in charge of the schools.

Antecedent to the drafting of a bill to reform the educational chapter of the charter, it is a splendid thing that the discussion will be led by able men speaking with distinguished authority.

THE MEXICAN PERIL.

The evacuation of Ojinaga by the Federals was simply desertion. They had not exhausted their ammunition and they fled to neutral territory because of Villa's murderous mood, instead of following the usual Mexican custom of going over to the enemy. Yet an alliance between the rebel chieftain and the demoralized forces of Huerta is not at all unlikely. Nothing of that sort is unlikely in Mexican warfare.

That Villa's forces, however increased, will ever reach the City of Mexico seems incredible. In Madero's case public sentiment supported the revolution. While he would never have been chosen to lead a patriotic revolt against a despotism, before he took to the field, his few inconsiderable victories won the support of the great body of Mexican business men and made his triumph thereafter easy. He was known as a man of principle and high ideals. Villa, like his fellow rebel in the south, Zapata, is a bandit with no idea of Government. Surely the millions of intelligent Mexicans engaged in the trades and industries must combine to make common cause against the lawless forces that are threatening to destroy their country.

"ABLE SEAMEN."

The committee on life-saving appliances of the London Conference on Safety at Sea agreed to submit this month a recommendation that boats for 75 per cent. of the maximum number of passengers should be provided on each ship, and life rafts or their equivalent for the remaining 25 per cent. The Seamen's bill passed by the Federal Senate and now before the House requires that the lifeboats shall accommodate all the passengers, and "not less than two men of the rating of able seamen" shall be provided for each lifeboat.

The experts believe that it is not necessary to provide lifeboats for every passenger. Sea-going ships occupy lanes of travel, and wireless equipment calls neighboring ships to the rescue. It is no longer necessary to [illegible] row for the shore. The life raft is as efficient as the lifeboat, in some respects its superior. The requirement of more lifeboats would litter up the decks, and the able seamen, men who have seen three years' service on deck at sea or on the Great Lakes, could be employed only as swabbers and polishers of brass work.

Another clause of this bill forbids the crew that mans the several departments from partaking in the lifeboat drill. It should require, not forbid it. The reason of the prohibition is evident in the fact that if the firemen, stewards, storekeepers, and other members of the crew were trained to the emergency service there would be no use at all for the able seamen. Perhaps if the steamship companies had been more careful in the past to school their crews for emergency service, this demand would not have been formulated.

But the bill is written for the Seamen's Union and to make jobs. It requires the hiring of three times as many men as are needed on deck, thus promoting idleness and loss of discipline, and it fails to protect the passengers with more than two experienced men for each lifeboat. The provision should be expunged, and a reasonable amendment for lifeboat service inserted.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Takes "Social" in Its New Meaning.

Opinions will differ, of course, as to the cogency of the arguments on which Vincent Astor bases his rejection of Socialism as a cure for social and industrial evils. There can be no question, however, that his answer to Upton Sinclair's appeal is an effective refutation of the accusation implied in that appeal—the accusation that Mr. Astor does not realize either the number or the gravity of those evils and has not given to them the serious consideration they deserve.

On the contrary, the statement shows that great wealth, though it came to him without effort, and, as Mr. Sinclair would probably say, without desert, on his part, brought with it a sense of responsibilities to be met, as well as, or at any rate in addition to, privileges to be enjoyed. Mr. Astor reveals clearly enough his appreciation of the changes in public sentiment which mark the day and his interest in them. He has been endeavoring to ascertain where he stands, or rather where he should stand, with regard to these changes—which to promote and which to oppose.

He might even be said to reveal his realization of the fact that the possession of such a fortune as his puts him on the defensive, and imposes on him the obligation to inform himself as to his social duties—using the word "social" in a sense very different from that given to it by the rich young man of conventional assumption. He seems to have consulted the recognized authorities in the opposing schools of thought, and to have balanced their contentions before forming his own decision.

This is as important, perhaps, as that he should have reached a decision absolutely right, especially as none of us, whatever we may think, can know that we have reached such a conclusion. Of course, good intentions, in themselves, do not count for much, but they do count for something, and this is not the first time that young Astor has evidenced the turning of his attention to the graver problems of the time. One recalls, for instance, his announced purpose to make his big estate up the Hudson an agricultural experimentation station, instead of a place for luxurious enjoyment, and in several other ways he has manifested an effective interest in public, as distinguished from private, welfare.

Courage and Hope Sustain Him.

In the message to the public sent by Representative Bremner from the Baltimore hospital where he lies struggling with the most terrible of human maladies in its most terrible form, one reads what are obviously the words of a man desperately sick, and knowing it. That he has his hours of discouragement is manifested by his pathetic effort to find comfort in the belief that, even should the radium treatment not be successful in his case, yet something will have been gained from the "experiment" of which he is the subject in the shape of knowledge to be used for the healing of others. He even goes so far as to say, "I would rather be in the category of those who were in the fight and helped to win the victory than to be one of those who placidly reaped the benefit."

The caution of Mr. Bremner's doctors is revealed when he expresses certainty only that radium is going to help in the fight against cancer. He has been told that he has a chance, not that he will be cured. But that is enough for a man of his quality, and he enlarges the chance by courage and hopefulness. "I will soon be well," he asserts, not many lines below his declaration of readiness for the "scrap heap," "soon be back at work, soon be overjoyed to greet those countless dear friends who have never forgotten me and whose well-wishes have been my chief support."

Mr. Bremner's tribute to his doctors might be read with profit by those members of the medical profession who are publicly criticising them—who, according to report, are even meditating their official censure for talking aloud about their treatment and so substituting hope for despair in many and many a stricken home. "Ethics," it seems, has been strained, if not violated!

Oh, well, some of us remember that "ethics" is but another name for "custom," and therefore not necessarily either right or sacred.

Our Grief Will Not Be Acute.

When the banks were last advertising the statements of condition periodically required by law there was expressed in this column some mild dissatisfaction with that part of the statute which insists that to each of these statements shall be appended an elaborate attestation from a notary, to the effect that he has propounded certain questions to the bank officials swearing to the accuracy of the figures given and that to these questions the officials had made certain replies.

The expense thus imposed on the banks is, of course, directly and immediately beneficial to the newspapers printing the statements, and The Times prints many of them, but it dislikes to see money wasted, even in the purchase of its own advertising space, and its sense of economic propriety was offended by the repeating of these long attestations many times on a page. Our criticism of the practice, it seems, was noted by Supt. Van Tuyl of the Banking Department, and he has explained and defended the [illegible]. He says that several bank officials not long ago escaped conviction of perjury because the notary who took the oaths to the false statements of condition made by them refused at the trial to testify that he could remember anything whatever about the administration of the oath to the individual Trustees. Thereupon the District Attorney's office, with the approval of the Supreme Court, suggested the addition to the report blanks of the new affidavit, as necessary for successful prosecution. The Attorney General has also advised against publication of the verification.

All that proves—what was not denied—the legality and the utility of the affidavit, but it fails wholly to convince us that a line or two stating that the report blank had been properly filled up would not serve when it came to putting the report in the newspapers. Still, these high authorities ought to know, and so, if they should insist on making bank expenditures of this sort even larger than they are now, our business office and others will doubtless have to take the money, no matter how regretfully.

NEW YORK'S RESERVE BANK.

Good Reasons Why It Should Be Larger and Stronger Than Others.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is only fair to the Organization Committee of the Federal reserve system to challenge the assumption that is made hereabout that the Secretaries have already made up their minds to limit the territory of the New York regional bank—that it is their decision to keep the New York bank as small as it can be kept for fear of its preponderance over the other seven to eleven reserve banks.

The writer was present during most of the session here, and did not overhear the remark attributed to Secretary McAdoo on this score, namely, that he "was not as green" as the New York bankers thought him. I cannot reconcile any such expression with the Secretary of the Treasury's marked ability and tact.

New York as to-day's financial centre of the New World is no accident, any more than London, Paris, Amsterdam, and Berlin are accidents in their prominence; and New York is going to remain a central sphere of influence, despite any artificial laws or limitations that may be set upon it.

Political expediency may have made the central bank idea impossible in the passage of a banking and currency measure for the United States; but the natural laws of banking as advocated by virtually all the great practical bankers of the world bespeak a central bank for any perfect modern banking system. I think it may be prophesied that in the orderly working out of the Glass-Owen measure the New York reserve bank will assume the leadership, with most of the other regional banks subsidiaries or branches all but in name, and with this in view, the number of reserve banks may be legion, dependent upon capital requirements. The Federal Reserve act offers no objection to this leadership, and rightfully there should be none.

On the contrary, in my judgment, the making of the New York bank large and powerful should profitably, to all the country, be pursued. The New York bank will present a different front to the rest of the world than any other of our city reserve banks. The work it will have cut out for it will be on a larger scale, and it must be prepared to face it with large resources and unquestioned credit and stability. Bigness can only be an advantage to it and to the whole system. Surely the Administration has expressed itself not against bigness per se—big industries—big men. The whole system is under Federal control. The chain of banks will co-ordinate; the greatness of one will add strength to the weaker members; no danger lurks—rather there are danger and useless loss of prestige involved by using effort to hold New York as small as possible. For holding New York small will be a loss to the whole Federal reserve system, inasmuch as it will build up at its expense the New York trust companies and the New York banks outside of the Federal reserve system; so by all means make New York's territory as large as possible under the system.

Why try to build a dam of Assuan to insure against drought and flood, when here you have already built and available a natural reservoir to receive and distribute naturally the waters of plenty throughout the country, at the direction of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington?

DISHONEST LEGAL PRACTICE.

"Associations" Swindling the Poor Should Be Investigated.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of the avowed intention of the New York County Lawyers' Association to make a crusade against the many notaries public who practice law illegally, it would not be amiss, at the same time, to investigate the methods of the so-called "protective associations" and the like, that bring even more disrepute and calumny on the head of the legal profession. I am almost certain that a great majority of lawyers are perfectly familiar with the evil practice of such associations. These associations incorporate under the laws of the State of New York. They subsequently acquire desk room in a modern office building, print flamboyant stationery, attach to their corps a lawyer, and then commence their business, which briefly stated is as follows:

Agents are employed to go among the poor, foreign, and illiterate storekeepers and business men of the city. These agents explain to such persons that upon the payment of the sum of $5 to $7.50 per year their association will furnish gratis a lawyer in the event of any business difficulties. Upon such and other promises, these poor people invariably pay this small sum of money, receiving a receipt therefor, which is all they do receive for the payment. In the event of requiring legal aid howver, those individuals who call at the office of the association are told, "your trouble does not come under the agreement that we made with you," or "you will have to pay us $5 or $10 to cover the court expenses before we can do anything for you," &c.

In this way these associations reap large profits at the hands of the poor people of the city, who have not the time to seek redress, or the return of their few dollars so fraudulently exacted; and this all with the aid of a demoralized practitioner, who glories in the success of the fraudulent tactics of his presumable client, to wit, the association.

Pennsylvania's Coal Tax.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When paying my coal bill to-day I found 10 cents charged for every ton of coal ordered. Asking for an explanation I was informed that the State of Pennsylvania had passed a law taxing 2 per cent. of its coal mines' output—that the owners of these mines add 10 cents to every ton shipped, which is passed on to the ultimate consumer by the coal merchant.

A State may have a right to pass any law it wishes, but the writer takes the broad view that even a State is amenable to Federal supervision. Coal in many localities is quite as necessary to existence as milk, bread, or water. I believe in the last analysis this law will be found unconstitutional. It is vicious in principle in that there is nothing to stop Wisconsin from following suit and taxing its dairy output, California its orange output, and any State the thing it produces and sells the most of.

As far as I know this is the first instance of one State taxing the citizens of other States for one of the absolute necessaries of life.

Widow's Family Needs Rent.

Two of the five children who were left to their mother's care eight years ago are now at work doing all they can to help her, but their wages cannot be made to cover the expense, and she has no other source of income. After the father was killed while at his work on the docks, the woman kept up the home during the first years through her own effort. Now her strength is equal only to the daily care of her household. The two girls, who are 15 and 17 years old, earn between them $11 a week. Assistance with the rent is needed to supplement this. The Charity Organization Society asks for $180 to cover the expense for a year.

Gifts may be sent to the office of the society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and will be acknowledged.

THE DUEL.

Medals Proposed for Those Who Help Make It Futile.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The duel, that most un-American of institutions, has recently got into the American news with arresting frequency. Last Saturday the commander of a Russian liner took a steerage passenger, a duelist who had killed his man, back to Libau in defiance of the Federal authorities; a week or two ago a Hungarian, who, as he explained, had deliberately missed his man, was held at Ellis Island, but ultimately released under bond during a temporary stay in this country; and now his opponent in the bloodless encounter is due at this port, to have his case passed upon by the Department of Labor. His is the most interesting of these three cases, for he is a permanent foreign resident of this city, and the head of a financial undertaking here. A fourth case, which is pending and has not yet reached the stage of publicity, promises to be even more interesting when it comes off. I am referring to the challenge sent from Europe by a former Consul in this city to his superior, the Consul General, with whom he had quarreled. The perplexities of this affair, should one of its principals be sent back here in his official capacity, can be grasped at a glance.

The first two cases referred to are already sub judice; the third will undoubtedly come up soon, wherefore the subject of dueling and this country's attitude toward duelists coming hither can be discussed now only in general terms. The United States leads the world in the movement for peace among the nations; it is of the utmost importance, therefore, that the country shall do all that lies in its power to aid the European movement against the war among individuals that dueling is. Europe takes very seriously whatever the United States does; and the extent of the influence which its stand on the question of the duel would have can hardly be estimated.

Dueling is a crime under the law in any and all parts of the United States; in our immigration laws it comes under the "moral turpitude" clause. This point of view is open to discussion, certainly from the European side. There are cases, in certain European social classes and professions, where the duel is unavoidable, where it takes only one to make a quarrel, whatever the other's opinion of the custom. It is well known that a Continental European officer is mildly punished if he fights a duel, but severely if he refuses to fight one. If possible, also, to regard Mr. Zerkowitz, who deliberately missed his man, as at least a semi-martyr in the cause of the suppression of the custom.

High moral movements sometimes win their aims by common sense methods. Leaving aside the "moral turpitude" view, is it not our brotherly mission to help Europe to stop making itself ridiculous? If we can help the old world to abolish dueling by beginning to abolish the abuse of dueling, will not an important first step have been taken? The duel, in fact, serves in Europe nowadays the purpose of a certain hotel in this city: it furnishes exclusiveness for the multitude. Social and professional nonentities abuse it, without danger to themselves or each other, to boost themselves into prominence. The custom, in fact, long since became ridiculous. Europe, with its far slower sense of humor, has only faintly begun to awaken to the fact. Let us, therefore, accelerate that awakening by founding a hero fund for duelists: a gold medal for those who miss each other; a silver medal for the seconds who load the pistols with blank cartridges; and a farewell dinner for those duelists who, applying for admission to this country, are returned to their native countries on account of "moral turpitude." It may be that European courage will in this way be encouraged to assert itself.

NEW CATHOLIC FEDERATION.

League of Laymen's Clubs Planned, with Total Membership of 200,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—A federation of Catholic clubs, planned to have a representative organization in every city and town of the United States, has been launched in this city by members of the board of directors of the Catholic Philopatrian Literary Institute. It is estimated that when fully organized it will have a membership of more than 200,000.

The promotion of a closer fellowship among clubmen, the establishment of a headquarters in each city for traveling members and a closer affiliation between church and social organizations are given as the chief objects of the federation.

The new movement received its inaugural recently when Judge James E. Gorman, of the Municipal Court, laid tentative plans for organizing the eastern portion of the country before the membership of the Philopatrians and urged that their institute become the Philadelphia representative of the federation.

A committee of local Catholics headed by Judge Gorman, will submit the plans to Cardinal Gibbons and seek his indorsement of the movement. The active work of organizing will not be started until the church authorities have passed upon the plans.

According to members of the Philopatrian Institute, only one organization in each city, and that the most prominent, will be offered membership in the federation. Embracing as each of these will the wealthier and more widely known men of the several communities, the organizers express confidence that the associated clubs will become an influential factor in promoting the policies advocated by the founders.

The Philopatrian Institute is said to be the oldest Catholic social organization in the country and one of the oldest clubs in the city. Although representative of the great body of Catholics in this city now, President James F. Herron said yesterday that in order to properly take its place as the representative of a national federation it was necessary to invite into the institute an additional membership. It is expected, according to the President, that the board of directors will take action permitting the increase of the membership to 1,000.

FEDERAL WIRES ISSUE UP.

Bacon Wants to Stop Senate Getting Burleson Data.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The subject of the Government ownership of interstate telephone and telegraph lines will come up in the Senate to-morrow in an unexpected way, as the result of an oversight this afternoon on the part of the Democrats. Postmaster General Burleson, in his annual report, recommended the takeing over of existing lines by the Government, but the President made no mention of the subject in his annual address to Congress. As a result of the President's omission, it is thought that the discussion at this time will be embarrassing to the Democrats.

Senator Norris of Nebraska called up a resolution to-day directing the Postmaster General to send to the Senate the results of his inquiry looking to the Government ownership of the telephone and telegraph lines, with all data bearing on the subject in his possession. Senators Kern and Sharp Williams of the Committee on Audit or Control, either of whom would be expected to object to undesirable resolutions, were out of the chamber, and the resolution was adopted without dissent. Mr. Bacon of Georgia, however, whose seniority makes him one of the Democratic leaders, entered the chamber just as the final vote was being taken, and after a few minutes he discovered what had happened. He promptly moved to reconsider the vote, and that motion will come up to-morrow.

Senator Lane of Oregon said that he favored Government ownership of telephone and telegraph facilities, but thought that the taking over of existing plants would be poor business for the Government. His impression was that telegraph and telephone companies would be glad to sell out their lines on the ground that the development of wireless telegraphy would put them out of business anyhow in the course of a few years.

TITANIC CASE ON TO-DAY.

On Supreme Court's Decision Hinge Claims for $13,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The question of compensation for the loss of life and of property incurred when the steamship Titanic went to the bottom of the ocean will be up for consideration to-morrow by the Supreme Court. The argument of some of America's leading admiralty lawyers will determine whether the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, the owner of the Titanic, must face the payment of some $13,000,000 of claims, or be limited in its liability to some $90,000.

The navigation company seeks to have the American court hold the admiralty laws and rules of the United States applicable to the case and thereby limit the liability of the company to the salvage from the wreck and the passenger and freight money received for the voyage, amounting in all to about $90,000.

Claimants seeking to recover for loss of life, baggage, and freight urge, in the first place, that American law does not apply, because the disaster occurred on the high seas. Furthermore, it is contended that the American law contemplates limitation of liability only when the disaster results from the collision of two vessels and not when it occurs from striking an iceberg. Some of the lawyers also argue further that British law fixes the liability of the owner because the Titanic carried the British flag, and that the Supreme Court should so hold.

Should British law be held applicable, the American court would have to determine whether it shall proceed to take jurisdiction of the claims and enforce the British law, or the claimants must sue in England. In either case, it is said, a prolonged contest would result. Should it be found that the disaster occurred without the owners' fault or privity, the damages recoverable by the claimants under British law, it is said, would be about $3,000,000. Should it be held the disaster occurred with the owners' fault or privity, the latter would be liable for full damages, now estimated at $13,000,000.

ALASKA RAILROAD BILL UP.

Territory Needs Federal Line, Chamberlain Tells Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Debate on the Alaskan Government Railroad bill began in the Senate to-day, with the prospect of occupying many sessions before final action. Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, in charge of the measure, read from the reports of Government experts sent into the Territory to study the possibilities of the plan and characterizing the purchase of Alaska from Russia as the greatest business arrangement the United States ever effected.

Quoting statistics on Alaska's minerals and fisheries to show the vast commerce lying isolated and virtually impossible of development under present conditions, Senator Chamberlain said the present railroads there did little or nothing to aid the Territory as a whole, because they were constructed to serve the ends of private interests. The Alaska of to-day, he asserted, was a country for rich men only.

The Senator also read reports on climatic conditions of the Territory and its agricultural possibilities. When he touched upon the coal land leasing feature of the bill, Senator Borah of Idaho took exception to a statement that leasing would stimulate competition. Senators Cummins and Reed took part in the dscussion, which indicated that this portion of the bill would meet with considerable opposition.

Senator Cummins said that if the Government could not furnish coal in any other way at a better price than the consumer was now compelled to pay, it should mine the Alaska coal as well as haul it.

HAWTHORNE CHARGES FAIL.

Dr. A. J. McKelway Upholds Atlanta Prison Officials in His Report.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Julian Hawthorne's charges against the management of the Atlanta Penitentiary were not sustained in a report of a special investigation by Dr. A. J. McKelway, submitted to-day to Attorney General McReynolds.

Allegations by Hawthorne and Representative Howard, involving Warden Moyer, his rules, and discipline, were declared to be without good foundation.

MISS DAVIS SEES ISLAND.

Approves Dietetics at Workhouse, but Not the Uniforms.

Katharine B. Davis, Commissioner of Correction, accompanied by Deputy Commissioner Burdette G. Lewis, paid her first visit to Blackwell's Island yesterday. Commissioner Davis remained on the Island three hours, and when she left she said the visit was principally to make a tour of the workhouse, and to inspect the work that had been done under new contracts for which an appropriation of $100,000 had been made.

"As far as the sanitation and the dietetics are concerned, the conditions are much better than I had thought they would be," said Commissioner Davis. "I have a plan for changing the dress worn by the prisoners in the workhouse. I think there ought to be a plainer garb for the women, and the stripes on the clothing of the male prisoners should be abolished, and a plain gray uniform substituted. I do not believe that you can help people by humiliating them and dressing them up in the uniforms they now wear."

Miss Davis is also in favor of changing the commitment system of the courts.

"I have a strong belief," she said, "that a better system would be a farm colony, where men are put to work on the farm and taught to be self-supporting, so that they can become useful to society. In those places they may earn money and their sentences need not be so short. They cannot learn much by a few days' stay in the workhouse. A short sentence does not have very much of a corrective tendency."

"When we get the new detention house for women on Thirtieth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues," she said, "the problem concerning the women will be solved, but the house may not be completed for two or three years. Of course it is very easy for me to criticise, much easier than to do constructive work which my criticisms call for. The law and the appropriations have to be taken into consideration when any practical reform is considered."

PLAN TO THROW OPEN 2,400 POSTAL JOBS

Rider to the Appropriation Bill Takes Assistant Postmasters Out of Civil Service.

REPUBLICANS TO FIGHT IT

Measure, Which Includes Other General Legislation, Carries Record Sum of $305,247,767.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Carrying items aggregating over $305,000,000, making it the largest single budget ever presented to Congress, the Post Office Appropriation bill was reported to the House late this afternoon by Representative Moon under circumstances boding trouble for the Democratic leaders.

The bill is loaded with general legislation, some of which is very objectionable to the Republican leaders. One "rider" in particular which has aroused Republican members of the House Post Office Committee will be opposed on the floor next Thursday, when the bill will be taken up. It would be subject to a point of order, and realizing this Mr. Moon and the House leaders have decided to ask Representative Henry, Chairman of the Rules Committee, for a special rule under which they expect to force the adoption of the objectionable legislation over the protests of the helpless Republican minority. The provision proposes to take about 2,400 Assistant Postmasters out of the classified civil service.

Representatives Madden of Illinois and Steenerson of Minnesota, who are the ranking Republican members of the Post Office Committee, gave notice of their intention to file a minority report in which they characterize the proposed legislation as not only detrimental to the postal service but another step in the direction of a return to the old "spoils system."

The so-called "spoilsmen's rider" reads:

> That hereafter any Assistant Postmaster who may be required by law or by authority or direction of the Postmaster General to execute a bond to the Postmaster General to secure faithful performance of official duty may be appointed by said Postmaster General, who may require such bond, without regard to the provisions of an act of Congress entitled "An Act to Regulate and Improve the Civil Service of the United States" approved Jan. 16, 1883, and amendments thereto, and the Postmaster General shall have power to revoke the appointment of any Assistant Postmaster and appoint his successor at his discretion without regard to the act, amendments, rules, or regulations aforesaid.

In the minority report Representatives Madden and Steenerson will attack the action of Mr. Moon and his Democratic colleagues on the committee in this language:

Calls Rider Vicious.

> The policy of inserting riders on such bills is a vicious one, and a resort to it can only be excused in case of great public emergency. The great Democratic Party, when in the minority, uniformly declaimed against it, but no sooner are they in power than they resort to it at every opportunity. The proposal is so wrong and vicious that it could not possibly receive the approval of Congress coming as a separate measure, and it is proposed in this way to force it upon Congress.
> There are about 2,400 Assistant Postmasters in the United States, practically all of whom have been in the classified service by civil service examination. It is proposed to take these tried and faithful public servants out of the classified service and make their tenure of office dependent upon the whim of Postmasters appointed under the spoils system as a reward for party service.
>
> In many, if not most cases, this would be equivalent to dismissal from office without cause or excuse, but the injustice of the proposal as affecting these men is not the main objection to it. It is an attack upon the merit system and civil service reform generally. It is a backward step, and injurious in its effect, not only on the postal service but the cause of good government. It is another step in the direction of the "spoils system."

The appropriations carried by the Post Office Appropriation bill, aggregating $305,247,767, are $21,803,050 more than the appropriations available for the support of the Postal Service during the current fiscal year of 1914.

Postmaster General Burleson submitted estimates calling for appropriations aggregating $306,953,117. The House committee shaved this down about $1,700,000. The Postmaster General's request for $50,000 for an experimental aeroplane mail service was turned down by the committee.

Increased Pay Provisions.

The principal increase over the amounts allowed in last year's bill are:

Pay of clerks and employes, $44,470,000, representing an increase of $3,600,000.

Pay of letter carriers, $37,700,000, an increase of $2,340,000.

Mail transportation by railroads, $55,188,000, an increase of $3,680,000.

Railway mail service, $28,501,140, an increase of $3,532,440.

Transportation of foreign mails, $4,000,000, an increase of $100,000.

Carriers in the rural mail service, $48,650,000, representing an increase of $1,150,000.

Most of the increase of $21,000,000-odd is the result of the introduction of the parcel post system, which, however, is self-sustaining. The parcel post appropriations are not described as such in the bill, but are scattered through various items.

General legislation proposed in the measure includes:

A provision that hereafter all railroads carrying mail shall furnish free transportation on their lines to railway mail clerks, including transfer clerks, terminal railway Post Office clerks, and clerks detailed to Division Superintendents and chief clerks' offices.

TO KEEP UNFIT ALIENS HOME

Austrian Envoy Would Aid Plan to Prevent Them Sailing Here.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Ambassador Dumba of Austria-Hungary has discussed with Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor the latter's plan for preventing immigrants who cannot be admitted to this country from leaving their native shores, and approves it. Next to Southern Italy, Austria now furnishes most of the immigration to this country.

Like Secretary Wilson, the Ambassador believes that some way should be found of keeping at home those who would be turned back at Ellis Island. In his country, he said, he thought the best way would be to have announcements made by the priests in the churches every Sunday. They could warn the people, he said, that the United States was not an entirely open door, and that before they sold their property to sail for America they had better find out whether there was any cause which would keep them from being admitted. He was of opinion that his country would aid in any plan of the United States for carrying out the idea.

R. W. STRAUS WEDS MISS GUGGENHEIM

Son of Ex-Ambassador Married to Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim

IN A TEMPLE OF FLOWERS

Ceremony at St. Regis Performed by Rev. Dr. Silverman—Bride's Four Sisters-in-Law Matrons of Honor.

The marriage of Roger Williams Straus, son of Oscar S. Straus, formerly Ambassador to Turkey, and Mrs. Straus, to Miss Gladys Eleanor Guggenheim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim, was solemnized at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the St. Regis. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Joseph Silverman of the Temple Emanu-El.

The bridal party walked from the Louis XVI. rooms, through an aisle formed of gilt standards and white satin ribbon, which extended the entire length of the marble ballroom, to a temple of flowers which had been erected at the south end of the ballroom. This temple was patterned after an old Roman temple, with eight huge columns of silver, the dome being fashioned entirely of smilax and bridal roses.

The walls of the ballroom and adjoining suites were festooned with green, and the light of the centre electroliers shone through hundreds of white roses, which were entwined on ropes of smilax.

The Bride's Gown.

The bride wore a robe of white satin, with a bodice and short sleeves of point lace. A cluster of orange blossoms held her veil, also of point lace, which fell in graceful folds from the back of her coiffure half way down her train, where it was caught by orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Nettie B. Gerstle, a cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a costume of white lace and satin, the double flounce of lace being edged with sable fur, and a hat of white tulle, with a narrow band of fur and pink rosebuds. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley.

The four matrons of honor, all sisters-in-law of the bride, wore minaret costumes of turquoise blue chiffon and white satin, and carried pillow muffs of sable. Their hats were of brown satin and tulle, topped with a single pink rose. Garlands of pink roses adorned their left shoulders. The matrons were Mrs. H. F. Guggenheim, Mrs. M. R. Guggenheim, Mrs. Leonard Hochstadter, and Mrs. Edward Schafer.

There were also two little flower girls, the Misses Madeleine Schafer and Careal Emilie Hochstadter, who were in frocks of white chiffon and lace, with large butterfly bows of white ribbon. The two pages, Daniel Guggenheim 2d, and M. Robert Guggenheim, Jr., wore white suits with sashes.

Best Man and Ushers.

H. Grant Straus acted as best man, and the ushers included Nathan Straus, Jr., M. Robert Guggenheim, H. F. Guggenheim, Edward Schafer, Leonard Hochstadter, Walter Rothschild, Sam Markham, James Seligman 2d, Stanley Halle, Louis Kohn, and Harold Loeb.

A reception and dancing followed the ceremony. The buffet collation was served in the Louis XVI. suite, three large wedding cakes being used. Later the young couple left for the South on their honeymoon. They will reside in Park Avenue on their return.

Former school friends of the bride from Rosemary Hall were among the guests, also some of the bridegroom's classmates from Princeton University, where he was graduated last June.

The members of both families present included Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim, ex-Ambassador to Turkey and Mrs. Oscar S. Straus, ex-Senator and Mrs. Simon Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. Murry Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Straus, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse I. Straus, Mr. and Mrs. Percy S. Straus, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert N. Straus, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kohns.

More than one show has been made by a single puff. Think, then, of the advantages enjoyed by the show that carries no less than eight puffs of its own. And the puffs, or, say, rather the bright-faced, nimble-toed lassie in them, did as much for "The Queen of the Movies" last night as any one feature, always excepting the very delightful tunes which Jean Gilbert has written to tingle the ears agreeably and make the feet anxious to be up and doing.

Some of these numbers are already tolerably familiar to those who frequent the popular restaurants along the Great White Way, but they provide added pleasure when associated with the story to which they properly belong, and to which the principals and chorus contribute.

There is, by way of example, that very fascinating tune "In Der Nacht," or, as it is programmed here, "When the Moon Slyly Winks in the Night," during which, along a darkened street, come several pretty maidens, to be set upon presently by thieves, who steal their handbags, and who in their turn are pursued by the "coppers." All of which rather serves to recall that old familiar rhyme about the "big fleas who bite and who have little fleas to bite 'em," or something of the sort.

"The Queen of the Movies" starts with a fairly slow first act, but develops color and rythm and humor as it goes along. And, thanks to the music as aforesaid, the good work of the principals, and the exceptional attractiveness and spiritedness of the various pages, dancing ladies, and ladies of the ensembles—again the designations are the programme maker's—develops into an exceptionally pleasing and attractive entertainment.

What humor there is comes chiefly from the story of a moving-picture queen's plot to compromise a reformer, who is working to close up the movies, on the ground that they are destructive of all the virtues. This reformer, who admits that he has lots of opinions but they are all in his wife's name, is ultimately induced to visit the actress in her home, where he is ultimately caught before the moving-picture camera, his wife and daughter having arrived at an inopportune time.

A good deal of the fun results from the reproduction of the exaggerated pantomime used in "taking the reels," and the whole is enlivened by sprightly, alluring music, which is sung fairly well, for the most part. In the final act the scene changes to a street, showing the entrance to the moving-picture theatre, the backing, with its empty orchestra chairs, suggesting that happy (though probably far-distant) day for the regular producers when nobody will be going to the movies.

The best features of the first act are a lively number, "Who Is to Know," sung very nicely by that dainty person, Miss Alice Dovey, John Goldsworthy, and the Chorus, and a spirited trio in which Valli Valli, James Redmond, and Felix Adler fill the principal parts.

Valli Valli, looking very lovely indeed, provides the one touch of near-drama in the rôle of the Queen of the Movies, who is in love with a titled picture actor, but consoles herself ultimately with the director of the company, an otherwise comic person who stutters in everything but his devotion.

Felix Adler plays this rôle and gets his share of the laughs when he fills in his "interrupted" sentences with the words of popular songs.

Then there is Frank Moulan to add to the amusement in the rôle of the reformer and the pulchritudinous Jeanette Horton to do the shrewish wife rôle with convincing emphasis.

Later comes a delightful number "Cecilia," which brings the Powder Puff Girls to the front to add a series of lovely groups, and to foot it in lively measures in another capital song, "Girls, Run Along."

In "Cutie" also a song, Valli Valli and Mr. Moulan do some graceful modern dancing.

On the whole "The Queen of the Movies" ought to please, for it is pretty lively and tuneful.

Madame De Thizieux	Nane Defrance
Helene De Brechebel	Mme. Yorska

Under the auspices of the French Drama Society of New York the one-act play "Les Trois Masques," by Charles Mere, and Henri Bernstein's "La Rafale" were presented at the Harris Theatre yesterday afternoon. Miss Beverly Sitgreaves, the American actress, appeared in the shorter play, while Mme. Yorska was the star of the three-act Bernstein drama.

Both plays have been seen here before, but in English. "La Rafale," as "The Whirlwind," served to introduce Mme. Marietta Olly, the Viennese actress, as an English-speaking star at Daly's Theatre several years ago. It was far from successful at that time, but played in French yesterday afternoon by Mme. Yorska and a capable company of French artists, it pleased a large and fashionable audience composed of persons anxious to further the efforts of the French Society to create a larger interest in the French drama and language.

"La Rafale" introduced a very queer society and a very peculiar code of morals, with a wife who has the familiar excuse of having married against her will a man she does not love. But despite much talk about her honor and the honor of her husband's name, when it becomes necessary for her to borrow 600,000f. in order to save her lover from disgrace, the chief lesson M. Bernstein seems to be attempting to point out is that it is very wrong to gamble, and the theft of the family honor is completely overshadowed by the purloining of a few hundred thousand francs from partners in a gambling enterprise.

Mme. Yorska appeared to advantage in the rôle of Helene, Countess Brechebel, and in the end, just when help was about to reach her lover the blackguard killed himself and the woman was on hand for final paroxysm and hysteria. In this scene Mme. Yorska, who is directing all the plays of the French Drama Society, was at her best.

Next Monday afternoon the French Drama Society will present "Britannicus," by Jean Racine, and "Le Baiser," by Theodore de Banville.

MISS VAN HEUSEN A BRIDE.

Wedded to Arthur G. Hamilton in Grace Church Chantry.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Van Heusen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manning Van Heusen of this city, formerly of Albany, and Arthur Gould Hamilton, only son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hamilton of 177 East Sixty-fourth Street, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the chantry at Grace Church.

It was a quiet wedding, owing to the bride's family being in mourning, and only the immediate relatives and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony and attended the reception which was held afterward at the Hotel Gotham.

The chantry was simply decorated with smilax and sumac berries in the deep windows, and American Beauty roses were massed in the chancel against a background of green foliage. A brief musical programme was rendered while the guests were arriving, the ushers being Kingdon Gould, Charles E. Proctor, and Guido Bertarelli.

Miss Van Heusen walked up the nave with her father, who gave her in marriage. They were preceded by the boy choir, who met them at the door of the chantry. Miss Hope Hamilton, a sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Olive Van Heusen, a young sister of the bride, were the only attendants, little Miss Van Heusen acting as flower girl.

The bride wore a trailing robe of soft white satin, the corsage being draped with point lace. Her veil of Brussels net and point lace was arranged in cap fashion, with a frill around the face, held by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a pendant of diamonds, the gift of her mother. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Hamilton wore a frock of white chiffon and lace over satin, with a flounce tunic, with a touch of palest blue about the bodice and a garland of forget-me-nots at the corsage, topped with a hat of gold lace, which flared up at one side. She carried a large cluster of pink roses.

Little Miss Van Heusen was in a white embroidered frock, with touches of blue, and carried a small white basket filled with pink rosebuds.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Charles Lewis Slattery, rector of Grace Church. William Proctor Van Heusen, a brother of the bride, was best man for Mr. Hamilton.

The reception was held in the ballroom at the Gotham, the guests numbering about 100. The decorations here were also of extreme simplicity. Mr. Hamilton and his bride received the congratulations of their relatives and friends under a canopy of bridal roses and Southern smilax. A buffet collation was served.

DAVID LAIRD DEAD AT 80.

Ex-Minister of Interior Was One of the Builders of Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 12.—David Laird, Indian Commissioner, former Minister of Interior, and first Governor of the Northwest Territories, died here to-day. He was 80 years old, and was known as one of the builders of Canada.

Mr. Laird was a native of Prince Edward Island, and was educated at the Presbyterian College at Truro, N. S. He was sent to Ottawa in 1873 with the Premier to negotiate with the Government about the terms with which the island colony would enter confederation, and they were so successful that the island became a part of the Dominion a few months later. Mr. Laird was elected as a Representative to the Federal House, and a few years later was made the first Lieutenant Governor of the Northwest Territories. The office carried with it the duties of Superintendent General of Indian Affairs. He visited the Indians to enter negotiations for a treaty, and realized that the governing of these tribes was the first requirement in the organization of the territories. As Minister of the Interior in the Mackenzie Cabinet he had already organized Federal administration of the region.

Mr. Laird returned East in 1881 on the expiration of his term as Governor and took over the control of The Patriot, a paper which he had established at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, before he entered politics. He became a leader of the Liberal Party there, and in 1898 he was appointed Indian Commissioner for Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, a post which he held until called to Ottawa in 1909 in an advisory capacity. He was beloved by the Indians, who called him "the man whose tongue is never forked."

GIBBONS KNOCKS OUT McALLISTER IN THE SEVENTH ROUND--BASEBALL--BILLIARDS--GOLF

GIBBONS WINS BOUT IN SEVENTH ROUND

McAllister of California Knocked Out After Showing Rare Skill Against St. Paul Boxer.

Bob McAllister of California, after burying the skill of Mike Gibbons as no other boxer has done in a local ring, faded under an onslaught of Mike's terrific punches in the seventh round of the scheduled ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night.

In the early rounds the Californian, phantom-like, danced in and around Gibbons, and pushed his light left hand against the St. Paul boxer's face until Mike must have thought that there were at least a dozen gloves in the ring. Then the tide turned quickly, Mike put one of his soldid right uppercuts into an opening, found McAllister's chin, and the finish came in short order.

Gibbons weighed more than in any of his previous bouts in this city, and left a strong suspicion that the proposed bout with Packey McFarland will be out of the question if he has to make 145 pounds at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Last night he weighed in without any of his boxing regalia, and tipped the beam at 152½ pounds. McAllister, with shoes and stockings on, weighed 160 pounds.

It was the first time that Gibbons really had to extend himself since he has been showing in New York and he showed everything he knew from start to finish. He started in to outbox the Californian but found himself handicapped under a longer reach, three and one-half inches in height and a left hand that carried as much speed as Mike ever had even though it lacked the punching power of the St. Paul boxer. McAllister stuck his left into Gibbons's face with tantalizing regularity and Gibbons soon showed that the treatment was displeasing to him. Gibbons feinted, rubbed his nose, turned sideways and used innumerable other motions to disconcert the former amateur but without effect. McAllister simply held his ground and jabbed, and jabbed and jabbed.

Gibbons was taking no punishment, nor was he gaining any headway in his effort to pile up points against his less rugged opponent. Gibbons's features became redder and redder as the bout progressed, and when they came out for the fifth round Mike's face was almost as red as a raw steak, though he was not cut or marked. He turned his attention to hard punching and found that McAllister possessed a defense that would not crumple. It finally dawned upon Mike that his only chance of defeating the California boxer rested in a knockout, as he could not beat him to the punch at long range and McAllister sewed him up well in the clinches.

The first four rounds belonged to McAllister, and each session was enough in favor of the Californian to leave no chance for an argument. The punches were not damaging Mike, in fact, were not stinging him to any extent, but they were landing true to their mark. Gibbons was very plainly annoyed. He gritted his teeth, ceased to show that customary smile, and went in with more determination than he ever showed here before. In the fifth Gibbons sent over a hard right swing that landed on McAllister's jaw, and the lanky Californian wabbled at the knees. Gibbons saw the opportunity and endeavored to make full use of it, but McAllister recovered too quickly, and he was soon engaged in the task of pushing his left hand lightly against Mike's face. But before the round ended Gibbons jarred his opponent on two other occasions with hard hooks to the head, and McAllister showed signs of weakening.

The sixth round clearly belonged to Gibbons. Starting with the bell the St. Paul boxer began to set the pace, and he gave McAllister no rest until the next bell sent them to their corners. Bob got over quite a number of lefts to Gibbons's face, but he took several jarring rights to the head for his trouble, and he was glad to hold on before the bell rang. Gibbons did not take a backward step during the three minutes, and it was plain that McAllister was growing weaker.

The seventh round, while it lasted, was nothing but a punching session for Gibbons. A short right uppercut to the point of McAllister's jaw started the trouble before the round had gone twenty seconds, and then began the fusillade which ended only when a punch of a similar nature stretched McAllister on the canvas. He went down gently to a sitting posture, and then he slowly straightened out. But there was no questioning the knockdown, for he had already kept on his feet under a storm of punches which would have dropped many a boxer far more rugged than the Californian. Once that McAllister was in distress Gibbons did not let up a minute, but used every punch on the pugilistic calendar that he knows. And Mike knows them all. For a full half minute McAllister kept himself on his feet, at times looking appealingly to his seconds as if to learn what should be done next. His chief second had his hand dipped in the pail clutching the sponge when it seemed that McAllister could stand no more. But Bob went down before the sponge came in, and then, when six seconds had been counted over him, a towel was thrown into the ring.

A twenty-second count could have been finished with McAllister stretched on the canvas. He was out, surely enough. His seconds carried the lanky boxer to his corner and used the customary restoratives but it was several seconds before he was brought to. When he finally stood up and bowed to the applause which was showered on him for his effort, McAlister was weak at the knees, and had to grab the ropes to support himself. It was the first knockout of his career, and also the first decisive defeat he sustained. He was up against too much experience.

The opening ten-round bout brought together Walter Mohr of Brooklyn and Gene Moriarty of Syracuse. Each weighed 134 pounds. It was Moriarty's first appearance at a local club, and he made a most favorable impression, although he was outpointed by the aggressive Brooklynite. Moriarty carried a harder punch than Mohr, and he jarred the Brooklyn boy several times with straight rights as Mohr rushed in. At infighting Mohr was too clever for the up-State boy, and it was at close range that he did his most effective work. His greater experience also told in his favor. Moriarty was willing enough, and met Mohr's rushes with punches a-plenty. Both were strong all the way and showed no signs of distress.

In the ten-round semi-final Sapper O'Neill of England boxed a draw with Frankie Mack of Boston. O'Neill was a more shifty boxer, and was in much better condition than the Bay Stater. The latter made a fine start, and after outboxing O'Neill in the opening round he floored the Briton in the second round with a right to the jaw. But he tired greatly as the bout progressed, and in the sixth round he was floundering around the ring, although he had taken no hard punches from his opponent. Mack rallied again in the eighth and tenth rounds and evened matters when it seemed that he would be outpointed. O'Neill was the better boxer, but Mack had the harder punch and was more aggressive than the Englishman. Outside of the second round there were no knockdowns. The ringside weights were 136½ pounds for Mack and 136¾ pounds for O'Neill.

Levinsky and Flynn at National S. C.

Porky Flynn will be Battling Levinsky's opponent in a ten-round bout to-night at the National Sporting Club. Flynn has been training hard for the contest and Levinsky has had a few days' rest. He attributes his recent defeat to boxing too frequently, and expects to come back into his own in good shape. The usual semi-final and preliminary bouts are scheduled.

Jim Flynn and Driscoll in Ring.

Jack Driscoll, Brooklyn's promising heavyweight, managed by Terry McGovern, will box Jim Flynn, the Pueblo Fireman, at the Atlantic Garden Athletic Club on Thursday evening, instead of to-night. Jack Driscoll recently challenged any man in the world, and was accepted by Flynn. McGovern says Driscoll [illegible] one of the best [illegible] some time.

INDIANS TO PLAY W. & J. HERE

Polo Grounds to be Scene of Football Contest Next Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Penn., Jan. 12.—Negotiations are under way for a football game next Fall between Washington and Jefferson College and the Carlisle Indians, to be played at the Polo Grounds in New York City. It is understood that Coach Glenn Warner has been trying since last Fall to get the local collegians to agree upon a gridiron battle.

The fine showing of the Washington and Jefferson eleven last Fall in playing a tie game with Yale, and the fact that they are to play Yale and Harvard next Fall, has brought the local eleven into much prominence in the football world.

On account of the great success of the Army-Navy and the Dartmouth-Indian games here last Fall, there is an inclination on the part of several of the big college elevens to play some of the matches at the Polo Grounds on account of the great seating accommodations. Brown and Cornell have already planned to play here next Fall, and it is very likely that the Army-Navy game will also be played again at the Brush stadium. If the Carlisle and Washington and Jefferson game is played that will be at least three big games New Yorkers will have an opportunity of witnessing next year at home. It is likely that Carlisle will also play another of its big games in this city.

NO TROUBLE TO GET PLAYERS

Federal League President's View of Baseball Situation.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 12.—James A. Gilmore, President of the Federal League, who is visiting the cities comprising the Eastern district of the league's circuit, was the guest of Buffalo supporters of the league to-day. A dinner was given in his honor, attended by men of high financial standing in the community.

President Gilmore outlined the work that had been done up to the present time in the formation of the league in the various cities, and stated that its affairs were in a highly satisfactory state. The situation in Buffalo, he said, was especially encouraging.

"We shall have no trouble in getting all the players we want," said President Gilmore, when questioned as to the report that the league was turning to Cuba in its hunt for men.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 12.—Charles Weeghman, one of the owners of the Chicago Federal League Baseball Club, and William Walker, his partner, were in Indianapolis to-day consulting with E. E. Gates of counsel for the league. J. Edward Krause, President of the Indianapolis team, was present at the conference.

The promoters declared that only routine business was discussed at the meeting, and that they were making a trip around the Federal League circuit to inquire into the work being done in the various cities to get ready for the coming season. Mr. Weeghman said that he was entirely satisfied with the preparations that have been made here. The Chicago club owner asserted that he had signed twenty players of major league ability, but that if it was found necessary some of the men would be transferred to other cities of the circuit to strengthen the teams.

Joe Tinker, manager of the Chicago club, who had expected to accompany Mr. Weeghman, was detained in Chicago by the illness of his wife. Mr. Weeghman and Mr. Walker departed late tonight for Pittsburgh, where they expect to meet President J. A. Gilmore.

Hanlon Reticent About Players.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 12.—Manager Otto Knabe of the local Federal League club arrived here shortly before noon to-day, and departed within a few hours. While here he reported to Director Edward Hanlon and Secretary Harry Goldman the result of his Western trip. When asked whether Knabe had said that Dolan and Walsh had been signed for the Baltimore Club, Hanlon said he could not discuss the subject. He added that reports from Chicago and Pittsburgh, to the effect that these players had signed, were sent without the consent of the Baltimore leader. Hanlon would not discuss reports that Foster of the Washington Americans and Beals Becker of the Philadelphia Nationals would sign with the local Federal club, except to say that both were good players and would look well in Baltimore uniforms. It is planned to erect stands on the Federal grounds that will seat 14,000 persons.

Saier and Humphries Sign with Cubs.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Victor Saier, the Chicago National's first baseman, whose defection to the Federal League has been rumored for a week, set doubts at rest to-day when his contract for three years with the local National team was received by President Murphy. This afternoon a three-year contract signed by Bert Humphries also was received by Murphy. Humphries also was reported as being sought by the Federals.

Groh to Stay with the Reds.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12.—Second Baseman Groh of the Cincinnati National League team to-day signed a contract to play with Cincinnati for the next three seasons. Groh exhibited three very liberal offers from different Federal League clubs, but, after a conference with President Herrmann of the local club, concluded to refuse them all.

Battery Candidates Out at Penn.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 12.—Candidates for battery positions on the University of Pennsylvania baseball team began work to-day in the gymnasium. Ten pitchers and six catchers reported to Coach Thomas. Among the candidates for pitching positions are Avery, Minds and Armstrong of the football squad.

Federal Gets a Denver Pitcher.

DENVER, Col., Jan. 12.—Ben Harris, a pitcher for the Denver Club of the Western League, announced last night that he had signed a three-year contract with the Chicago Club of the Federal League.

Two-Mile Relay Race Canceled.

Owing to the fact that it was impossible for Columbia or Fordham to muster a two-mile relay team to meet the Yale team, the proposed two-mile special match relay race for the Pastime A. C. games had to be called off. The Games Committee was anxious to stage this race as an added attraction to its long list of attractive and feature events which are to take place at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory. Among the entries received yesterday were the following prominent athletes: Hannes Kolemainen, Billy Kramer, Abel Kiviat, Sid Leslie, "Mel" Sheppard, Ollie De Grouchey, and Hugh Hirshon. Star flat-floor bicycle riders are entered in the two-mile bicycle race, including Goodwin, Lake, Van den Dries, and Townsend.

Negro Boxers at Olympic Show.

Six of the best negro boxers obtainable will appear at a special show of the Olympic Club of Harlem on Thursday night. The feature ten-round exhibition will bring together Mark Spencer, a bantamweight of Boston, and the best bantamweight in New York, Battling Cnuck. In the second ten-round bout the two leading featherweights will clash, Terry Martin of the East Side and Harry Gardner of Harlem. In the opening ten-round session Young Murphy of Connecticut will box Preston Brown of Harlem.

Pittsburgh Puts Ban on Boxing.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Jan. 12.—Mayor Joseph G. Armstrong, who assumed office a week ago to-day, issued an order to-night that he will permit no boxing matches in this city until further notice. All bouts scheduled have been canceled. City regulations governing boxing matches will be revised.

George Chip Defeats Christie.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 12.—George Chip defeated Gus Christie to-night in ten rounds, having the better of nearly every round. They are middleweights.

EBBETS TO GO EASY IN TINKER MATTER

Will Give Short Stop a Chance to Sign Before Asking for an Injunction.

President Charles H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn Baseball Club arrived home yesterday from his vacation in Porto Rico. He came home a week earlier than he expected, and was somewhat surprised to learn all that had happened in the baseball world since he left Brooklyn on Dec. 27. Mr. Ebbets said that he would send out a contract to Joe Tinker this week, together with the contracts for the other players. The Dodger club owner will wait to see how the contract will be received before he takes any action. As far as an injunction restraining Tinker from playing with the Federals is concerned, Mr. Ebbets stated that he would have to wait and see if there was going to be any Federal League before he got busy with the injunction.

As soon as President Ebbets stepped off the gangplank of the steamer Brazos yesterday he hurried to his offices at Ebbets Field, where he was in long consultation with the two McKeever brothers, stockholders in the club, and after a lengthy heart-to-heart talk he refused to state what the conversation was about. He did say, however, that he wasn't worrying about any impending baseball war.

President Ebbets does not have to worry about whether "Chink" Yingling or "Herbie" Moran may jump to the Federal League, because Secretary John A. Heydler yesterday received their official release to Cincinnati, thereby promulgating the deal. It is now expected that Dick Egan will be turned over to the Dodgers.

Concerning the raid of the Federals on the Brooklyn team Mr. Ebbets said: "The National League is naturally going to protect itself against invasion by the Federals, but what steps are to be taken I am not prepared to disclose. The most foolish thing the National League could do now would be to show its hand, and there is no use asking me what methods we shall pursue in protecting ourselves.

"I have nothing to say about the Tinker matter except that we shall send him a contract this week when we send them out to the other men. Any legal action in his case should be deferred, in my opinion, until he actually begins to play with the Federals. Until he does that, we will not know positively that he is not going to return to the Brooklyn fold. I wish to say that I was not summoned to return because of the troubles on the baseball horizon. I went away for a rest, and I got it."

While it is true that the National League does not plan to show its hand in the fight with the Federal League, nevertheless the major league club owners are not idle and are already formulating plans to meet any radical move which the Federals might make. With the great financial backing which the two major leagues possess, they are prepared to fight the Federals with legitimate competition. The great amount of money which has been accumulated by the National Commission is available at any time as a war fund.

The club owners know that the average baseball fan does not care what uniform a player wears, but is interested primarily in the brand of ball a team plays. "If necessary," a prominent baseball man said yesterday, "the majors could put a high-class team into a city in competition with the Federals and beat them out by legitimate competitive methods. The major league club owners are anxious to see how the outlaws will fare in Chicago. It is stated that if the Federals get a foothold there the St. Paul or Minneapolis Club of the American Association will be brought to Chicago and will play at Gunthers Park, which is close to the Federals' site in the North End of the Windy City."

Secretary Foster of the Giants yesterday received the new form of contract which has been drawn up by the National Commission, and which includes the changes which were necessitated by the concessions to the demands of the Players' Fraternity at Cincinnati. These new contracts will replace the old contracts of the players who have already signed, at the players' convenience.

The signed contract of Elmer Johnson, the Omaha catcher, was received at the offices of the New York Nationals yesterday. Johnson is a big fellow and a hard hitter. He played under Scout Dick Kinsella in the Three-Eye League, and was drafted by the Giants two years ago, but was turned over to St. Louis. He was sent back to the minors for more seasoning, but Kinsella thinks he will stick in the majors this trip.

The signed contract of First Baseman Harry Williams was received at Yankee headquarters yesterday. He came here last season from the Galveston Club, and made a good showing until he was put out of the game with a smashed thumb. He is spending the Winter at his home in Omaha, Neb. The Yankees yesterday released Pitcher Paddy Martin to the New London Club of the Eastern Association, which is managed by Gene McCann. Martin was with Jersey City last season.

Secretary John A. Heydler of the National League and Secretary John B. Foster of the Giants will act as a committee for the National League in arranging for the reception of the Giants and White Sox when they return from the world's tour early in March. President Ban Johnson will appoint a committee to act for the American League in conjunction with the local committee. The committee is already in communication with the committee of Chicago men who are planning to come here and join in the festivities.

Local baseball men have been trying for the past few weeks to get a copy of the Federal League contracts, but have been unable to get a peek at one. President Baker of the Phillies stated yesterday that he warned Otto Knabe before he signed to show his contract to a lawyer, and see if there was a "joker" in the paper. The fact that the contracts have been kept secret leads baseball men to believe that there is something in the contract which leaves a loophole for the Federal League magnates in the event of the league failing to formulate.

Secretary Foster of the Giants stated yesterday that a wrong impression had been given out in relation to a change in prices to the games at the Polo Grounds next season. The club does not contemplate a reduction of prices, but plans to increase the number of seventy-five-cent seats. The lower tier in the grand stand includes all the seventy-five-cent admissions but at many games the lower tier was crowded and fans stood up around the promenade, while the upper tier of the stand was nearly empty. What President Hempstead proposes to do is to admit the overflow of the lower tier to sections of the upper stands at the same price of admission.

The latest player claimed by the Federals is Ted Easterly, the White Sox catcher, who signed a contract with Joe Tinker yesterday.

BILLIARD STANDARD RAISED.

National Association Increases Eligibility Marks for Amateurs.

Amateur billiard players who aspire to the Class A championship title of America will hereafter be compelled to show a trifle more class than has ever obtained in the matter of eligibility among the experts of this division, as the standard was last night raised from a grand average of 7 to 8 by the members of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players who met in annual convention at the Amateur Billiard Club of New York.

Still further restrictions were placed on would-be champions of future international contests by the inclusion of a paragraph in the class rating which was framed to read:

"No amateur shall be eligible to compete in an international championship event who has not either won a national championship or has made a grand average of 10 in some previous tournament with amateurs of good standing at 18-inch balk-line, two shots in, unless he, in the opinion of the committee, is capable of equivalent performance."

No date or place was set for holding either the 18.2 Class A championship or the pocket billiard titular contest, although it was stated that both the Boston Athletic Association and the Union League Club of Philadelphia were desirous of staging the first-named event. The question in regard to the billiard championship will be held in abeyance for several days pending the receipt of more requests for the privilege to hold the event, for which notices were recently sent out.

Morris D. Brown stated that he had nothing to report in connection with the proposed international series, which is held up pending the formation of the French Federation. The National Association is awaiting word from the foreigners that they have amalgamated the several countries they had in view into one organization, upon receipt of which they will be able to immediately shape up a series which will warrant the appearance of several of the most prominent of the foreign players, among whom will be Mortier, the greatest amateur in the world.

While the session was of a most amicable nature, there was considerable spirited discussion over a point brought up by Mr. Brown, who has been trying for two years to have the association include in its rules the point "that a ball which rests on the balk line is out, and not in, as the rule now states." Brown was unable to enlist the favor of a majority of his fellow-committeemen to his way of thinking, and he stated that he would be found on the firing line next year advocating the acceptance of his proposed rule.

A movement is under way to further restrict those eligible for the Class C division by requiring those who desire to take part in the series for championship honors to have a minimum grand average of at least two and not over five, in order to become eligible. It was stated that such a restriction would aid in keeping down what has proved to be cumbersome fields in the past and greatly aid in the success of tournaments.

The rule of carrom billiards relating to frozen balls, which read, "Or he may call upon the referee to separate the frozen balls by a thin card as little as possible, he then continuing play as though no freeze had occurred," was changed to read, "Or he may call upon the referee to spot the balls and play from the opening spot."

The rule just changed has been a bone of contention ever since it was provided for last year, and it is expected that recurrence to the original mode will do away with the trouble the insistence of last year's rule caused.

A change was made in the pocket billiard rules, to read:

"Before making a stroke the player must distinctly call the number of the ball he intends to pocket, which must be repeated by the referee, and unless both player and referee do so the balls pocketed do not count, if declared by the referee or claimed by his opponent immediately after the stroke."

Another rule in connection with the game was made to read:

"Any balls pocketed by such stroke shall not be counted provided the stroke is declared foul by the referee or claim is made by his opponent before a second stroke."

Numerous other changes were made in the constitution and by-laws relating to membership, dues, &c. The following were elected as officers for the ensuing year: President, E. B. Kurtz; Vice President, J. E. Cope-Martin; Secretary, Walter G. Douglas; Treasurer, G. O. Rudolphy. The members of the Executive Committee chosen include J. Ferdinand Poggenburg, W. W. Harris, Morris B. Brown, Edward F. Gray and J. P. Allen.

CLASS B BILLIARDS.

Gershal and Connors Winners in Championship Matches.

William Gershal and William Connors were the winners in the two games yesterday at Daly's Academy in the continuation of the Class B 18.2 balk line billiard championship. Gershal won the afternoon game with Fred Lowenthal, 300 to 215 in forty-five innings, while Connors took his second victory of the tournament by defeating George P. B. Clarke in the evening tilt, 300 to 289 in fifty-nine innings. The best high run of the day was credited to Gershal, who made a steady tally of 38, which gave him the best average, 6 34-45.

Connors's work in the evening game was the feature. Up to Saturday he had played three games and lost all, but then suddenly took a jump and won his match against Coleman, the champion, and increased his winning column with a second victory over Clarke, the ex-champion.

To-day will mark the playing of the semi-final rounds, after which only one match will be required to determine the winner.

JAPANESE LEADS IN 14.1 BILLIARDS

New Class of Balkline Introduced in Competition at Doyle's.

Fourteen-one, the latest class in balkline billiards, was introduced in competition yesterday at Doyle's Academy when Koji Yamada, the Japanese expert, played Albert Cutler of Boston in the first block af 500 in their 2,500-point match, with the Bostonian the winner on the day's play, 500 to 476. Blocks of 500 points will be played each day with a matinée performance of 200 points and an evening session at 300 points, the aggregate score only to count.

In the opening game Yamada was the winner, scoring the necessary 200 buttons, while his opponent ran a string of 186, but the evening game showed the tables reversed, and after coming from behind with a record run of 106 Cutler ran out 314, while the Oriental was tallying 276, winning the day's game.

The contests yesterday proved a good test of the new class game, and was enthusiastically received by a large gallery of billiard devotees. The game differs little from the other balkline games of 18.1 and 18.2, but affords the players a better opportunity to show their skill and execution. The anchor zones are cut to seven inches and play is considerably livelier, both in balk and out of balk, and the open game is not necessary to accomplish record shots. The reduction of the balkline space from 18 to 14 inches also leaves more open space in the centre of the table where the balkline rule does not prevail, and, on the whole, the game was generally accepted as one of the future competitive classes.

The evening game was really a spectacular exhibition, and before the halfway mark was reached double tally figures were numerous. Yamada threatened to draw away from the Bostonian again when he startled the onlookers with a run of 82 in the eighteenth inning. He worked the spheres into the open space, and with careful nursing worked them about, several times sending the object ball to the cushion and executing masse shots until he finally fell down on an easy cushion carrom. This run put the Jap far in the lead, the score being 179 to 142, but Cutler, on his next trip, excelled the efforts of Yamada with a run of 106. This was by far the best exhibition of the new game, and put the Bostonian in the lead for the first time. He made the best of the position, and thereafter continued his good work, running out the victorious string. The scores:

AFTERNOON GAME.

TO COMMUTE ON AIRBOAT.

Robert J. Collier Buys "Skimmer" That Will Carry Six Persons.

Within the next few days Robert J. Collier, the editor and sportsman, will try out at Seidler's Beach, N. J., the most powerful gliding boat ever constructed. It seats six people and is propelled by a 20-cylinder air-cooled motor driving a four-bladed 12 foot diameter air propeller. In general appearance the hull resembles a large bob-sled and when traveling at 60 miles an hour as it is expected to do the unique craft looks like a swift sleigh gliding over the ice.

As the boat is expected to make better than train speed and is far more comfortable Mr. Collier intends, the makers of the machine say, to use it for commuting between his Summer home and his office in New York, as well as use it for general sporting and pleasure purposes.

E. Fountain; Secretary—George Forbes; Treasurer—J. Ross Collins; Trustee, Edward G. Unitt. The reports of the Secretary and Treasurer read at the meeting show the club to be in a flourishing condition, with a growing membership of cruising and racing yachtsmen and a large fleet of sail and power craft. The Horseshoe Harbor Yacht Club has been a member of the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound since 1895.

LAWN TENNIS AMATEUR.

National Association to Define Status at Annual Meeting.

Amateurism in lawn tennis will be strictly defined at the annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis Association to be held at the Waldorf-Astoria Feb. 6. There has been a deal of controversy over this question, and a committee was appointed at the last meeting of the national body to draft a rule that would conform sufficiently with that of the International Federation of Europe so as to avoid the possibility of friction in the Davis Cup matches, which are to be played in this country next Summer.

The principal objection to the definition of an amateur has come from the promoters of invitation and hotel tournaments, in which it is alleged discrimination has been shown in favor of the ranking and leading players, and the adoption of the rule means that these promoters will have to depend largely upon local players in the future. While this opposition is expected to gather force at the next national meeting, it is thought among the leading officials that the rule will pass. The report of the Amateur Rule Committee and the rule follow:

"In view of the fact that the United States has been foremost in fostering international lawn tennis on a high amateur basis through the competition for the Davis Cup, your committee beg to report that they are unanimous in the opinion that our amateur rules should be in accord with the spirit of the provisions aiming to maintain high amateur standing in the amateur rules of the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

"Under the rules of the International Federation, associations or clubs are permitted to send players as their individual representatives, paying transportation and reasonable hotel (living) expenses, to world's championship events. On account of the great distances between prominent points within the United States, and also within many of the States, your committee are unanimous in considering it proper to add to the events to which our associations or clubs are permitted to send their representatives, national, sectional, and State championships under the auspices of the U. S. N. L. T. A."

The proposed rule follows:

An amateur lawn tennis player is one who has not accepted money or traveling or living expenses for playing the game in a tournament, match, or competition; but a player may accept hospitality at a private house and when officially selected to represent an association or club in a world's championship, or in a national, sectional, or State championship held under the auspices of the U. S. N. L. T. A., or in a representative team competition, a player may receive from such association or club his necessary traveling and reasonable living expenses. The interpretation of this rule shall not prevent a player from taking advantage of any reasonable special living or transportation rates which are properly announced and are open to all players entering the tournament.

LAST SHOT FOR PAGE.

Independent Nominators Close Campaign for N. Y. A. C. Election.

Supporters of William H. Page and Dr. James N. West, the independent nominees for President and Vice President, respectively, of the New York Athletic Club, fired their final gun last night, and the lines are tightly drawn for to-night's election, which takes place in the city clubhouse. On Sunday night the Nominating Committee issued a statement giving their reasons for not renominating Mr. Page and Dr. West.

Lawrence L. Gillespie, secretary of the independent nominators, takes exception to several of the statements made by the Regular Nominating Committee and sent a circular, with a list of 164 independent nominators to the members of the club soliciting their support for the independent candidates. Accompanying the circular is a statement by Gen. Thomas L. Watson, an ex-President of the club. The circular, after announcing the fact that the only candidates are William H. Page for President and Dr. James N. West for Vice President, says:

"We make no contest as to the other officers and members of the Board of Governors proposed by the Nominating Committee.

"We favor a continuation of the efficient administration of last year, the results of which are shown in the printed annual report which you have recently received and to the first five pages of which we call your attention.

"We concur in the five recommendations of the Nominating Committee's report, particularly the portion which contemplates the employment of a paid executive, who shall have had a successful hotel experience, to manage the city clubhouse.

"We are not opposed to adding golf to the activities of the club providing the same can be accomplished within proper financial limits.

"We are opposed to any guarantee by this club of club dues in another organization, and we are opposed to any proposition of affiliation with another club which does not afford equal rights to every member of the New York Athletic Club.

"Men are to be judged by results accomplished and the desirability for re-election should be so determined. It has been the rule in this club for twenty years at least, to re-elect officers who have given satisfaction during their first term."

The regular nominees for the annual election which is slated for 8 o'clock to-night, follow: For President—James W. Hyde; for Vice President—George T. Montgomery; for Treasurer—Martin S. Paine; for Secretary—Fred R. Fortmeyer; for Captain—Paul H. Pilgrim; for Governors to serve two years—William L. Miller, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, George Frederick Pelham, George J. Corbett, William L. Mitchell, Powhattan R. Robinson, William A. Hines, and Edwin J. Benson.

Lore Easily Outpoints Haas.

Johnny Lore, the west side lightweight, easily outpointed Freddie Haas of Harlem last night in the main ten-round bout at the Olympic Athletic Club of Harlem. Lore clearly demonstrated his superiority from the start of the bout and outclassed his opponent throughout. The west sider used a left jab effectively, and several times had Haas staggering from the effects of rights and lefts to the face, but Haas always recuperated. In the semi-final bout, which was also scheduled for ten rounds, Bert Whirlwin, a Philadelphia light-heavyweight, faced Battling Ross, a local boxer. The milling was fairly even for the first two rounds, but in the third session, after taking several hard whallops on the face and body, the local boxer was satisfied that Whirlwin was his superior.

URGES AUTO OWNERS TO HELP IN REFORMS

Manhattan Automobile Club Sets Forth the Purposes of Its Membership Campaign.

Now that "show week" is over, the Manhattan Automobile Club has taken up with renewed energy its campaign to increase its membership. In its monthly bulletin issued last night the purposes of the campaign are said to be:

"To demonstrate to the automobile owners of New York that the Manhattan Automobile Club is a club which may be wielded as a club in the protection of their investment in automobiles; in the removal of the excessive annoyances which beset the automobilist in the streets; in the protection of the public against the perils and annoyances of reckless automobiling; in securing the right kind of legislation and preventing the wrong kind; in prompt regulation, by the automobilists themselves in conjunction with the municipal authorities, of what has become in the eyes of the public a great problem—the automobile traffic in our streets."

The bulletin goes on to say that reforms can be obtained only by a great, dignified body of automobile owners who, by concerted action, by an intelligent observation of rules, and by working in conjunction with the municipal authorities, shall regulate automobile traffic.

At the annual meeting of the Motor Dealers' Contest Association, held yesterday, a programme for the ensuing year was decided upon. The association may hold some race meets in the Summer, but especial encouragement will be given to contests of a practical character, and to tests which will bring out the service qualities of automobiles and their accessories. These officers for the year were elected:

W. C. Poertner, President; Emanuel Pascaris, First Vice President; E. C. J. McShane, Second Vice President; Edward F. Korbel, (re-elected,) Secretary, and James C. Nichols, (re-elected,) Treasurer. James M. Carples and Charles S. Wells were added to the Board of Directors.

There is more evidence that the cycle car has come to stay. The New York Cycle Car Club has been organized with these officers: Joseph A. Anglada, President; R. F. Kelsey, Secretary and Treasurer; Governors—A. B. Cumner, Jerome T. Shaw, A. W. Parry, and A. Russell Smith.

Quits National Auto Organization.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 12.—The Connecticut Automobile Association, at its annual meeting here to-day, withdrew its membership from the national organization, claiming that the State was not given proper representation at the recent annual meeting of the national body, and also that the dues are out of all proportion to the benefits received.

Wanderers Pay Hockey Fine.

Manager Condon of the Wanderers Hockey Club called upon the officials of the Amateur Hockey League yesterday and paid the fine of $50 imposed upon them for their refusal to play the scheduled game with the Crescent A. C. team last week, without the services of "Bud" Claffy, the former Canadian player, whom the league officials declared ineligible to play under the residence rule. In the payment of this fine they retain their membership in the league, and will play their scheduled game with the Hockey Club to-night at the St. Nicholas Rink. The team is a strong, well-balanced organization, and has just returned from a successful trip to the West. In meeting the champion Hockey Club team to-night, a thrilling contest may be expected, as both teams are confident of victory.

FENCING CHAMPION LOSES.

Montgomery Defeats MacPherson in Opening Series of Season.

The competition season of the Amateur Fencers' League of America opened last night at the West Side Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium, Fifty-seventh Street and Eighth Avenue, with a novice foils contest, in which Sidney Montgomery wielded his foil with such dexterity and skill that the first victory of the season went to the New York Turn Verein. The victory of Montgomery was unexpected, as, in addition to twelve of the best novice fencers in the metropolitan district, he was opposed by C. A. MacPherson of the New York Athletic Club and former intercollegiate champion. The latter qualified in the finals with Montgomery, Charles Cathcart, and S. Bosco, both of the New York Turn Verein. The contest between Montgomery and MacPherson was the feature of the tournament, the Turn Verein representative winning by the margin of 5 points to 4.

The competitions in the preliminary rounds brought out some excellent fencing, and many of the bouts were won by a single margin. In the first six encounters MacPherson had but 5 points recorded against him, while Cathcart and Bosco each held a safe lead throughout the earlier rounds. The summary:

RETAILERS FEAR 'PURE' SHOE BILLS

SEE PLOT BY WHOLESALERS

Manufacturers Are Seeking to Get Control of Retail Field, Delegates to Convention Say.

According to shoe dealers, if the price of a good pair of shoes does not mount to $10 or $12 in the course of the next few years it will not be the fault of the Congressmen who are now trying to pass "pure shoe" laws in Washington. This was the sentiment expressed yesterday by delegates at the opening of the annual convention of the National Shoe Retailers' Association at the Hotel Astor.

One retail dealer in this city who discussed the effect of the bills said it was out of the question in these days of high leather prices to supply cheap shoes that are made entirely of leather. To do so, he said, would require an annual supply of 2,000,000 more hides than are available now.

"As it is to-day," he said, "it is possible to sell a poor man a pair of shoes for $2.50 that is better than the pair he may have to buy in two or three years at twice that figure. There are several parts of a cheap shoe in which so-called adulterants can be made to give better wear than the kind of leather that would necessarily have to be put in at the present price. The attempt of the lawmakers to protect the public by requiring an all-leather shoe is, therefore, retroactive. Seemingly without realizing it, these Congressmen are trying to force the poor man to pay twice as much in the future for a shoe that will give only about half the wear of an 'adulterated' one. The use of leatherboard, a mixture of ground leather and glue, in toe caps and in the inner lifts of heels, the use of fibre counters, and the use of canvas innersoles is not nearly so sinful a practice as it seems. Several 'adulterants' have more natural strength than poor leather."

One of the chief objections of the convention to the proposed legislation concerned the provisions which made it imperative for a manufacturer to stamp his name on each shoe, as well as whether they were "all leather" or "adulterated," and, in the latter case, to indicate the adulterants on the shoe. The objection voiced against this provision was that it would make the retailer the slave of the manufacturers, whose products he handled, that his own personality, his good business instincts and his endeavors to give the public good shoes would be lost for good and all. Instead of talking up the fine points of a shoe, and the fact that he always handled good shoes, it was said that the retailer would soon be forced to sell one kind of shoe because it had Brown's name on the bottom and another kind because it bore Smith's name. Then Smith or Brown, noting the increased call for his shoes in the retailers' town, might make up his mind to enter the retail business and get a double profit. To do this he would cut off his supply of shoes to the retailer and thereby weaken the retailer's trade so much that he would be forced out of business. There had already been notable instances of such tactics, it was said, without the aid of the law. It was intimated that a big manufacturing firm in the Middle West was the chief sponsor of the bills now pending in Washington and that its idea in getting this legislation passed was to force its way into the retail field at the expense of many retailers.

Another contention was contained in a letter from a prominent member of the Southern Retailers' Association which was read at the afternoon session. This retailer expressed the opinion that the "Beef Trust" was back of the proposed legislation for the purpose of boosting domestic hide prices. He intimated that the "trust" already had a strangle hold on the hide supply, and would profit mightily if prices did advance. He asserted that the activities of the trust were evident already in some of the shoe factories and that he expected it to enter open competition in the retail field.

The convention took a strong stand in favor of legislation based on the German law against fraudulent merchandising, modified to meet American conditions. This law, it was contended, with a provision making false advertising a misdemeanor would soon eliminate "fake" sales of all kinds and protect the public and legitimate shoe retailer against the "sample" shoe shop. This kind of a shop, it was asserted, does not sell sample shoes at all, but damaged or job lots, seconds and passé styles. Other important trade topics discussed were the turning over of stocks and the non-delivery of goods by manufacturers on the dates promised. The convention will continue to-day.

The annual dinner of the association will be served at the Astor to-night. The speakers will be John Armour, T. James Fernley, and H. N. Casson. A. J. McGowin, President of the association, will be the toastmaster.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

The Board of the United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained a protest by Dolliver Bros., San Fransisco, relating to the classification under the Tariff act of 1909, of adhesive felt in pieces 32 by 40 inches, imported in crates. The Collector classified the goods as roofing felt, and exacted duty at the rate of 10 per cent. ad valorem under paragraph 407. The merchandise was claimed to be entitled to free entry under paragraph 564, as "felt, adhesive, for sheathing vessels." The claim was held by the board to be well taken, the Collector's assessment being reversed.

The Mill & Mine Supply Co., Port Townsend, was sustained in a contention dealing with the rate of duty on steel wire rope. Duty was taken at 35 per cent. ad valorem and 1 cent a pound under paragraph 135, of the old law. The importer claims duty at 1¾ cents a pound plus 1 cent a pound under the same paragraph.

The board sustained in part protests filed by F. B. Vandegrift & Co., New York, and held that second-hand wheels, new cast iron wheels, iron pulleys and rap heads, were properly dutiable under paragraph 147 of the old law, as castings, at 1 cent a pound. Collector Malone's action in returning the articles at 45 per cent. ad valorem as manufacturers of metal was reversed. A somewhat similar claim by Edward Jefferson & Bro., Boston, was also sustained.

The Millard Co., Ogdensburg, failed in a contention for the free entry under the old act of so-called mill buttings and deal ends, which were assessed at 10 per cent. as waste. The merchandise was claimed to be free of duty as kindling, or as paper stock fit only for remanufacture.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

Piano Merchants Meet.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the National Association of Piano Merchants of America was held yesterday morning at the Hotel Astor. The committee passed a resolution favoring the adoption of one-cent letter postage. It was decided to hold the annual convention of the organization at the Hotel Astor on June 8, 9 and 10. The committee will meet again at 10 o'clock to-day.

⁂

Lace Men's Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Lace and Embroidery Association was held yesterday afternoon at Delmonico's, uptown. These Directors have been elected for the coming year: I. N. Landauer, R. R. Muser, Julius Strauss, Martin Strauss, C. F. Ikle, Frederick Ludwig, and George Pohlmann. Reports were made by various committees. In the evening the annual dinner of the association was held at Delmonico's, at which the speakers were Nathaniel A. Elsburg, C. R. Clifford, and G. S. Lewy of the Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association.

Customs Dockets Dates Set.

Henderson M. Somerville, President of the Board of United States General Appraisers, has set the dates for the calling of dockets of Customs cases for this month at outside ports as follows: Boston and Baltimore, Jan 27, and Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Jan. 29. All protests by importers at these ports, covering classification and reappraisement of merchandise, which are ready for trial will be heard by members of the board to be designated by the President. Cases not ready may be submitted later at the board's offices in this city for consideration and decision, or held until the next docket in October.

We Sell Woolens in France.

A well-known New Jersey manufacturing concern is exporting fancy woolen fabrics to France and selling them against the competition of the native looms, according to the mill's selling agent here. The leading French jobbers next Fall will have many American novelties to offer to European buyers. It was not price that sold these goods in France, but workmanship and design, despite the European assumption that American manufacturers do nothing except "pirate" foreign designs. The news came to the woolen trade as a great surprise, inasmuch as many of its members were bewailing the lower duties, and at least one manufacturing company had made arrangements to recoup possible losses by importing foreign fabrics. The trade is now wondering if any of the American goods sold abroad will return here in the next Fall season as the products of the best French looms.

Jewelry Jobbers' Failures.

According to statistics compiled by the Manufacturing Jewelers' Board of Trade, there was a slight increase in number of failures in the wholesale jewelry trade in 1913. Total liabilities for last year were $1,044,099, as compared with $1,034,088 in 1912. In 1910 and 1911 the totals were $1,501,288 and $1,899,875, respectively. Thirteen of the jewelry jobbers who failed in 1913, out of a total of 48, were in business in this city; four were in Chicago, five each in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, four in Boston, and two in San Francisco. None of the other leading cities had more than one failure each.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

A line of lamps that is said to be attracting considerable attention locally has well-executed animal studies and silk shades in harmonizing colors. The display also includes porcelain-base reading and night lamps, the latter being effected by a light at the base, that is said to give a subdued effect. These have imported hand-painted calfskin shades in unique designs to correspond.

The popularity of the demi and narrow flounces in laces for the coming Spring are more and more indicated by the developing fashion. An attractive domestic product shown here is said to be more like chantilly than shadow, embodying many novelty meshes.

Jobbers are operating slowly on sweaters for the current season, fearing that larger stocks may be left on retailers' hands because of the mild weather so far this Winter. It is believed, however, in some instances that the last-minute demand will be sufficient to reduce retailers' stocks to a low point.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

The grain markets ended the day with improved prices. Wheat was up ⅛c, and January corn gained as much, with the other options unchanged. Oats advanced from ⅛ to ⅝c a bushel. Cotton receded under liquidation, closing with losses extending from 11 to 17 points. Provisions and cotton oil were firm.

WHEAT.

News in the wheat market was of a more bullish nature and prices were firmer, at one time showing gains of ⅝c from the final of Saturday, although at the close there was a partial setback, and final quotations were ⅛c net higher. The advance was due largely to strength in Europe, where the Liverpool market closed ⅞d to 1⅛d up, owing to less favorable advices regarding yields in Australia and Argentina. The spot demand abroad was also better.

The weather over the West was colder and some anxiety was felt regarding the safety of the Winter wheat crop, as last week's mild weather removed a large portion of the snow covering. The cash demand in the Northwest was less active, however, and receipts in that quarter were somewhat larger, while total interior receipts were about 200,000 bushels ahead of last week. World's exports for the week were 13,600,000 bushels, against 11,632,000 last week and 9,696,000 last year.

In the local cash market No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at 97⅛c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York, and 99c, free on board; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.00¼, free on board, and No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.00⅝c, free on board.

CORN.

The corn market showed considerable firmness during the early session as a result of strength in Europe and less favorable crop advices from Argentina, but while the January position closed steady at an advance of ⅛c, the later months lost the early gain and closed on an even basis with Saturday's quotations. The visible supply showed an increase of 2,086,000, compared with an increase of 950,000 last year. The world's exports for the week were 4,758,000, against 2,501,000 last week and 3,665,000 last year.

In the local cash market No. 3 yellow corn was quoted at 70⅝c, cost, insurance, and freight, to arrive.

OATS.

The oats market showed a very steady undertone early in the day on small offerings and buying by commission houses, but at the close the late months were easier at net gains of ⅛c to ¼c, while January was ⅝c higher. The visible supply in the United States decreased 669,000 bushels, while Canada increased 1,061,000 bushels.

The local cash market was dull, standard white being quoted at 44½@45c; No. 2, 45@46c; No. 3, 44@45c; No. 4, 43½@44½c; ordinary clipped white, 43½@45½c; fancy clipped white, 45@47c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

A steadier tone prevailed in the market for hog products, with a better demand from grainhouses as well as buying by packers, but late in the session there was a partial reaction. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 48,000, estimated for Tuesday 34,000; Kansas City received 9,000, and Omaha 5,500.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was only moderately active, but a steadier tone prevailed, and final prices were 1 to 5 points net higher. Offerings of crude oil from the South were comparatively small, and the crude market ruled firm. The cash demand showed little signs of improvement. Tenders on January contracts amounted to about 500 barrels.

The range of contract prices in the local market to-day was as follows:

COTTON.

The cotton market was lower yesterday under liquidation by recent buyers. The close was barely steady, at a net decline of 11 to 17 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 2 to 4 points, which was rather better than due on the cables, but soon weakened under general selling. There was a fair spot trade in Liverpool, but private cables said there had been more hedge selling, and there was also considerable Southern selling in the local market. Covering caused slight rallies from time to time, but on every little bulge trading became less active, which suggested the absence of any important support, and active months sold 17 to 18 points net lower during the afternoon. Closing prices were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest.

Reports of further commercial troubles or failures and various additions to the ranks of the unemployed may have been partly responsible for the easier tone of the market. The main factors, however, seemed to be the weakness in Liverpool and spot house selling of March and May.

Southern spot markets as officially reported were ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher. The local market for spot cotton was quiet and 10 points lower at 12.50 for middling upland; sales, none; delivered on contract, 200 bales.

The range of contract prices in the local market was as follows:

COFFEE.

The upward movement in values, which was temporarily halted on Saturday, was again in progress during yesterday's operations, and the market was firm, closing at net gains of 23 to 26 points. The volume of trading was small, total sales for the day aggregating 45,750 bags, and while bulls were more aggressive, and at times bid for good-sized blocks, the advance was due fully as much to a lack of offerings as it was to the demand. The European markets were firm, Havre closing 1¼ to 1½ franc net higher, while Hamburg was ¼ to ½ pfennig advance. The Brazilian markets were firm and cost and freight offers were 5 to 10 points higher, with Santos 4s quoted at 11.35 to 11.60c. and Rio 7s at 9.20 to 9.40c. The buying during the day was largely through one broker, and it was the general impression that the orders came from the leading bull interest in the market, while the selling was scattered.

The local spot market was only moderately active, but prices were steadier, with Rio 7s quoted at 9½c. The total warehouse deliveries in New York last week were 61,819 bags, against 61,961 the previous week, and 61,961 last year. Contract prices follow:

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Up—Trade Reports Improve—Money Eases Further and New Haven News Helps.

Further progress which the stock market made yesterday carried the general average of prices substantially more than a point above the level at which it stood when the year opened. There were but few exceptions to the forward movement. The fair gains made in a large number of issues were supplemented by sharp advances in the petroleum shares and in a few other issues the transactions in which lie outside of the usual run of trading operations. Whatever uneasiness traders felt over the reconvening of Congress, with particular reference to possible anti-trust legislation, and over the tenor of the special message on this question which the President is expected shortly to deliver to Congress, was overshadowed by the favorable elements which called for the attention of the financial community. The extraordinarily good bank statement of Saturday and the good news of the agreement between the New Haven and the Department of Justice were the chief of these. The former had direct influence upon a further decline in interest rates which nowhere was more noteworthy than in the market for commercial paper. There six months' bills bearing prime names were being discounted as low as 4½ per cent. The rate stood at 5½ per cent. a few weeks ago and back of that the rate had been as high as 6 per cent. This decline means that commercial transactions will be financed for sometime to come with much greater ease than they have been financed in the recent past and there is here an incentive to enlarged trade which will exert no small influence even though it needs to be supplemented by other factors to cause the hoped for broadening in commercial activity. But that broadening is even now more than a mere hope. The current advices from the steel trade indicate a change for the better in the demand for steel products as well as in trade sentiment. The accounts of men now returning to work in the steel trade by the tens of thousands must of course be read in the light of the heavy laying off of men at the holiday shut-down, which was unusually prolonged this year, was begun. On the other hand the fact that so many men are now going back to work disproves the despondent inferences which were drawn from the recent laying off of men.

The announcement that the New Haven management had come to an understanding with the Attorney General regarding a plan to bring the company's affairs within the law as interpreted by the Department of Justice found a natural enough reflection in the advance of over two points which occurred in that stock yesterday. The outlook for the company seems distinctly better under such an agreement than it would be under prolonged litigation in a Government suit brought under the Sherman law. Such a suit would necessarily be more or less harassing to the management of the New Haven and it could not fail in part to distract the attention of the management from the other problems with which it has to do. It will now be free as soon as this plan has been worked out to devote itself whole-heartedly to the upbuilding of the property. It was also felt that with a definite understanding with the Government no longer in doubt the way had been further smoothed for the financing which the New Haven has to do. It has come about that events have worked in favor of this financing more ways than one. In addition to the removal of the controversy with the Government each day recently has brought an easier money position which will in due course add largely to the reservoir of funds from which the New Haven and other corporate borrowers will have to draw. The course of events since the turn of the year has done not a little to facilitate the large amount of refunding which has to be done during the next six months.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

New Haven Rebounds.

So many things have happened to the New Haven in the last year that the older stockholders, who looked upon their New Haven shares about as they did their fire and life insurance policies, have lost all means of reckoning their position. The newer element among the holders, consisting of persons who bought the shares from par down in the belief that they offered an excellent speculative opportunity, are little less at sea. There is one thing that stands out from the confusion: the New Haven comes nearer to being the old New York & Boston Line, with the separation of the Boston & Albany half interest, the Boston & Maine control, the trolley lines, and part of the steamships, than at any time since C. S. Mellen's activities in New England began to attract attention. Announcement of the reaching of an agreement with the Department of Justice more than offset the adverse influence of the Massachusetts decision against the convertible issue, and New Haven showed real strength. It closed at 77, with a gain of 2 points for the day.

Central in Disfavor.

Looking at nothing beyond dividends and prices, it is hard to justify a price of 77 for New Haven, paying nothing, and of 88⅜ for the New York Central, paying 5 per cent. per annum. Central sold at that figure yesterday, thereby establishing a new low point for a long term of years. The lowest figure touched in 1907 came after the panic, in December, and that was 89. It has been more than fifteen years since the stock sold as low as it did yesterday on information that the house might order an investigation of the company's affairs.

Money's Ease Reflected.

A decline of one-quarter of 1 per cent. in time money rates for the different maturities and of one-half of 1 per cent. in the discount rate for "prime" commercial paper told yesterday's tale of easing money. A particular class of borrowers is now being watched for by brokers. This class is made up of manufacturers and merchants who make it a rule to keep out of the market when their notes have to be subjected to a discount of more than 4½ per cent. A paper broker said yesterday that a number of his regular clients never issued any bills, no matter how large a business they might be doing, if the rate was above this figure. Below it they might at any time be sellers of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of paper. With six-months' bills of the best names going at 4½ per cent., and the tendency toward lower rates, the appearance of these borrowers is awaited to broaden the brokerage business and help the banks place some of their idle funds.

The Street Talks of Oil Stocks.

Along Wall and Broad and down the cañon of New Street commission house habitués indulged in much mental speculation yesterday in oil company stocks. Gossip about them fairly bristled with statistics on the increase during the past year of gasoline and fuel oil consumption. It was not impossible to find persons who professed to know to the ultimate second-hand car how many automobiles are daily forcing the oil refiners to unusual efforts in their behalf. The Street's interest in petroleum shares has been stimulated for a great many weeks by the persistent strength of the Standard Oil group, and further enhancement thereof came from a burst of strength in California Petroleum, Mexican Petroleum, and Texas Company on the Stock Exchange.

A Gusher and Some Shares.

Banking interests connected with the California Petroleum Company are well pleased over the productive capacity of a well brought in a few days ago. It will be recalled that last Summer conditions looked more blue than otherwise for the company's earnings because some of the lands from which good profits were expected to come had been found to contain much water with the oil. Hopes of increasing gross production were based on a well being bored to come in during September, but the month passed and another and a third without the drill reaching the oil-bearing stratum. Then, at a depth of 3,400 feet, in contrast with an average drilling depth of about 2,200 feet in the field, the oil was found. It was stated yesterday, in quarters familiar with the company's affairs, that not only was a heavy output promised, but that the petroleum was of a fine grade, worth more per barrel than twice the market quotation of the bulk of the product of the region. Whether the new "gusher" was directly responsible for a demand for California Petroleum stocks or not, the shares advanced nearly 5 points. Mexican Petroleum common stock rose more than 8 points at the same time. Texas Company gained 3 points to a high record price.

New National Banks in 1913.

Two hundred and seventeen applications to organize national banks were filed with the Treasury Department during 1913, and of this number 171 were approved. Those authorized to begin business numbered 167, with a total capital of $9,300,000. In December 13 applications were made, 7 were approved, and 9 began business with capital of $230,000 in the aggregate. In the preceding year applications up to the end of October were 262, of which 192 were approved. Evidently the promise of a new banking law had some influence in checking the growth of the national banking system during the past year.

A Touch of Weather.

The curb broker has found this Winter the mildest in years—up to yesterday. Five years ago most of the men who stand out in lower Broad Street from 10 o'clock to 3 each day owned luxurious fur overcoats, which made an occasional cold day welcome. The fur coats have been disappearing, partly because there has not been much cold weather and partly because the men who could afford them did not like to make the contrast with others who could not too striking. The sudden drop in temperature yesterday made the outside market a dreary place, and to-day will bring those furs out of storage and elsewhere.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Oil Issues Generally Show Gains and Advances Occur in a Few Industrials.

The oil stocks generally closed higher in the outside security market yesterday, with the greatest advance amounting to 5 points. Atlantic Refinery, Standard Oil of New York, and Vacuum Oil made the largest gains, with Pierce, Ohio, South Penn, and Standard of New Jersey following close after. Washington Oil sold off 5 points, and one or two others smaller amounts. Some of the shares on the industrial list showed strength, notably Kelly Springfield Tire preferred and Maxwell Motors common and first preferred, but dealings were rather limited in amount. New York State 4½s, when issued, sold at 105¼ to 105½, and Canadian Pacific 6 per cent. notes at 101⅞ to 101¾.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Jan. 13.—The Times says in its City article:

"The market continued well supplied with money yesterday but the terms for short fixtures and India Council loans were unaltered.

"Discount rates rose slightly, there being little disposition to take bills at under 3¾ per cent. The Paris Cheque fell ¾c, and other Continental exchanges moved against London.

"One hundred thousand pounds was withdrawn from the Bank for shipment to France.

"Business was generally very quiet on the Stock Exchange in view of the settlement, which begins to-day. There was again a keen demand for scrip of recent issues, and the tone of the gilt-edged market was generally good. American shares were also supported in the later dealings.

"The leading South African mining shares recovered appreciably, while Russian mining shares advanced further.

"On the other hand, Mexican Railway Company's stocks were depressed by reports of damage wrought by the revolutionaries."

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Prices were weak on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 85f. 70c. for the account.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—The Boerse opened weak under realizing to-day.

VALUE LAKE SHORE AT $1,237 A SHARE

Minority Stockholders Make That the Average of Three Private Appraisals.

MARKET PRICE WAS $350

Central Was Seeking to Get It All In for Consolidation Without Putting Up the Price.

Some of the largest minority stockholders of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway have secured a valuation of that property which they will make use of in negotiations for a sale of their shares to the New York Central, which proposes to consolidate the Lake Shore and other subsidiary lines with the parent company, and to that end is negotiating for possession of the outstanding minority shares.

The Lake Shore is the Central's principal connection between Buffalo and Chicago. Of its $49,466,500 of capital stock a little more than 91 per cent., or $45,289,200, is in the New York Central's treasury. Of the 41,773 shares held outside about 15,000 were represented by the bankers who arranged for the valuation of the Lake Shore. The average of several appraisals made on different bases gives the stock a value of $1,237 a share.

When the New York Central determined on its plan for consolidating with the Lake Shore in order to unify its financing, efforts are said to have been quietly made to acquire as much of the minority stock as possible. Some of the largest holders refused to accept the figure set by the market, which was $350 bid at that time, and said they were satisfied to retain the shares for the dividend return, which is 18 per cent. a year. Prices set by these holders for their stock ranged from $500 to $1,000 a share.

To get a working basis for a settlement, if one should be offered, the bankers representing the 15,000 shares engaged experts and spent $50,000 to make three independent examinations. One of these was made from the standpoint of earnings. The other two appraisals were made of the road bed, real estate and buildings, security holdings, &c. The three reports were in substantial agreement. One put a valuation of $1,203 per share on the Lake Shore's capital stock, one a valuation of $1,228, and the third a valuation of $1,281. The average of the three is $1,237.

At this figure the Lake Shore's stock is worth $619,000,000. To buy in the minority at the mean appraisal would cost more than $51,000,000. Lake Shore stock sold on the Exchange last year at $490 for 100-share lots and at $500 for odd lots. Its surplus earnings, including such portion as they allege to have been diverted to improvements and other purposes, the minority holders assert, have averaged 35 per cent. a year on the stock, or almost twice the amount paid in dividends.

The Lake Shore operates 7,872 miles, of which 1,160 miles are owned outright. Spread over only the mileage actually owned, the experts' appraisal would average $533,000 per mile for the system.

William A. Read & Co., the bankers who had these reports made up, refused to divulge their contents, or to tell how they were arrived at. It is understood that the Central has undertaken an examination for its own guidance in purchasing minority stock. There has been no determined effort to get possession of the outstanding stock, although representatives of the railroad have been in correspondence with some of the larger holders with a view to reaching an agreement.

The Central obtained its controlling interest at what has since turned out to have been a very low figure. In 1898 and 1899 it exchanged $200 in 3½ per cent. collateral bonds for each share of stock, giving the owner of 100 shares $700 per annum income, whereas later he would have received as much as $1,800 in a single year had he retained his stock. The bonds are now selling at 79, or $158 for certificates exchanged for stock now worth around $500 in the market.

The New York Central has to secure consents from 75 per cent. of the holders of its Lake Shore collaterals before it can proceed with the consolidation. Most of these have been obtained, and the deficiency will not be difficult to overcome when the plans for the merger are ready, it is said.

The Lake Shore is chartered under the laws of New York, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Michigan. It is understood that the minority stockholders are relying upon an Ohio statute which prescribes that minority owners of stock in a company consolidated with another may demand of the courts the value of their shares as fixed by a commission appointed by the courts. Such a commission might make an appraisal far below that submitted by the bankers' experts and still put a figure on the Lake Shore stock well above the highest price ever commanded in the stock market.

NICKEL CO.'S OFFER.

Employes Can Share in Profits by Subscribing for Stock.

The International Nickel Company has announced a plan for sharing profits with its employes through subscriptions to the company's stock, which may be paid for in instalments. Three thousand shares of the common stock are being offered to the men at 110. Dividends at the rate of 10 per cent. a year are paid on the stock and subscribers will be entitled to collect the dividends as soon as the first instalment is paid on their allotments. The shares are quoted in the market around 115.

The employes have been divided into three classes for the purpose of stock subscription. In the first class are those whose terms of service extend over ten years, in the second are workers who have been on the payroll from five to ten years, while the third division is made up of those who have worked less than five years for the company. Members of the first two classes may subscribe to two shares each if their salary is no more than $1,375 a year. Those in the last class may take one share. Subscription rights of the higher paid men are apportioned to the pay they get.

The company has 4,500 employes. They will be permitted to subscribe to the stock until Jan. 31.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Trading interest on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was particularly concentrated upon United States Steel throughout the session. That stock changed hands to the amount of 18,540 shares, and its early advance had much to do with stimulating interest all through the list. The market was the broadest in respect to variety of securities represented in the dealings thus far this year, fifty different issues being traded in. Reported improvement in steel trade conditions, plus the bank statement showing of last Saturday, brought about a buying movement on a large scale. Reactionary symptoms developed toward the close, renewed talk of gold exports and Mexican intervention rumors having an effect. Consolidated Gas sold at 131 and Corn Products at 9½, the only market for those two stocks in Wall Street during the day.

UNTERMYER WRONG, KRUTTSCHNITT SAYS

Insists "What Should Have Been Done" Was Done in U. P.-S. P. Divorce Proceedings.

NOT SO, CRITIC REJOINS

Repeats That Present S. P. Board Was First Chosen by U. P. and Simply Re-elected by Unmerged Line.

Julius Kruttschnitt, Chairman of the Southern Pacific board, took issue yesterday with the view of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution under the Sherman act that was expressed by Samuel Untermyer in an address before the Illinois Manufacturers' Association a short time ago. Mr. Kruttschnitt, in a letter to H. C. Herget, President of the association, referred to Mr. Untermyer's advocacy of a Federal commission to supervise the disintegration of corporations, and said:

"The accomplishments of the courts were also criticised, and the execution of the judicial decrees thus far rendered was pronounced 'farcical.' The recent Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution was attacked, and what in the speaker's opinion should have been done in selecting a Board of Directors for the Southern Pacific, had the proposed commission been in existence, was outlined as follows:

* * * the first and fundamental duty of the Commission would have been to supervise an election for Directors of the Southern Pacific, from which the Union Pacific management and its agents would have been excluded. It would have invited prominent independent stockholders to form a committee, to name a ticket and to circularize and secure the co-operation of their associate shareholders. The result thus achieved would have represented the will of the independent owners, instead of, as now, recording merely the will of the Union Pacific as to who should constitute the Board of Directors of their liberated competitor.

"What actually was done in selecting the existing Board of Directors of the Southern Pacific Company is as follows:

1. Independent stockholders representing 215,000 shares, or 15 per cent. of all shares entitled to vote, appointed a protective committee, which co-operated to the fullest extent with their associate stockholders.
2. At the annual meeting of stockholders 9,583 independent owners of 1,046,309 shares of stock, uncontrolled and uninfluenced by the Union Pacific, selected those of their number who should manage the company's affairs. The result achieved with the election of fifteen Directors, including two members of the protective committee, that represent the will of 80 per cent. of the owners numerically, and 72.3 per cent. of all shares entitled to vote.
3. The Union Pacific management and its agents were excluded from participation in the election. Not a single share of stock owned by the Union Pacific was voted or in any wise affected the result.

"On account of the wide publicity given to the address of Jan. 5, I feel sure that you will not consider it improper for me to give equal publicity to this communication."

Mr. Kruttschnitt's letter was shown to Mr. Untermyer, who made the following statement:

"The reply is decidedly misleading. Mr. Kruttschnitt refers to what was done in selecting the present Board of Directors, but he omits to meet the criticism—that after the Supreme Court had decided the control of the S. P. by the U. P. to be illegal the Union Pacific Board of Directors was permitted to name and install the entire Board of Directors of the Southern Pacific. It was this board that was subsequently elected in the manner described.

"The essential fact remains that the present officers and Directors of the Southern Pacific are the same individuals as were named and installed by the Southern Pacific board after its control of the Southern Pacific had been declared unlawful by the Supreme Court.

"The point made in the address was that there was no case in the history of great corporations whose shares are scattered in which a Board of Directors once installed had been superseded. Of what use was it to exclude the Union Pacific from voting on its stock and at the same time permit it to name the entire Southern Pacific board? My criticism was not directed against the action of the courts, or of the Department of Justice, but against the deficient legal machinery for the disintegration of corporations that have been adjudged to be unlawful.

"The argument was not made as reflecting upon any one, but solely to illustrate the contention that the disintegration of such corporations should be entrusted to the Interstate Commerce Commission rather than to the courts, which are not adapted to such purposes.

"An election under the direction of the commission would be a very different affair from one conducted through a stockholders' committee engineered by the management, which is thus enabled to perpetuate itself. Mr. Kruttschnitt has missed the point of the argument, which is perhaps due partly to the fact that the published report was necessarily incomplete."

NOMINATING COMMITTEE IN.

Stock Exchange Selects It by a New Style Election.

Members of the New York Stock Exchange elected yesterday to the Nominating Committee for the ensuing year William Gibson Borland, William B. De Haven, Harold L. Fish, Sidney S. Schuyler and William Evans, Jr. The committee will select a slate of officers to be voted for at the annual meeting of the Exchange next May.

An application of the direct primary idea was put into operation in selecting candidates for the Nominating Committee. Instead of the retiring members of the committee selecting their successors, as had been the rule, the membership of the board selected its candidates and after the list had been cut down to the nine who received the most votes, an election was held to choose five to form the new committee.

FORECLOSURE SALES.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE PURSUANT TO SECOND AMENDED AND SUPPLEMENTAL DECREES.

CHANCERY SALE—In pursuance and by virtue of second amended decrees of foreclosure and sale in favor of the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, made and entered in the district court of the United States for the eastern district of Michigan, southern division, and of the district court of the United States for the northern district of Ohio, western division, and of the district court of the United States for the southern district of Ohio, eastern division, which second amended decrees were dated on the 12th day of May, A. D. 1913, and entered in said eastern district of Michigan, southern division, May 12, 1913, in said Northern district of Ohio, western division, May 13, 1913, and in said southern district of Ohio, eastern division, May 16, 1913, in causes pending in said respective courts, and entitled: The New York Trust Company, complainant, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, et al., defendants; Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, defendant; William J. Courtney, et al., complainants, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, defendant; (consolidated cause, in equity); the causes pending in the said districts of Ohio being ancillary to the cause pending in the district court of the United States for the eastern district of Michigan, southern division, and in pursuance of supplemental Decree dated on the 29th day of October, A. D., 1913; Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, special master commissioner of said courts, will sell at public auction to the highest and best bidders on Tuesday, the 10th day of February, A. D., 1914, at twelve o'clock noon, standard time, of said day, at the former Delray station building of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, on River street, the same being in the city of Detroit, in the County of Wayne, state of Michigan, the following described property by the said second amended and supplemental decrees in favor of Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company directed to be sold, to-wit: One hundred (100) shares of stock of the Toledo Southern Railway Company, being the entire capital stock of said company, and representing the ownership of all the real estate at Toledo, Ohio, owned by the Toledo Southern Railway Company as described in said supplemental decree dated October 29th, 1913, which is the basis of said stock, free from any and all claims of the parties to said cause, or their successors or assigns, as against said Toledo Southern Railway Company or said real estate; said one hundred shares of stock being certain property of the said Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, included in the mortgage or deed of trust from that company to Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant herein, dated May 2, 1905, to secure certain bonds designated as consolidated bonds.

The said Special Master Commissioner will accept no bid of less than $35,000 upon the said one hundred shares of stock of the Toledo Southern Railway Company upon a sale thereof. The said minimum sum was fixed by the court in said supplemental decree in order to prevent a sacrifice and to protect the interests of all concerned as the least sum for which the said shares of stock should be sold.

The master will accept no bid for the said shares of stock from any bidder who shall not place in his hands or deposit with him at the time of making the bid, as a pledge that the bidder will make good his bid if accepted by the court, the sum of twenty-five dollars per share in cash, certified chequue or certificate of deposit approved by the master, which sum shall be forfeited in case the bidder, if successful, shall fail to make good his bid and comply with the terms of said decree, and any orders thereafter made as to future payments or otherwise, but which said sum shall be applied on the purchase price of the said stock in case of such compliance, or will be returned in case the said bid is not successful or the sale shall not be confirmed by the court. The right of the court is reserved to reject any bid and to resell the said stock or any part thereof, upon the failure of the purchaser to comply with any order of the court as to the payment of the purchase price or any part thereof, in cash or otherwise, as may be directed if the said shares of stock shall be purchased by or on behalf of the holders of the said consolidated bonds, the remainder of the purchase price over and above the amount in cash required to be paid at the time of sale, may be paid either in cash or in receivers' certificates, or in claims payable under article 8 of the aforesaid decrees in favor of The New York Trust Company, or in consolidated bonds, and overdue coupons thereon, at such proportionate value as the holders thereof will be entitled to receive thereon respectively on distribution of the proceeds of such sale, in case such purchase price were wholly paid in cash.

Any person proposing to purchase said stock at the said sale is referred to the said second amended and supplemental decrees in this notice specifically mentioned, for a more full and complete description of the said stock which it is proposed to sell in accordance with the foregoing notice, and also for the terms and conditions upon which the sale of the said stock shall be made.

The said three second amended and supplemental decrees in favor of Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, are exact duplicates of each other, and may be found filed and recorded in the offices of the clerks of the United States District Courts at Detroit, Michigan, at Toledo, Ohio, and at Columbus, Ohio, respectively, and are subject to the inspection of the public generally. Certified copies of the said second amended and supplemental decrees will be in the possession of the said special master at the time and place of sale, and may be inspected by interested persons or bidders.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Investors Buy Washington Heights Apartment Houses—Old Landmark at Fifty-ninth Street and Seventh Avenue to be Torn Down—Bronx, Brooklyn and Suburban Sales.

Investment buying in the Upper Washington Heights section led to the change of ownership yesterday of a recently completed apartment house in 169th Street, between Amsterdam and Audubon Avenues. The building is the six-story house at 507 West 169th Street, situated 100 feet west of Amsterdam Avenue, and covering a plot 50 by 81.7. It was completed last Spring by the sellers, the Fairdeal Realty Company, of which Aaron Goodman is President.

The buyer is Ferdinand Schmitt, who will hold it for investment. The property has been held at $70,000. The apartments are all practically rented. The Mehring Company acted as the brokers in the transaction.

The six-story apartment house at 506 and 508 West 170th, occupying a plot 50 by 100 feet, is also reported sold to an investor. It is located between Amsterdam and Audubon Avenues, and abuts the 169th Street property sold. Benjamin Shapiro is the owner of record.

59th Street Landmark to Go.

The old wooden building facing Central Park on the southwest corner of Seventh Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street, long used as a café, will be torn down in the Spring and the plot improved with an artistic three-story building for use as a restaurant with dancing rooms. Plans for the structure have just been completed by the architect, Theodore A. Meyer, and the cost of the improvement is estimated at about $75,000. The property is owned by ex-Controller Theodore W. Myers, who declined to renew the lease upon its expiration a few months ago. The plot fronts 26 feet on Seventh Avenue by 100 on Fifty-ninth Street on Central Park South.

St. Vincent's Hospital Buys.

St. Vincent's Hospital has increased its holdings by acquiring the old dwelling at 145 West Eleventh Street, having a frontage of 21.5 feet. It has been purchased from the estate of Louis Varet, and was bought through the brokerage firm of Seton Henry and Douglas Gibbons.

The hospital owns the adjoining house at 147, immediately in the rear of the hospital building, which occupies the remainder of Eleventh Street to the west with its Seventh Avenue frontage extending to Twelfth Street. In the middle of the Seventh Avenue block are four old structures, three of which the hospital owns.

Its present frontage on Eleventh Street is 240.5, and with the two houses lately acquired the total frontage now owned there is 283.3 feet. On Twelfth Street the hospital covers a frontage of 215.7 feet. The adjoining six old dwellings, from 148 to 158, have been purchased lately, making the total frontage now controlled 337.7 feet. The property will be held for enlarging the hospital in the near future.

Resale of West Side Tenement.

Joseph F. A. O'Donnell has sold to Stephen H. Jackson, for investment, the six-story tenement, on a lot 25 by 100, situated at 247 West 143d Street. This property Mr. O'Donnell purchased from Augustus E. & Wendell V. Biser a few months ago.

Eighth Avenue Deal.

The old five-story apartment house at 854 Eighth Avenue, on a lot 25 by 80 feet between Fifty-first and Fifty-second Street, has been sold by John L. Sauervein to James Maloney.

The buyer recently purchased the adjoining property, 856, through the same broker, and now controls a plot fronting 50 feet on the avenue, with substantial improvements on the same. Charles Van Oppen negotiated the sale.

Bronx Borough Sales.

James T. Barry has sold to the Herbst Realty Company a vacant plot, 50 by 100, located on the northeast corner of Clinton Avenue and 179th Street. The purchaser intends to improve the plot with a five-story house. D. H. Spring, in conjunction with G. A. Pfortner, were the brokers in the transaction.

The City Real Estate Company, a corporation which holds property for clients of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, has sold to the Ralpaul Realty Company 1,530 to 1,538 Minford Place, four six-story apartment houses, each on a plot 37.6 by 100. Louis Starr was the broker in the sale, and has also negotiated a lease of the buildings for the new owner.

Brooklyn.

The Henry Pierson Company has sold the two-story private brownstone dwelling 114 Lincoln Place for Edna and Jennie Burnett to purchaser for occupancy, and the apartment building at 609 Sterling Place for Meruk & May to an investor.

New Brooklyn Theatre Leased.

The new moving picture theatre on Twenty-sixth Street, Bath Beach, has been leased by the owner, Ida Novick, to E. T. Tine for a term of five years. The structure, which seats 500 people, has been named the Montauk. E. Y. Eltonhead was the broker in the transaction.

Long Island.

William L. Bowman has sold for Matilda Born her house and plot of ground at Pinson Place, Far Rockaway, to Saul Shakin of Manhattan.

New Jersey.

S. S. Walstrum-Gordon & Forman have sold for the Smith-Singer Realty Company two dwellings, 96 and 100 Hope Street, to Arthur M. Hinman of Brooklyn.

Loans Placed.

M. Morgenthau, Jr., Company has placed for a Mrs. Ettinger a first mortgage loan of $34,000 on the premises, 506 West 172d Street, being 125 feet west of Amsterdam Avenue. This is a five-story store and apartment house, on plot 48.4 by 95 feet; also a first mortgage loan of $22,000, on premises 288 Eighth Avenue, a four-story store and apartment house on plot 24.8 by 100 feet, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Streets, for Parker Mann of Princeton, N. J.

New West Side Theatre.

Shampan & Shampan have filed plans for a moving picture theatre to be erected on a plot of 50 by 100 feet on the south side of 102d Street, 100 feet east of Amsterdam Avenue, for M. Devine, as owner.

Private Dwellings Leased.

Louis Schrag has leased for Vincent Astor the five-story dwelling 55 West Twenty-fifth Street, to Lelia B. Wall, for a term of years

Seton Henry & Douglas Gibbons have leased for Lawrence Benson his furnished house at 61 East Sixty-fourth Street, to Mrs. A. C. Bates.

Pease & Elliman have leased for J. Hopkins Smith the six-story American basement dwelling at 17 East Forty-seventh Street, to J. H. Weaver of Philadelphia.

Lease in Grocery District.

Charles F. Noyes Company has leased for the New York Real Estate Association (George P. Slade, Treasurer, and Alfred R. Kirkus, Secretary) to the Burton & Davis Company the seven-story and basement building 28 and 30 North Moore Street, for a term of ten years, at an aggregate rental of about $60,000.

The lessee is one of the large grocery companies located for many years at the corner of Washington and Franklin Streets. Their new building will give them twice the space that they have at the present time, and the fact that a ten years' lease has been taken shows that the wholesale grocery business is not leaving the district.

Commercial Leases.

The Payson McL. Merrill Company has rented a store at 23 West Thirtieth Street to Silberman Brothers, importers and jobbers of silks.

Schindler & Liebler have leased to Joel Kraus the double store and basement at 1,301 Third Avenue to a client for a term of years.

Albert B. Ashforth has leased to Page & Shaw for a term of years the store and basement at 362 Fifth Avenue, adjoining the corner of Thirty-fourth Street. This store is in the building owned by Francis Burton Harrison, Governor of the Philippines, recently occupied by the Aelian Company, now at Forty-second Street.

The residence of the late M. C. D. Borden, at 25 West Fifty-sixth Street, has been leased for business purposes to W. D. Scardefield for a term of years. Douglas Elliman & Co. and the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company negotiated the lease.

Prompt Return of Valuable Papers

The New York Times:—

Allow me to express my appreciation of the surprising and gratifying results I received from the insertion of the lost advertisement in The Times.

I lost an envelope containing very valuable papers on a street car. But, notwithstanding the value of the package, I was unable to advertise until the next day. One insertion in The Times on the second day after the article was lost enabled me to secure the package.

ORDERS CLUB USED ON THE GANGSTERS

MORE POLICE SUSPENDED

For Last Gang Battle—Four Prisoners to be Arraigned Before Coroner To-day.

Police Commissioner McKay called his Inspectors to Headquarters yesterday and issued instructions that they were to investigate the character and reputation of any person who complained that he had been assaulted by a policeman. He told them to pass this word along to the Captains and have them relay it to the entire uniformed force.

While the Commissioner would not say so categorically, he allowed it to be understood that patrolmen on post need fear no pressing of charges against them if they used their clubs on young men with no apparent means of support, and of evil reputations. Such was the interpretation put on his remarks by his subordinates.

The restoration of night-stick rule was universally welcomed by the police, who have chafed under the taunts of gangsters, since the early days of the Gaynor régime. The uniformed men have felt that it was a double injustice to be brought up on charges at the instance of some gangster, whom they had affronted and at the same time be held responsible for disorderly conditions which a liberal use of the club might have cured. Technically the police may use their clubs only in self-defense or in overcoming resistance to lawful arrest, the Commissioner explained with a smile.

Mayor Mitchel said that his statement of Saturday had been correctly construed to mean that the police might use their clubs on the gangsters. He said:

"I hope the police will use their clubs on every gunman on whom they can lay their hands. I don't mean by any means, however, to relax the very admirable policy of the late Mayor Gaynor with reference to the use of clubs on decent citizens. I shall have no hesitancy, however, in sanctioning the use of clubs on men who start gun riots in the street."

When Commissioner McKay read this statement he exclaimed:

"Fine! Fine!"

Mayor Mitchel praised the work of the police yesterday, saying:

"The police seem to be doing very good work. They are going along very vigorously. That's what I told the Commissioner I wanted them to do. I told him to be unremitting and to go right after gangs."

Two Policemen Suspended.

Police Commissioner McKay announced the suspension yesterday of two more policemen attached to the Fifth Street Station, the Captain of which, John F. Sweeney, was suspended for neglect of duty following the killing of Frederick Straus on Friday night in a gang battle. Patrolman Joseph Rosenstock was charged with having failed to notify his superiors that he had been warned of possible trouble at the Lenny-Dyke ball. Lieut. George S. Wheeler was suspended following an investigation of the complaint of Samuel Lipsig of 58 St. Mark's Place that Lieut. Wheeler had rebuffed him when he made his first demand that Edward Morris, ("Fat Bull,") the Arlington Hall "bouncer," should be arrested for aiding one of the gunmen to escape. Morris was let out on $100 bail yesterday and gave active aid to the police. He had formed the acquaintance of many gangsters, Mr. Dougherty said yesterday, while acting as a strikebreaker on the east side.

Commissioner McKay said that he hoped that by co-operation between the Mayor's Bureau of Licenses, which licenses dance halls, and the Police Department a close grip could be kept on the giving of balls and entertainments by gangsters. He said that the character of dance hall managers would be thoroughly investigated. He said he believed it unnecessary to require police licenses for all public dances, such as are now required for masked balls.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty interviewed Lenny and Dyke yesterday at his office. He said they convinced him that the alleged Lenny and Dyke Association, in whose name the ball of Friday evening was held, had no existence. He said they admitted having used the name of Joe Brown as President and Paul Vaccarelli (Paul Kelly) as Vice President without permission. Other names on the list, such as those of "Jack" Sirocco and "Chick" Tricker were also used in the same way on the placards of the ball. The printing for the affair was ordered by Dyke, who has been a bartender in Tricker's saloon, and by Lenny, who is a former Philadelphia pugilist. They told Mr. Dougherty that they gave a ball every year as a sort of benefit for themselves. The records of Arlington Hall for last year had their ball on the books as of Jan. 22, followed by the words "No trouble."

Among the statements made by Lenny and Dyke to Mr. Dougherty was one that the man who was the target for the fire begun by members of the Dopey Benny Gang was not Charles Piazza, against whom the Dopey Bennys had a grudge, but a man who was almost his double, and whom they mistook for him from their ambush across the street.

"Dopey Benny" and his three followers, "Waxie" Gordon, Rubin Kaplan, and "Little Abie" Beckerman, will be arraigned this morning before Coroner Feinberg. Mr. Dougherty said last night that he had all his witnesses ready for this hearing, but believed that a postponement would be requested by the counsel for the prisoners. Ex-Magistrate C. G. F. Wahle, "Benny's" personal counsel, said that he had no plans to announce and would take the line of action indicated by developments at the arraignment.

Gunmen Shoot Woman.

The announcement by the police that they would sternly follow up all outbreaks of gun fighting in the street did not prevent a shooting affray yesterday noon before the banking house of R. J. Bajardi, 5 Monroe Street. Two men appeared on the street, which was crowded with shoppers and pushcart merchants, and each fired two shots at the other. One of the bullets pierced the arm of Mrs. Maria Farauxto of 146 Cherry Street, who was standing before the grocery store of Condoloro Gatto at 6 Monroe Street. Another bullet shattered the window of the store and covered Vincenzo Monino of 1 Monroe Street, a customer, with flying glass, which inflicted several cuts on his face and scalp.

Capt. Mahoney of the Oak Street Station rushed his reserves to the scene to quell the disorder which followed the shooting. Gatto's store was dynamited on Oct. 12 by bomb men after he had received threatening letters. He said that he did not believe the shooting yesterday had anything to do with the bomb outrage. Mrs. Farauxto was treated at the Hudson Street Hospital. The police are hunting for the two gunmen, of whom they have good descriptions.

As a tribute to Frederick Straus, clerk of Part VII. of the City Court, Judge McAvoy, sitting in that part, adjourned court yesterday, after pronouncing a eulogy upon the man who was killed by gang fighters in their pistol battle before Arlington Hall last Friday evening. Judge McAvoy ordered his remarks spread on the record of the court. He said that in his twenty-five years of service, Mr. Straus had earned the commendation of all those with whom his duties brought him into contact.

LONG TERMS FOR GANGMEN.

Two of Paul Kelly's Followers Sent to Sing Sing.

Judge Rosalsky sounded a warning to gangsters yesterday in the Court of General Sessions when he imposed sentences of long terms on two Paul Kelly gangmen who were convicted of manslaughter. They were Joseph Viserti, 22 years old, of 320 East 113th Street, and Santa Barbara, 25, of 58 West 116th Street, convicted of killing Jerry Maida in a quarrel over the division of white slave territory. The murder took place in front of Paul Kelly's garage, in West Forty-first Street, last June.

"Drastic action must be taken in cases like these," said Judge Rosalsky. "Gangs of young hoodlums such as these infest our city, quarreling among themselves and shooting promiscuously, with the result that innocent persons are often killed or badly injured. It is time to call a halt."

Barbara was sentenced to Sing Sing for not less than eight years and three months nor more than nineteen years and six months. Viserti got a sentence of not less than seven years and nine months nor more than eighteen years and six months.

Two boys, Peter Domph, 14 years old, of 234 East 102d Street, and Israel Schlar, 15, of 58 East 103d Street, who were arrested at 217 East 104th Street, the hang-out of the "Red Pepper" gang, and found to be armed with revolvers, were before Justice Hoyt in the Children's Court yesterday and remanded for a further hearing.

Magistrate Campbell held two other gun carriers, arraigned before him in the Harlem Police Court, in $1,000 bail each for the Grand Jury. They were Ruben Margolies, a driver of 305 East 118th Street, and John Schuck of 163 East Ninety-sixth Street, who said he was an employe of the Department of Street Cleaning. Each of them was carrying a revolver fully loaded when searched by the detectives.

Judge Burt J. Humphrey, in the Queens County Court, yesterday, said he proposed to support the police in driving thieves and gangsters out of that borough, and by way of emphasizing his words he sentenced Cosmo Casmano, 29 years old, of Babylon, L. I., to not less than seven years or more than fifteen years in Sing Sing, and Francesco Furia, 20 years old, of Cherry Street, Manhattan to not less than two and a half or more than four and a half years in Sing Sing, while Angelo Gambo, 21 years old, of 14 Monroe Street, Manhattan, was sent to the Elmira Reformatory.

The three men were caught at Rockaway Beach last Spring, where they had robbed Summer homes. Gambo aided in the conviction of his two companions by turning State's evidence.

CROWD ATTACKS DETECTIVES.

Man They Arrested as Pickpocket Shouted He Was Being Robbed.

Detectives McCloskey and Conroy of Brooklyn were roughly handled by the early morning rush hour crowd on the Brooklyn Plaza of the Williamsburg Bridge yesterday when they arrested Jacob Berman, 40 years old, of 164 Sutter Avenue. They accuse him of stealing a purse from Bertha Rederbaurer of 16 Maujer Street.

Many complaints of pickpockets operating on the Plaza had been made and the two detectives disguised as laborers were detailed to watch for them. They saw the man grab the woman's purse and arrested him. Berman then shouted he was being robbed.

The crowd, not recognizing the detectives, started to beat them before a policeman came up. In the scuffle Berman threw away the purse, but in his pocket the police found another pocket book about which the prisoner refused to give any information. Later in the day Magistrate Naumer in the Manhattan Avenue Court held Berman in $1,000 bail for a hearing.

STABBED FOR "SQUEALING."

Man Who Gave Information on Drug Traffic Dying of Wounds.

Charges that Joseph Randazzo, who was found Sunday night in a saloon at Third Avenue and Sixteenth Street with twenty-two stab wounds in his body, was a victim under the gang code which deals with "squealers," are being investigated by Assistant District Attorney Wilmot. Randazzo was said to be dying at Bellevue Hospital last night.

The injured men recently gave Mr. Wilmot information which was instrumental in the capture of James di Lorenzo, said to be one of the heads of the cocaine distributors in this city. Di Lorenzo was indicted for selling cocaine, and was released on bail last week.

John Gravino, a brother-in-law of di Lorenzo, who was arrested last month in a raid on a Sixty-first Street apartment which is said to be the headquarters of the cocaine distributors, was sentenced to a year in the penitentiary yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions. He was charged with having cocaine in his possession.

According to the authorities, Gravino had been concerned for years in the sale of opium. He, James di Lorenzo, and Mrs. Catherine di Lorenzo, mother of James, are said to be the heads of the ring.

QUESTION WOUNDED MAN.

Detectives Hear of Pistol Fight on West Side.

A man who said he was John Bertie, 28 years old, a chauffeur, of 430 West Fifty-third Street, limped into the Polyclinic Hospital last night suffering from a bullet wound in the left thigh. He said he had been shot at Fifty-third Street and Tenth Avenue when one of three men who were fighting drew a revolver and discharged it. The men ran away, he said.

Bertie's wound is not serious, but his story interested the police, and several detectives questioned him for some time. The police had not heard of a shooting at Fifty-third Street and Tenth Avenue, but Bertie persisted in his story.

Complaint of "Poison Talker."

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 12.—Complaints have been made to the police of Ventnor City and Chelsea by several women that a woman has been calling them up on the telephone and telling them scandalous stories about their husbands which are without foundation.

VICE COMMITTEE PRAISES THE POLICE

CAPTAINS ARE HAMPERED

Rule Requiring Evidence Against Houses on Suspected List Observed Too Strictly, Committee Thinks.

A "clean bill of health" for 1913 has been accorded to the police by the Committee of Fourteen, which was organized to fight commercialized vice in this city. The committee's annual report, which will be issued to-day, asserts that the vice situation is showing steady improvement in its outward aspects at least.

In its report for 1912 the committee was unsparing in criticisms of the Police Department. It says in the findings for 1913 that there has been a general "cleaning up" since the Rosenthal murder, and asserts that the "lid" has been kept on for a full year. The assertion that a "closed town" is certain to suffer from an increase of crimes against women, the committee holds, has been disproved by the experience of New York in the last year.

The Police Commissioner, the committee believes, would be able to condemn more houses as disorderly if a decision holding that a Police Captain must have "some evidence" before putting a house on the suspected list was less strictly interpreted at Police Headquarters.

It is pointed out that there is a great discrepancy between the number of such houses reported officially to the Commissioner and the number of complaints received from citizens. The report says on this point:

> In a given period the police reported officially 184 disorderly houses, while complaints were received from citizens of 1,487 similar places, 405 being the cause of more than one complaint. This difference is not peculiar to the Waldo administration. In an endeavor to find the reason for this discrepancy this committee asked Commissioner Waldo if the places known or believed by its secretaries to be disorderly were so reported officially. Brooklyn resorts were selected for the test, as it was understood that the official list contained no addresses whatsoever, and the committee's list for that borough was relatively short. The requirement of "some evidence" gives a convenient excuse for failure to report.
> The committee proposes to take up this question with the Police Commissioner and secure, if possible, specific instructions to the Captains as to what they shall consider "some evidence." It seems unreasonable to believe that accredited peace officers cannot do as much as the secretaries of an unofficial committee. Certainly if such secretaries can, for many years, make and successfully use a so-called blacklist, that police officials can do the same and much more.

Regret is expressed that some of the Judges in Special Sessions dole out fines instead of jail sentences to disorderly housekeepers. Statistics are cited to show that 19 per cent. of the arrests in the last year resulted in acquittals as compared with only 8 per cent. in the previous year. The percentage of jail sentences dropped from 75 per cent. in 1912 to 50 per cent. in 1913. The city collected in fines in the last year $6,500. The committee expresses its conviction that no good results are obtained where fines are imposed, and announced its determination to continue in its efforts to wipe out the fine system in Special Sessions in disorderly house cases. This has already been done in the Women's Night Court.

The committee, in indorsing the late Mayor Gaynor's policy of leaving the excise problem in the hands of the Excise Commissioner, announces that it will push vigorously its campaign with the State Legislature to obtain an adequate force of special agents for the Excise Department.

"During the administration of Mayor Gaynor," says the report, "the cases of violation of the Liquor Tax law brought by the municipal police fell from 3,476 in 1909 to 854 in 1912. Only in exceptional cases are arrests now made for excise violation, being intended as a warning to the saloon proprietor of some other violation of which legal evidence is not obtainable. The Excise Commissioner, however, with only sixty agents for the entire State, the force at present provided by the State law, cannot police the traffic if he would; consequently the law is not enforced. This committee proposes to continue seeking to secure what seems to it an adequate force of State agents."

Another attempt will be made in the Board of Aldermen to pass the so-called "name-plate ordinance," which requires owners to erect and maintain at the principal entrances of their buildings a plate bearing their names and addresses. An ordinance to this effect was killed last year, and a similar ordinance, but less drastic, has been drawn and is expected to come up soon.

The report acknowledges large contributions in the year from Andrew Carnegie, James B. Ford, Joseph P. Grace, Edward S. Harkness, Mrs. D. Willis James, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Mrs. Willard D. Straight, Paul M. Warburg, and Felix Warburg. Dr. John P. Peters is Chairman of the Committee of Fourteen.

TAKES UP EDGAR CASE.

McKay Asks Why Police Failed to Report Missing Man.

Commissioner McKay ordered an investigation yesterday into the failure of the police to find William A. Edgar, an 84-year old retired merchant, of 254 Stuyvesant Avenue, Brooklyn, who failed to return to his home last Wednesday and for whom a police alarm was issued.

After three days of failure on the part of the police, the grandson of the missing man discovered him in Bellevue Hospital, where he had been taken with concussion of the brain from the Hudson Street Hospital. At the latter hospital, the record showed he had been brought in, suffering from injuries sustained in being run down by a motor car before 26 Broadway.

Commissioner McKay said he wanted a satisfactory explanation of why the police did not find Mr. Edgar, when it was apparently such an easy matter. At both hospitals he had given his correct name and a full description had been furnished.

Finds Her Husband Dead.

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 12.—William J. Henderson, an electrician employed by the Public Service Corporation at its distributing plant in Putnam Avenue, did not come home this evening, and his wife went to the plant to find out why. When no answer came to her knocks at the door she called a policeman, and the two started in together. On the other side of the threshold Mrs. Henderson found the body of her husband. He had come in contact either with one of the dynamos or with a live wire.

SAFEBLOWER WALSH SIGHS FOR OLD PALS

NOVICES SPOIL THE GAME

Has Been in Many Prisons and Faces Another Because His Auto Lamps Were Turned Low.

Second Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty glowed with detective satisfaction yesterday when, after a two months' hunt, he captured in the person of John Walsh, a safeblower of international reputation going back over thirty years. Back in the old days, when he was a young Pinkerton detective, Dougherty had known what it was to seek vainly for the elusive Walsh, and the arrest made yesterday was due solely to the fact that Walsh had gone motoring in New Jersey with poorly equipped headlights. Walsh is wanted in Elizabeth for having had burglar's tools in his possession, and he is locked up in the Mulberry Street Station pending a demand for him by the Elizabethan authorities.

Walsh has known the inside of many prisons, both English and American, and has traveled under various names. It was a favorite Sherlock Holmes axiom that men in hiding their identies under assumed names would usually keep their own initials. John Walsh has been variously known as Jack Welch, James Wesley, John Ward, John Warren, John Waters, James Waldron, James Wrenn, and John Wogan. He left a J. W. trail wherever he went.

In his day he has associated with many of the best safeblowers of this country and Europe, and talking yesterday with Dougherty he shook his head sadly over the fact that all his old friends were dropping out of sight and that the profession was crowded with youngsters of no seasoning whatever. Dougherty credits Walsh with having been the first man to introduce nitroglycerine into England for the burglarious blowing of safes.

It was on the night of Nov. 14 in Elizabeth that a State license inspector, noting the dim lights of a passing automobile, halted it and, with its two occupants, drove to a nearby garage for closer inspection. The driver remained with the car but the prosperous looking elderly man who was his companion suddenly slipped away and was not seen thereabouts again.

The Inspector guessed why when he found burglars' tools, automatic pistols, and what looked like poisoned meat hidden under the seats. Finally, Dougherty says, they wrung from the chauffeur the admission that Walsh was the man who had disappeared and that the objective of the night's ride was the safe in the Post Office at Lakewood. This driver also confessed, Dougherty says, to having achieved with Walsh the robbery at Fox's family theatre, in East 125th Street, on Oct. 12, when two men of the audience, lingering in the auditorium till it was empty after the night's performance, held up the wtachman and made off with more than $200 from the box office.

The driver, who said he was Daniel Reilly, was held and a search was started for Walsh by two of Dougherty's men who became interested. It was not until yesterday that the man was found in his home in East 126th Street.

The Headquarters record of the prisoner shows an arrest as far back as 1882, when he was sentenced to Sing Sing for the robbery of a jewelry store. The next year found him arrested in England in company with John Doliard of Scotland Yard fame. He got five years in an English prison, and it was not until 1888 that he was free to be arrested again—this time in Norfolk, Va., when he was suspected of complicity in a $30,000 robbery.

KLAW and ERLANGER'S MIRTHFUL MUSICAL COMEDY MASTERPIECE
THE LITTLE CAFE
Music by Ivan Caryll.
Book and Lyrics by C. M. S. McLellan.
"The Little Cafe" reaches the record height. There has been no greater flight of airy fancy. It soars to an illimitable atmosphere of pure delight. It solves the problem of the lighter-than-air journeys through that dreamland of pleasure to which mortals have never entered heretofore in the realms of musical comedy. With its turns and twists and titivations it volplanes through mirth, beauty and melody and carries you to that eighth heaven of delight, so to speak, causing one to regret to ever return to earth again. The consolation is that "The Little Cafe" is always with you, so that you can repeat at will your joyous experience.
